Annotations

1. Authority of Indian governments

While Congress retains paramount authority to legislate for and enforce its laws on all the tribes in certain respects, it has recognized the authority of Indian governments over their reservation and if this power is to be taken away from them it is for Congress to do it. Oliver v. Udall (1962) 306 F.2d 819.

Indian tribes have a status higher than that of states and are subordinate and dependent nations possessed of all powers as such only to the extent that they have expressly been required to surrender them by the superior sovereign, the United States. Native American Church v. Navajo Tribal Council (1959) 272 F.2d 131.

2. Tribal immunity

“We disagree with TBI’s position that 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) authorizes suits against the Navajo Tribe if a violation of civil rights is asserted. Neither the Navajo Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. §§ 1–9, nor 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) explicitly authorizes suits against the Navajo Nation. [. . .] . . . [T]his is a breach of contract action brought against the Navajo Nation, therefore, arguments of civil rights abuse under the Navajo Bill of Rights is inappropriate. [. . .] Instead of arguing civil rights violations, TBI should have argued whether any provisions in the contract waived the Tribe’s immunity from suit.” TBI Contractors v. Navajo Tribe, 6 Nav. R. 57, 61 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

3. Property interests

“The Navajo Nation Election Code, as it applies to these schools, does not affect property interests. It only affects management issues which are of interest to the Navajo Nation as a sovereign. Accordingly, we hold that there was no ‘taking’ by the imposition of new regulatory requirements and this no violation of due process.” Rough Rock Community School, Inc. v. Navajo Nation, 7 Nav. R. 199, 201 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1996).

§ 1. Other rights not impaired; deletion or abridgment only by public referendum

The enumeration herein of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people. No provision of this chapter, the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights, shall be abridged or deleted by amendment or otherwise, except by referendum vote of the Navajo electorate, in accordance with applicable provisions of the laws of the Navajo Nation.

Annotations

1. Purpose

“The Navajo Nation Bill of Rights (1986) is a fundamental, overriding statute which, by its own terms and necessary implication, allows judicial review to decide whether another law or an act of the Navajo Nation Government is void because of a violation of fundamental rights. We have judicial review authority because the Navajo Nation Council made the policy decision that there would be a fundamental law which is superior to other laws, and which cannot be changed without a vote of the Navajo People.” Bennett v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 6 Nav. R. 319, 324 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

2. Bills of attainder

“... [T]here was no ‘punishment’ and thus, there was no bill of attainder in violation of 1 N.T.C. § 3, in the disqualification of MacDonald as a candidate [pursuant to 11 N.N.C. § 8(A)(7)].” MacDonald v. Redhouse, 6 Nav. R. 342, 345 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1991).

“Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425 (1977), recognizes three tests for determining whether punishment is present. These tests are adopted by this Court. The first test is the historical experience test. This test determines punishment in terms of what historically has been regarded as punishment for purposes of bills of attainder and bills of pains under the law of England and the United States. The historical test may include what historically has been regarded as punishment under Navajo common law. [...] The second test is the functional test. This test considers the extent to which a law challenged as a bill of attainder furthers any nonpunitive purposes underlying the law. The third test is the motivational test.

The inquiry here is whether the legislative record evinces a legislative intent to punish.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“We adopt the common definition of bill of attainder; therefore, under the Indian Civil Rights Act and Navajo Bill of Rights, a bill of attainder is a law that legislatively determines guilt and inflicts punishment upon an identifiable person or group without the protections of trial in the Navajo courts. This definition has two elements: first, an element of punishment must be inflicted by some tribal authority other than tribal judicial authority; and second, an element of specificity, that is, a singling out of an individual or identifiable group for infliction of punishment.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“A bill of attainder is apparently unknown to traditional Navajo culture.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

3. Tribal immunity

Neither the Navajo Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. §§ 1-9, nor 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) explicitly authorizes suits against the Navajo Nation. [...] ... R. 57, 61 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

§ 2. Equality of rights not abridged by entitlements, benefits or privileges; nor by affirmative action necessary to support rights of the Navajo People to economic opportunity

Recognition, enactment, lawful implementation and enforcement of provisions for specific entitlements, benefits and privileges based upon membership in the Navajo Nation or in other recognized Tribes of Indians and affirmative action in support of Navajo or other Indian preference in employment and business contracting or otherwise necessary to protect and support the rights of Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are recognized as fundamental individual rights of all human beings. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the Navajo Nation on account of sex nor shall any person within its jurisdiction be denied equal protection in accordance with the laws of the Navajo Nation, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property, without due process of law. Nor shall such rights be deprived by any bill of attainder or ex post facto law.

Annotations

1. Interpretation

The proper interpretation of the Navajo Equal Rights guarantee is that there can be no legal result on account of a person's sex, no presumption in giving benefits or disabilities gauged by a person's sex and no legal policy which has the effect of favoring one sex or the other. Help v. Silvers a.k.a. Silver Fox, 4 Nav. R. 46 (Nav. Ct. App. 1983).

2. Presumptions

"Customary usage is therefore viewed as a property interest by the Navajo Nation." In re: Estate of Wauneka, Sr., 5 Nav. R. 79, 81 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1986).

Under the Navajo Equal Rights Amendment, there can be no presumption, in a child custody dispute, that a young child should be in the care of the mother. Help v. Silvers a.k.a. Silver Fox, 4 Nav. R. 46 (Nav. Ct. App. 1983).

3. Tribal immunity

"Due process rights, viewed as quasi-constitutional rights in our system as far as the Indian Civil Rights Act and Navajo Nation Bill of Rights are concerned, may be asserted only if one can show the denial of the right to an opportunity to be heard in a meaningful way." In re: Estate of Plummer, Sr., 6 Nav. R. 271, 276 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

"The rights protected in the Navajo Due Process Clause are fundamental, but they are not absolute, limitless, or unrestricted. They are considered in light of the enjoyment and protection of rights by all Navajos. We require that everyone coming before our courts have an opportunity to be heard at a meaningful time and in a meaningful way. That is the right to one's day in court." In re: Estate of Plummer, Sr., 6 Nav. R. 271, 275 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

"We disagree with TBI's position that 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) authorizes suits against the Navajo Tribe if a violation of civil rights is asserted. Neither the Navajo Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. §§ 1-9, nor 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) explicitly authorizes suits against the Navajo Nation. [. . .] . . . [T]his is a breach of contract action brought against the Navajo Nation, therefore, arguments of civil rights abuse under the Navajo Bill of Rights is inappropriate. [. . .] Instead of arguing civil rights violations, TBI should have argued whether any provisions in the contract waived the Tribe's immunity from suit." TBI Contractors v. Navajo Tribe, 6 Nav. R. 57, 61 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

4. Due process

"The Navajo Nation Bill of Rights recognizes liberty as a fundamental right. Liberty cannot be taken away unless it is done using a fair process ('due process') and the law must be evenly applied ('equal protection of the law'). For purposes of due process of law under Navajo common law, the right to participate in the political process is considered a protected liberty right. Begay v. Navajo Nation Election Administration, No. SC-CV-27-02, slip op. at 3 (Nav. Sup. Ct. July 31, 2002).

"The Navajo Nation Election Code, as it applies to these schools, does not affect property interests. It only affects management issues which are of interest to the Navajo Nation as a sovereign. Accordingly, we hold that there was no "taking" by the imposition of new regulatory requirements and this no violation of due process." Rough Rock Community School, Inc. v. Navajo Nation, 7 Nav. R. 199, 201 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1996).

"This court has noted that the concept of due process was not brought to the Navajo Nation by the Indian Civil Rights Act nor the Navajo Bill of Rights. Instead, due process is fundamental fairness in a Navajo cultural context." In the Matter of the Estate of Goldtooth Begay #2, 7 Nav. R. 29, 31 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1992).

" . . . [T]here is a strong and fundamental tradition that any Navajo can participate in the processes of government, and no person who is not otherwise disqualified by a reasonable law can be prohibited from holding public office. Therefore, there is sufficient liberty interest for the application of the due process rule regarding the invalidity of vague statutes." Bennett v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 6 Nav. R. 319, 325 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

"Navajo due process must be interpreted in a way that is beneficial to the Navajo Nation." Sells v. Espil, 6 Nav. R. 195, 199 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

"Any due process requirements attendant to placing a Chairman or Vice Chairman on administrative leave will depend upon a finding that the official's life, liberty or property interest has been adversely affected by Navajo governmental action." In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

2 N.T.C. § 4005, which gives him the right to explain to his constituents the grievances against him and to be voted out of office, or retained, by persons who were present during his explanation." In re: Removal of Katenay, 6 Nav. R. 81, 85 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

"When Navajo sovereignty and cultural autonomy are at stake, the Navajo courts must have broad-based discretion in interpreting the due process clauses of the ICRA and NBR, and the courts may apply Navajo due process in a way that protects civil liberties while preserving Navajo culture and self-government." Billie v. Abbott, 6 Nav. R. 66, 74 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

"Therefore, we hold that a civil forfeiture proceeding must provide due process as set forth in the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. § 3; the Indian Civil Rights Act, 25 U.S.C. § 1302(8), and Navajo common law." Begay v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 20, 24 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

"A person alleged to be in indirect civil or criminal contempt of court must be notified of the charges, have a right to be represented by counsel, have a reasonable time to prepare a defense, and have an opportunity to be heard. [. . .] The rules of criminal procedure are also applicable to indirect criminal contempt proceedings." In the Matter of Contempt of Mann, 5 Nav. R. 125, 128 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

"The power of Navajo courts to punish for contempt must be exercised within the bounds of due process embodied in the Indian Civil Rights Act, [. . .], and the Navajo Bill of Rights . . ." In the Matter of Contempt of Mann, 5 Nav. R. 125, 126 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

"The rule is that in the absence of special rules of procedure adopted by a body, or adopted for it by an outside power having the right to do so, its procedure is governed by parliamentary law." Mustach v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 5 Nav. R. 115, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

"Due process requires that notice of hearing be given sufficiently in advance of the scheduled date of hearing, so that the party will have reasonable time to prepare." Mustach v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 5 Nav. R. 115, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

"We refuse to require compliance with procedural due process for agency discussions that do not seek to deprive a person of a property right." Yazzie v. Jumbo, 5 Nav. R. 75, 77 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1986).

5. Contempt proceedings

" . . . [N]avajo courts must still afford due process protections in direct contempt proceedings. The judge must advise the contemnor of the charges and give the contemnor an opportunity to explain the contemptuous conduct. The order of contempt must show that the judge saw or heard the conduct constituting the contempt and that the contempt was committed in the presence of the court. The order must also state the facts constituting the contempt and the punishment imposed." In the Matter of Contempt of Mann, 5 Nav. R. 125, 128 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

6. Trial procedure

"We have never held that a party's right to due process is violated when that party fails to comply with applicable time limits. [. . .] When a party does not comply with court rules or abuses court process (as in the failure to comply with discovery orders), the courts have the power to rule that the party has given up his right to be heard." Yazzie, et al. v. James, et al., 7 Nav. R. 324, 328 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1998).

"The due process clause of the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights required the special prosecutor to prove to the trial court, in an adversarial hearing, that the evidence it used in preparing its case and the evidence offered at trial were not based on or derived from the information MacDonald gave to any official under either a formal or informal grant of immunity." Navajo Nation v. Peter MacDonald, Jr., 7 Nav. R. 1, 13 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1992).

"To require a judge, who did not preside over the trial, to enter findings and a final decision in a case with which he is unfamiliar, is to deny the parties due process of law. [. . .] We hold that, within the Navajo Nation, only the judge who presided at the trial shall enter findings of fact, conclusions of law and the final judgment or order." Benally v. Black, 5 Nav. R. 137, 138 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

7. Notice

"The fundamental rights involved [when and how a court accepts a plea to a criminal charge] are the right to not be deprived of liberty without due process of law, and the right to be informed of the nature and cause of accusation in criminal proceedings." Stanley v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 284, 285 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

"The concept of due process was not brought to the Navajo Nation by the Indian Civil Rights Act, 25 U.S.C. § 1302(8), or the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. § 3. The Navajo people have an established custom of notifying all involved parties in a controversy and allowing them, and even other interested parties, an opportunity to present and defend their positions. This custom is still followed today by the Navajo people in the resolution of disputes." Begay v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 20, 24 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

"We hold only that the forfeiture of an automobile demands notice and a hearing. Navajo court proceedings must comply with the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights and the Indian Civil Rights Act, and as such, we must ensure compliance with procedural and substantive due process before someone is deprived of their private property.” Begay v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 20, 24 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

1 N.N.C. § 4

“It is an established rule that notice to the counsel of record serves as notice to the client.” Chavez v. Tome, 5 Nav. R. 183, 189 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1987).

8. Retroactive and ex post facto laws

“The election reforms of 1989 and 1990 are not ex post facto laws, made to punish MacDonald, but laws which are well within the competence of the Council and are designed to promote the integrity of public office.” MacDonald v. Redhouse, 6 Nav. R. 342, 346 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1991).

“Ex post facto laws are prohibited by the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights at 1 N.T.C. § 3.” MacDonald v. Redhouse, 6 Nav. R. 342, 345 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1991).

“There is no property right to hold public office, although a candidate may have a due process right which arises out the Navajo Nation election law.” Bennett v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 6 Nav. R. 319, 325 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

“... [T]he Navajo Nation has no statute which authorizes an award for past child support in a paternity action.” [] “Due process under the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. § 3 (1986 amend.), and the Indian Civil Rights Act, 25 U.S.C. § 1302(8) (1968), dictates that Mariano not be ordered to make up for something which he had no legal duty to do originally.” Descheenie v. Mariano, 6 Nav. R. 26, 29 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

9. Statutory due process rights

“However as in Katenay, a statutory scheme can be the source of due process rights for an elected official. [...] There are a number of basic protections that the Navajo Tribal Council should afford while placing a Chairman or Vice Chairman on administrative leave. These are: (1) the Navajo Tribal Council must act in a properly convened session with a quorum as established in the Navajo Tribal Code; (2) an agenda must be properly adopted by the Council, although procedures for presentation of resolutions and for voting on resolutions are within the power of the Tribal Council; (3) the resolution placing a Chairman or Vice Chairman on administrative leave must pass by a majority vote of the Navajo Tribal Council present, [...]; and (4) the resolution placing a Chairman or Vice Chairman on administrative leave must not be a bill of attainder.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 119 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

10. Jurisdiction

“The due process provision in the Navajo Bill of Rights is not a statute which gives this Court its appellate jurisdiction.” Vandever, v. The Navajo Nation Ethics and Rules Office, 7 Nav. R. 356, 357 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1998).

“In the Navajo Nation, the [minimum] contacts of a defendant shall be evaluated on a case-by-case basis ... ” Sells v. Espil, 6 Nav. R. 195, 198 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

11. Vagueness

“Statutes which confer rights grounded upon Navajo liberties must contain ascertainable standards. That is, they must sufficiently describe standards and requirements for the exercise of the right so that the ordinary person will know what they are and be able to satisfy them.” Bennett v. Navajo Board of Election Supervisors, 6 Nav. R. 319, 327 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

12. Civil judgments

“We hold that section 3 of the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights prohibited her incarceration for failure to pay the judgment on a contract as an unreasonable deprivation of liberty.” Pelt v. Shiprock District Court, No. SC-CV-37-99, slip op. at 7 (Nav. Sup. Ct. May 4, 2001).

“... [G]iven the difficulty in framing a general rule, we will restrict our focus to the question of whether a judgment debtor who fails to pay a civil judgment on a contract for a loan may be incarcerated for failure to pay the judgment, whether the judgment debtor is indigent or not.” Pelt v. Shiprock District Court, No. SC-CV-37-99, slip op. at 3-4 (Nav. Sup. Ct. May 4, 2001).

§ 4. Freedom of religion, speech, press, and the right of assembly and petition

The Navajo Nation Council shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Navajo Nation government for a redress of grievances.

2. Tribal immunity

§ 5. Searches and seizures

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath, or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

1. Construction and application

“The Navajo Nation Bill of Rights (1 N.N.C. § 5 (1995)), like the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution, and Section 1301 of the Indian Civil Rights Act, protects the right of the people to be secure in their persons and property against unreasonable searches and seizures of government, including unreasonable arrest and detention. A person may not be subject to incarcerations except by clear authority of the law. A person is entitled to prompt judicial determination of probable cause soon after arrest, but in no event later than thirty-six (36) hours, if in custody during business days, or forty-eight (48) hours if on a weekend or holiday. The probable cause determination examines whether arrest and detention are justified. However, a determination of probable cause only justifies initial arrest and detention incident to the arrest. When pretrial release is opposed, the question then becomes whether the defendant, if release, will seek to interfere with the proper administration of justice, or is a danger to the community. Our rules of criminal procedure require a finding that ‘the defendant is dangerous to public safety or that the defendant will commit a serious crime, or will seek to intimidate any witness, or will otherwise unlawfully interfere with the administration of justice if released, or for any other reason allowed by law...’ Nav. R. Cr. P. 15(d). To ensure fairness and propriety the court must also, ‘state the reasons for the record.’” Apache v. Navajo Nation, No. SC-CV-34-02, slip op. at 3 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 13, 2003).

“We disagree with TBI’s position that 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) authorizes suits against the Navajo Tribe if a violation of civil rights is asserted. Neither the Navajo Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. §§ 1-9, nor 7 N.T.C. § 204(a) explicitly authorizes suits against the Navajo Nation. [. . .] . . . This section requires that prosecutors prepare criminal complaints which allege the basic parts of the statute creating the crime and sufficient facts fitting within the statute to enable the defendant and his defense attorney to prepare their case. Navajo Nation v. Benson Lee, 4 Nav. R. 185, (W.R. Dist. Ct. 1983).

2. Due process

1. Eminent domain

The Navajo Tribe has the power to take or authorize the taking of property without the consent of the owners of the property or of any interest therein, provided that the owners are given due process of law and just compensation. Dennison v. Tucson Gas and Electric Co., 1 Nav. R. 95, (Nav. Ct. App. 1974).

Under the customary division of governmental power into three separate branches, a division which exists in the Navajo Nation, the right to exercise the power of eminent domain may be authorized only by the legislature and there can be no taking of private property for public use against the will of the owner without direct authority from the legislature and then the taking must be only in the manner prescribed by the legislature. Dennison v. Tucson Gas and Electric Co., 1 Nav. R. 95, (Nav. Ct. App. 1974).

Where Chairman of the Navajo Tribe, on behalf of the tribe, granted gas and electric company a right-of-way across land of plaintiffs, who had a grazing permit and had a home and other improvements on the land, to build and maintain a power line, and just compensation was not given plaintiffs, the taking of the land was illegal and not in accord with 16 N.T.C. §§ 551 et seq., and defense of sovereign immunity from suit was not available to the tribe in plaintiffs suit for damages, an injunction against further trespass and cancellation of their allegedly fraudulently obtained consent to the taking. Dennison v. Tucson Gas and Electric Co., 1 Nav. R. 95 (Nav. Ct. App. 1974).

2. Property interests

"... [E]lected officials have no property interest in their elective office. [...] Thus, fundamental rights are not implicated by the removal of an elected official from office." Vandever, v. The Navajo Nation Ethics and Rules Office, 7 Nav. R. 356, 358 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1998).

"The Navajo Nation Election Code, as it applies to these schools, does not affect property interests. It only affects management issues which are of interest to the Navajo Nation as a sovereign. Accordingly, we hold that there was no "taking" by the imposition of new regulatory requirements and this no violation of due process." Rough Rock Community School, Inc. v. Navajo Nation, 7 Nav. R. 199, 201 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1996).

"The Begays' interest in Mutual Help Housing is a property interest." Begay v. Begay, 6 Nav. R. 160, 161 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

"An elected official does not have a property right in public office. The office belongs to the voting public. Katenay's due process rights do not stem from his position as a holder of elected office. His due process rights are derived from 2 N.T.C. § 4005, which gives him the right to explain to his constituents the grievances against him and to be voted out of office, or retained, by persons who were present during his explanation." In re: Removal of Katenay, 6 Nav. R. 81, 85 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

3. Civil forfeitures

"Therefore, we hold that a civil forfeiture proceeding must provide due process as set forth in the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights, 1 N.T.C. § 3; the Indian Civil Rights Act, 25 U.S.C. § 1302(8), and Navajo common law." Begay v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 20, 24 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

4. Double jeopardy, generally

"The applicable rule is that where the same act or transaction constitutes a violation of two distinct statutory provisions, the test to be applied to determine whether there are two offenses or only one, is whether each provision requires proof of a fact which the other does not." Navajo Nation v. MacDonald, Sr., 6 Nav. R. 432, 446 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1991).

5. Takings

"Requiring uncompensated representation of indigent criminal defendants by NNBA members is not a taking of private property without CN–69–02, November 1, 2002.

Preamble. CN–69–02 contains the following preamble:

1 N.N.C. § 201

“Whereas: 2. The Diné have always been guided and protected by the immutable laws provided by the Diyin, the Diyin Diné’é, Nahasdzaán and Yáidilhił; these laws have not only provided sanctuary for the Diné Life Way but has guided, sustained and protected the Diné as they journeyed upon and off the sacred lands upon which they were placed since time immemorial; and

“3. It is the duty of the Nation’s leadership to preserve, protect and enhance the Diné Life Way and sovereignty of the people and their government; the Nation’s leaders have always lived by these fundamental laws, but the Navajo Nation Council has not acknowledged and recognized such fundamental laws in the Navajo Nation Code; instead the declaration and practice of these fundamental laws have, up to this point in time, been left to those leaders in the Judicial Branch; and

“4. The Navajo Nation Council is greatly concerned that knowledge of these fundamental laws is fading, especially among the young people; the Council is also concerned that this lack of knowledge may be a primary reason why the Diné are experiencing the many negative forms of behavior and natural events that would not have occurred had we all observed and lived by these laws; and

“5. The Navajo Nation Council finds that the Diné Life Way must be protected and assured by incorporating these fundamental laws into the Navajo Nation Code in a manner that will openly acknowledge and recognize their importance and would generate interest to learn among all Diné; and

“6. The Navajo Nation Council finds that the acknowledgment, recognition and teaching of these laws do not contravene 1 N.N.C. § 4; the incorporation of these fundamental laws into the Navajo Nation Code is not governmental establishment of religion nor is it prohibiting the free exercise of religion; the Navajo Nation Council and the Diné have always recognized and respected the principle of these fundamental laws and the Diné have the right and freedom to worship as they choose; and the Navajo Nation Council and the Diné recognize that the Diné Life Way is a holistic approach to living one’s life whereby one does not separate what is deemed worship and what is deemed secular in order to live the Beauty Way; and

“7. The Navajo Nation Council further finds that it is entirely appropriate for the government itself to openly observe these fundamental laws in its public functions such as the installation or inauguration of its leaders and using and placing the appropriate symbols of the Diné Life Way in its public buildings and during legislative and judicial proceeding; and

“8. The Navajo Nation Council further finds that all elements of the government must learn, practice and educate the Diné on the values and principles of these laws; when the judges adjudicate a dispute using these fundamental laws, they should thoroughly explain so that we can all learn; when leaders perform a function using these laws and the symbols of the Diné Life Way, they should teach the public why the function is performed in a certain way or why certain words are used; and

“9. The Navajo Nation Council further finds that all the details and analysis of these laws cannot be provided in this acknowledgment and recognition, and such as effort should not be attempted; the Navajo Nation Council finds that more work is required to elucidate the appropriate fundamental principles and values which are to be used to educate and interpret the statutory laws already in place and those that may be enacted; the Council views this effort today as planting the seed for the education of all Diné so that we can continue to Walk in Beauty.”

The Holy People ordained,
Through songs and prayers,
That
Earth and universe embody thinking,
Water and the sacred mountains embody planning,
Air and variegated vegetation embody life,
Fire, light, and offering sites of variegated sacred stones embody wisdom.
These are the fundamental tenets established.
Thinking is the foundation of planning.
Life is the foundation of wisdom.
Upon our creation, these were instituted within us and we embody them.
Accordingly, we are identified by:
Our Diné name,
Our clan,
Our language,
Our life way,

Our shadow,
Our footprints.

Therefore, we were called the Holy Earth–Surface–People.

From here growth began and the journey proceeds.

Different thinking, planning, life ways, languages, beliefs, and laws appear among us,

But the fundamental laws placed by the Holy People remain unchanged.

Hence, as we were created and with living soul, we remain Diné forever.¹

Annotations1. Application

“Resolutions CN-69-02 (recognizing the Fundamental Laws of the Diné) and CO-72-03 (adopting amendments to 7 N.N.C. § 204 choice of law provisions) expand the Belone rule beyond the initial pleading requirement for asserting the application of Diné bi beenahaz’áanii in our Courts. Resolution CN-69-02 instructs our judges and justices to take notice of Diné bi beenahaz’áanii in their decisions, when applicable. Thus, the failure to raise Diné bi beena- haz’áanii in the initial pleading will not lead to exclusion of the claim. Importantly, we do not suggest that common law be raised with reckless abandon wherever and whenever it strikes one’s fancy, nor that it be raised in dilatory fashion. We suggest that whenever common law is raised, and whether it is raised sua sponte or by a party, the parties should be given ample time and opportunity to address the issue.” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 17 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

§ 202. Diné Bi Beenahaz’áanii

The Diné bi beenahaz’áanii embodies Diyin bitsaądeę’ beehaz’áanii (Traditional Law), Diyin Dine’é bitsaądeę’ beehaz’áanii (Customary Law), Nahas-dzáán dóó Yádiłhił bitsaądeę’ beehaz’áanii (Natural Law), and Diyin Nohookáá Diné bi beehaz’áanii (Common Law).

These laws provide sanctuary for the Diné life and culture, our relationship with the world beyond the sacred mountains, and the balance we maintain with the natural world.

These laws provide the foundation of Diné bi nahat’á (providing leadership through developing and administering policies and plans utilizing these laws as guiding principles) and Diné sovereignty. In turn, Diné bi nahat’á is the foundation of the Diné bi naat’á (government). Hence, the respect for, honor, belief and trust in the Diné bi beenahaz’áanii preserves, protects and enhances the following inherent rights, beliefs, practices and freedoms:

A. The individual rights and freedoms of each Diné (from the beautiful child who will be born tonight to the dear elder who will pass on tonight from old age) as they are declared in these laws; and

B. The collective rights and freedoms of the Diyin Nihookáá Diné as a distinct people as they are declared in these laws; and

C. The fundamental values and principles of Diné Life Way as declared in these laws; and

D. Self-governance; and

E. A government structure consisting of Hózhóójí Nahat’á (Executive Branch), Naat’ájí Nahat’á (Legislative Branch), Hashkééjí Nahat’á (Judicial Branch), and the Naayee’jí Nahat’á (National Security Branch); and

F. That the practice of Diné bi nahat’á through the values and life way embodied in the Diné bi beenahaz’áanii provides the foundation of all laws proclaimed by the Navajo Nation government and the faithful adherence to Diné Bi Nahat’á will ensure the survival of the Navajo Nation; and

G. That Diné bi beenahaz’áanii provides for the future development and growth of a thriving Navajo Nation regardless of the many different thinking, planning, life ways, languages, beliefs, and laws that may appear within the Nation; and

H. The right and freedom of the Diné to be educated as to Diné Bi Beenahaz'áanii; and

I. That Diné Bi Beenahaz'áanii provides for the establishment of governmental relationships and agreements with other nations; that the Diné shall respect and honor such relationships and agreements and that the Diné can expect reciprocal respect and honor from such other nations.

1. Failure to plead

“As the test we announce today requires clear intent in the plain language or structure of a statute to override an exemption, we do not fill any omissions or interpret ambiguous language under Diyin Nohookáá Dine' é Bi Beehaaz'áanii (Navajo Common Law). Our general rules of statutory construction changed with Council passage of Resolution Nos. CN-69-02 (November 13, 2002) (Amending Title 1 of the Navajo Nation Code to Recognize the Fundamental Laws of the Diné) and CO-72-03 (October 24, 2003) (Amending Title VII of the Code), which mandate that we interpret statutes consistent with Navajo Common Law. We have applied this mandate when the plain language of a statute does not cover a particular situation or is ambiguous, but have applied the plain language directly when it applies and clearly requires a certain outcome.” *Tso v. D. The special authority of the Congress of the United States relating to Indian affairs derives from and is consistent with the recognition and fulfillment of its unique trust obligations to protect and preserve the inherent attributes of Indian tribal self-government.

E. The Navajo Nation Council has enacted the Navajo Nation Bill of Rights in recognition of the interests and rights of the People of the Navajo Nation, from whom the sovereignty of the Navajo Nation derives, as express self-limitations upon the exercise of its sovereign powers and has provided herein for specific remedies and redress for individuals from the government of the Navajo Nation as only the governing body of the Navajo Nation is empowered and responsible to determine on behalf of the People of the Navajo Nation.

5. Jurisdiction

Formerly 1 N.T.C. §§ 353 & 354. "We will not adopt Chairman MacDonald's argument that, because this is a unique case where the Navajo Nation has sued itself, we must ignore the express tribal code law on suits against the Navajo Nation. If we ignore the provisions in the Act, in effect the Navajo courts would be creating their own jurisdiction—a power Navajo courts do not have. Navajo code law expressly provides that the Navajo courts can exercise jurisdiction over suits against the Navajo Nation only when authorized by the Navajo Tribal Council." Plummer v. Brown II, 6 Nav. R. 88, 92 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

§ 554. Exceptions to the general principles of sovereign immunity; purpose and intent

A. The purpose and intent of the Navajo Sovereign Immunity Act is to balance the interest of the individual parties in obtaining the benefits and just redress to which they are entitled under the law in accordance with orderly process of the Navajo government, while at the same time protecting the legitimate public interest in securing the purpose and benefits of their public funds and assets, and the ability of their government to function without undue interference in furtherance of the general welfare and the greatest good of all people. All of the provisions of this Act shall be applied as hereinafter set forth in order to carry out this stated purpose and intent of the Navajo Nation Council, as the governing body of the Navajo Nation.

B. The Navajo Nation may be sued in the courts of the Navajo Nation when explicitly authorized by applicable federal law.

C. The Navajo Nation maybe sued only in the courts of the Navajo Nation when explicitly authorized by Resolution of the Navajo Nation Council.

D. Any exception to the immunity of the Navajo Nation and assumption of liability pursuant to this Act does not apply in circumstances in which such liability has been or is hereafter assumed by third parties, including any other governmental body or agency, nor for which the Navajo Nation has been or is hereafter indemnified or held harmless by such parties, to the extent of such assumption or indemnification of liability. Nor does any liability assumed by the Navajo Nation pursuant to this Act extend to any party or parties as third party beneficiary or otherwise, other than the party or parties to whom such liability is expressly assumed, and then only to the extent, circumstances and conditions specified thereby.

E. Any liability of a public entity or public officer, employee or agent assumed pursuant to this Act is subject to any other immunity of that public entity or person and is subject to any defense which would be available to the public entity or person if they were private entities and/or persons.

1. A public entity is not liable for any injury or damage resulting from an act or omission of any public officer, employee or agent if that party is not liable; nor for the actions or omissions of public officers, employees or agents which are determined to be contrary to or without authorization or otherwise outside or beyond the course and scope of such officer's, employee's or agent's authority.

2. This section does not immunize a public officer, employee or agent from individual liability, not within Navajo Nation insurance coverage, for the full measure of the recovery applicable to a person in the private sector, if it is established that such conduct was outside the scope of his or her employment and/or authority.

3. Volunteers duly authorized by the Navajo Nation or any political subdivision thereof, in performing any of their authorized functions or duties or training for such functions or duties, shall have the same degree of responsibility for their actions and enjoy the same immunities as officers and employees of the Navajo Nation and its governmental entities performing similar work.

F. The Navajo Nation may be sued only in the courts of the Navajo Nation with respect to any claim which is within the express coverage and not excluded by either commercial liability insurance carried by the Navajo Nation or an established Navajo Nation self-insured and/or other claims program of the Navajo Nation government, approved and adopted pursuant to the laws of the Navajo Nation and further, subject to the following provisions and limitation:

1. No judgment, order or award pertaining to any claims permitted hereunder shall be for more than the limits of valid and collectable liability insurance policies carried by the Navajo Nation covering each such claim and in force at the time of such judgment, including deductible amounts to the extent appropriated by the Navajo Nation Council; nor for more than the amount of coverage provided for each such claim under established claim reserves as appropriated by the Navajo Nation Council, or otherwise established pursuant to any self-insured liability and/or other Navajo Nation government claims program, approved and adopted pursuant to the laws of the Navajo Nation;

2. Any such judgment, order or award may only be satisfied pursuant to the express provisions of the policy(ies) of liability insurance and/or established self-insured or government claims program of the Navajo Nation which are in effect at the time of each such judgment, order or award. Regardless of the existence of applicable and collectible commercial insurance coverage at the time any cause of action arises or suit is filed against the Navajo Nation, in no event shall any funds or other property of the Navajo Nation be liable for satisfaction of any judgment against the Navajo Nation and/or other insureds thereunder, beyond the limits of any amounts specifically appropriated and/or reserved therefor at the time of judgment, which shall be modified by law in accordance with such limitation of funds. This limitation shall apply to any deductible or retained liability or otherwise resulting from any inability or insolvency occurring any time prior to entry of such judgment;

3. No cause of action shall lie and no judgment may be entered or awarded on any claim for punitive or exemplary damages against the Navajo Nation; nor against any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation acting within the course and scope of the authority of such office, employment or agency;

4. Notwithstanding any provisions of this subsection (F), there shall be no exception to the sovereign immunity of public entities, officials, employees or agents of the Navajo Nation from claims for injury or damage alleged to have been sustained by:

a. Policy decisions or the exercise of discretion made by a public official, employee or agent in the exercise or judgment or discretion vested in the entity or individual;

b. A decision made in good faith and without gross negligence in carrying out the law, except that this provision does not immunize a public entity, officer, employee or agent from liability for false arrest, false imprisonment or malicious prosecution;

c. Legislative or judicial action or inaction or administrative action or inaction of a legislative or judicial nature, such as adopting or failure to adopt a law or by failing to enforce a law;

d. Issuance, denial, suspension or revocation of, or the failure or refusal to issue, deny, suspend or revoke, any permit, license, certificate, approval, order or similar authorization, nor by the termination or reduction of benefits under a public assistance program; if the public entity, officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation is authorized by law to determine whether or not such authorization or benefits should be issued, denied, suspended or revoked;

e. Probation, parole, furlough or release from confinement of a prisoner or other detainee or from the terms and conditions or the revocation thereof, except upon a showing of gross negligence;

f. Any injury or damage caused by an escaping or escaped person or prisoner, a person resisting arrest or by a prisoner to himself or herself, or to any other prisoner, except upon showing of gross negligence;

g. The enumeration of the above immunities shall not be construed to waive any other immunities, nor to assume any liability except as explicitly provided in this Act.

5. Subject to all other provisions of this Act, the express coverage of any commercial liability policy insuring the Navajo Nation or of any self-insurance program established by the Navajo Nation, for sums which the Navajo Nation as insured shall become legally obligated to pay as damage because of personal injury and/or property damages shall include liability for such actual monetary loss and damage which is established by clear and convincing evidence, to be the direct and proximate result of the wrongful deprivation or impairment of civil rights as set forth in Chapter 1 of Title 1 of the Navajo Nation Code, the Bill of Rights of the Navajo Nation. In the sound exercise of judicial discretion, the courts of the Navajo Nation may, to the extent deemed proper and appropriate in any action for damages for wrongful deprivation or impairment of civil rights as provided herein, award necessary costs of suit and/or reasonable fees; based upon time and value, incurred for legal representation; or require each or any party thereto, to bear their own respective costs and/or legal fees incurred therein.

G. Any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation may be sued in the courts of the Navajo Nation to compel him/her to perform his/her responsibility under the expressly applicable laws of the United States and of the Navajo Nation, which shall include the Bill of Rights of the Navajo Nation, as set forth in Chapter 1, Title 1, Navajo Nation Code.

1. Relief awarded by the courts of the Navajo Nation under this subsection (G) shall be limited to declaratory or prospective mandamus or injunctive relief and in accordance with the express provisions of the laws of the United States and the Navajo Nation establishing the responsibility for such performance. The courts may further, in the exercise of judicial discretion, award necessary costs of suit and/or reasonable fees for legal representation, in the same manner and to the same extent provided in paragraph (5) subsection (F) hereof.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

2. No relief as provided under this subsection (G) may be awarded by the courts of the Navajo Nation without actual notice to the defendant(s), nor before the time provided in this Act for answering complaints, motions or orders to show cause, nor without opportunity for full hearing of all defenses and objection thereto, in accordance with all provisions of this Act all other applicable law(s).

3. This subsection (G) shall not apply to the President of the Navajo Nation, the Vice-President of the Navajo Nation, or the delegates to the Navajo Nation Council.

H. Contracted or otherwise retained counsel and other attorneys employed by the Navajo Nation may be sued for malpractice when authorized by the Government Services Committee of the Navajo Nation Council.

I. The Navajo Nation may be sued by Navajo contractors and/or their sureties on construction development or reclamation contracts, provided:

1. The contractor's contract is properly approved by the appropriate Committee of the Navajo Nation Council.

2. The contract is to be performed by a Navajo contractor as defined herein and is performed within the territorial jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation.

3. Damages against the Navajo Nation under the consent to suit granted by the Navajo Nation to Navajo contractors and/or their sureties shall be limited to damages claimed under applicable principles of contract damage law, including damages necessary to compensate for fulfilling the obligations under the bond, which shall include properly authorized change orders and properly authorized performance under owner directives to proceed done under protest, but shall not include:

a. Punitive damages;

b. Damages from claims arising in tort;

c. Damages caused by delays in performance due to governmental review and approval procedures of the Navajo Nation or other governmental entity having the right to review and/or approve the contract or project; or

d. Damages caused by delay, contract modification, or contract termination, due to delay in or failure to receive matching funds for the contract or project.

4. Damages against the Navajo Nation claimed above shall be limited to the dollar amount of the contract including properly approved change orders.

5. The Navajo Nation shall be subject to suit under this subsection (I) only in the courts of the Navajo Nation. In determining the Navajo Nation's obligations under this subsection (I), the courts of the Navajo Nation shall not give any preclusive effect against the Navajo Nation of any determination by any judicial or quasi-judicial body except the Courts of the Navajo Nation.

6. Navajo Contractor shall mean any contractor entitled to a priority number one, number two or number three pursuant to the Navajo Nation Business Preference Law.

“The final exception to the Nation’s immunity from suit under the Act states that [a]ny officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation may be sued in the [c]ourts of the Navajo Nation to compel him/her to perform his/her responsibility under the expressly applicable laws of the United States and of the Navajo Nation, which shall include the Bill of Rights of the Navajo Nation. 1 N.N.C. § 354(g)(1).” *Raymond v. 4. Civil rights

“A person seeking redress of civil rights violations must establish that Navajo Nation courts have jurisdiction to hear her claims. If the claimant is suing the Nation, the claimant must, as a jurisdictional predicate, establish that the Nation’s immunity from suit has been waived.”

Raymond v. Navajo Agricultural Products Industry, et al., 7 Nav. R. 142, 145 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1995).

“The Nation does not attempt to hide behind sovereign immunity for civil rights claims. The Act itself mandates that commercial liability policies must contain a provision regarding civil rights violations. Under section 354(f)(5) of the Act, the Nation’s commercial liability policies must contain a provision covering damages resulting from ‘wrongful deprivation of civil rights.’” Raymond v. Navajo Agricultural Products Industry, et al., 7 Nav. R. 142, 145 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1995).

5. Waivers of immunity

“It is without question that our government cannot be sued except by its expressed consent. The Navajo Sovereign Immunity Act is the expression of that consent. It provides the means and manner by which suit will be brought against the sovereign.” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 11 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

“Whether the official or employee acted in their official or personal capacity also controls whether the defenses under the Act are available. The Act waives the Navajo Nation’s immunity from certain types of suits, including civil rights claims.” Chapo, et al. v. Navajo Nation, et al., No. SC-CV-68-00, slip op. at 8-9 (Nav. Sup. Ct. March 11, 2004).

“Raymond is not seeking prospective mandamus or injunctive relief, but is specifically seeking an amount equal to ‘a sum calculated to reimburse her or her damage,’ i.e., retrospective monetary relief. Accordingly, this Court holds that Raymond’s claims do not constitute a waiver of the Nation’s immunity from suit under section 354(g) of the Act.” Raymond v. Navajo Agricultural Products Industry, et al., 7 Nav. R. 142, 145 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1995).

Re: previous 7 N.T.C. § 854(c): “The ICRA is federal law, which is applicable to the Navajo Nation, but it does not expressly waive the Navajo Nation’s immunity from suit as required by our statute. Our statute requires the federal law or regulation relied upon to explicitly state that the Navajo Nation may be sued.” TBI Contractors v. Navajo Tribe, 6 Nav. R. 57, 60 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

Re: previous sov. Imm. Act at 7 N.T.C. §§ 851-855. “The 1980 Navajo Sovereign Immunity Act, 7 N.T.C. §§ 851 to 855, does not allow implied waivers of the Navajo Nation’s immunity from suit. Only an unequivocally expressed waiver is allowed by the 1980 Navajo Sovereign Immunity Act. [. . .] Therefore, the filing of a compulsory counterclaim by the Navajo Nation does not waive its immunity from suit.” TBI Contractors v. Navajo Tribe, 6 Nav. R. 57, 61 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1988).

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 555. Procedure with respect to actions authorized by this subchapter

A. Any person or party desiring to institute suit against the Navajo Nation or any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation as authorized by this subchapter shall, as a jurisdictional condition precedent provide notice to the President of the Navajo Nation and the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation, as provided herein.

1. Such notices shall be sent by registered mail, addressed to the main administrative offices of the President of the Navajo Nation and of the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation, return receipts requested. The time of such notice shall commence to run only from the date following actual delivery of both notices as evidenced upon such receipts, and filed together with such notices with the court in which such action is subsequently to be commenced. The President of the Navajo Nation and the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation shall, ensure the availability, during all regular office hours, of office staff personnel duly authorized to accept and receipt for delivery of such notices provided herein and their receipt thereof shall not waive the assertion of any appropriate defense pertaining to the validity of such notice or service.

2. Such notices shall state the name of each prospective plaintiff, the identity of each prospective defendant; the nature of all claims and relief which will be sought, and the correct address, name and telephone number of each prospective plaintiff's attorney or counselor (if any).

3. No action shall be accepted for filing against the Navajo Nation or any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation unless the plaintiff has filed proof of compliance with this subsection by service of the notices as required by this subsection at least thirty (30) days prior to the date on which the complaint or any other action is proposed to be filed with such Court.

B. In any action against the Navajo Nation or any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation, the time for responding to valid service of any summons and complaint shall be sixty (60) days; to valid service of any order to show cause not less than thirty (30) days; and to valid service of any motion, not less than twenty (20) days. Any claim against the Navajo Nation or any public entity, officer, employee or agent thereof, which is filed pursuant to this Act, is deemed generally denied sixty (60) days after valid service of the complaint, unless the claimant or claimant's attorney or counsel filing the complaint is advised of acceptance or of a specific or otherwise limited denial in writing or by responsive pleading filed before the expiration of sixty (60) days; and any such claim shall otherwise proceed in the same manner as upon the filing of such general denial thereof. These time periods may not be shortened by rule of court or judicial order, but shall be extended by any longer period provided by other applicable law, rule or order of court.

C. Any person or party filing a complaint against the Navajo Nation or any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation shall serve by registered mail, return receipt requested, a copy of this complaint together with summons duly issued, upon the President of the Navajo Nation and the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation. Service of summons and complaint against any officer, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation shall be made by any means authorized under the rules of the courts of the Navajo Nation, provided that the time for response thereto shall be as provided herein and service upon such parties shall not be affected by such required service upon the President of the Navajo Nation and the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation.

D. In any action in which any claim is asserted against the Navajo Nation or any public entity thereof, upon written demand of the Navajo Nation Department of Justice, made at or before the time of answering, served upon the opposing party and filed with the court where the action is pending, the place of trial of such action shall be changed to Window Rock, Navajo Nation (Arizona).

2. Enforcement of orders

“While a Navajo Nation government agency need not file an answer to a complaint under 1 N.N.C. § 555(B), it is not free to extend that privilege to ignore the valid orders of the [Labor] Commission (or a court for that matter). Once the Navajo Nation has been afforded its sovereign protection, it will be held to the same standards and responsibilities of any litigant.” *Loley v. 5. Immunity

In all cases where the applicant appears to be enrolled in another Indian tribe, the Screening Committee shall reject the application. In all cases the Screening Committee or any successor committee lawfully established shall inform the applicant of his or her rights of appeal under this section. The Committee or its successor shall establish a record of any hearing or proceeding on any application, and this record shall contain the evidence used by the Committee in making its decision, a statement of its decision, and its reasons therefore, and the date.

§ 54. Explanation of terms

The following terms are pertinent to this regulation and to all other regulations dealing with property accounting:

A. Accountability involves the basic obligation of accounting for property, whereas responsibility arises from possession of property and/or the obligation of supervision of others who are in possession of property. Either or both of these concepts may be attached to one individual. Accountability is assigned at the department head level, or equivalent, or higher. In the appointment of accountable individuals, consideration should be given to the fact that accounting for and familiarity with property should constitute an important part in the experience and knowledge of the individual. Familiarity with Navajo Nation's Property Policies and Procedures is necessary for all accountable individuals.

B. Responsibility is the obligation of an individual with respect to the proper custody, care and safekeeping of the Navajo Nation's property entrusted to his/her possession or his/her supervision.

The department head or equivalent is, by virtue of his/her assignment, responsible for all the property of his department regardless of whether or not he/she has signed inventory forms for such property. In the case of temporary absence, such responsibility may be delegated to an assistant for a specified period. The department head will attend personally to the security of the property of his/her department and to supervising the activities of assistants to the extent necessary to permit determination of individual responsibility for loss or damage.

C. Pecuniary liability is defined as referring to a personal, joint or corporated monetary obligation for any lost, damaged or destroyed property resulting from misconduct or negligence.

D. Property list accountability refers to the obligation to maintain records of certain classes of property under conditions specified in policies or specific instruction of the Navajo Nation Council.

1. This obligation includes that of property responsibility. Such records, as well as books of account, are subject to examination by auditors or others as may be authorized or required.

E. Property record is a basic record showing, by item, the receipt, use and disposition of property and such other identifying data as may be required by proper authority.

F. A loan form is a signed document, acknowledging acceptance of responsibility of items of property listed thereon which are loaned or issued for use and are to be returned.

G. The Navajo Nation’s Property Listing is a record of personal property accountability maintained by the Property Department of the Navajo Nation.

H. Installed building equipment are the items of equipment and furnishings, including materials for installation thereof, which are required to make the facility usable and are affixed as a permanent part of the structure. These items will include plumbing fixtures and equipment; fixed heating, ventilating, cooling, air conditioning, electrical and fixed fire protection systems; elevators and escalators; overhead crane runways, laboratory counters, cabinets and similar fixed equipment. Machine tools, production and research equipment and their foundations are excluded.

I. Capitalized assets consist of real property, installed building equipment, personal property and non-expendable supplies which meet criteria in (1), (2) and (3) below:

1. Has a value of three hundred dollars ($300.00) or more;
2. Is classified non-expendable in accordance with Navajo Nation Council Resolutions; and
3. Has been determined to be a sensitive item by the Controller, Navajo Nation.

J. Sensitive items are items costing less than three hundred dollars ($300.00) but having a high intrinsic value or high degree of utility, i.e., firearms, calculators, cameras, etc.

K. Equipment in place is personal property of a movable nature which has been fixed in place or attached to real property but which may be severed or removed from buildings without destroying the usefulness of the structures. It does not include installed building equipment.

L. Real property is land, land improvements, structures and appurtenances thereto, excluding movable machinery and equipment.

§ 55. Distinction of terms

A. Formal accountability refers to the obligation to maintain a property record. This is the obligation of an individual, officially designated with respect to a specified activity, to maintain records of item balances and/or dollar values in accordance with a prescribed system showing authorized debits, credits and available balances on hand or in use by such activity. The records so maintained will be referred to in general as “Records of Accountability”.

B. An accountable individual is vested with accountability for property and maintains records in connection therewith, irrespective of whether the property is in his/her own possession for use or storage, or in the possession of others to whom it has been officially entrusted for temporary use or for care and safekeeping. Property accountability is not terminated until transfer to another accountable individual has been accomplished, or until items of property have been dropped from accountability by the Property Control and Stores Department. Specifically, accountability is not terminated by the disposition of property which merely places responsibility for its custody or safekeeping with another individual.

C. Responsibility is vested upon any individual to whom property has been entrusted and who is specifically charged with its care and safekeeping whether in use or in storage. The signature of an individual on the Navajo Nation's physical inventory form is prima facie evidence that he/she has accepted responsibility for its care and safekeeping. The assignment to duty, in which responsibility for an item of property or for the property of a unit or activity is inherent, is also prima facie evidence that the individual so assigned is charged with responsibility for its care and safekeeping. (Such assignment to duty may be either written or verbal and should be accompanied by a suitable inventory listing. If the accuracy of the listing is questioned, a physical inventory may be requested prior to the official acceptance of transfer of responsibility.)

D. Both Accountability and Responsibility. An individual may be both accountable and responsible, or vice versa. An accountable individual who has issued/loaned property, using the Navajo Nation's inventory sheet or official loan form or has an officially-designed area, has accountability without responsibility. The individual so receiving the property or so charged with its care and custody has responsibility without accountability.

§ 56. Classifications of property

Property under the control of the Navajo Nation and purchased from General Funds is, for the purpose of accountability, classified as follows:

A. Real property consists of lands and interest therein, leaseholds, buildings and improvements and appurtenances thereto. It includes piers, docks, warehouses, rights-of-way and easements, whether temporary or permanent, underground conduits and associated manholes, utilities systems and parts thereof, and all other improvements permanently attached and ordinarily considered real estate. It does not include machinery, equipment, fixed signal communications systems, etc., which may be severed or removed from buildings without impairing or destroying the usefulness of the structures.

B. Personal property is all property other than real. Such property can be further classified as “expendable” and “non-expendable” property.

1. Expendable property is property which is of a relatively low dollar value, or is property which is consumed in the performance of a function or is incorporated into an end item. The cost or appraised value of such items are to be charged as an expense.

2. Non-expendable property is an item of personal property of any dollar value, which retains its identity throughout its useful life and has a dollar value high enough to warrant maintenance of item accountability. Property is defined as those categories or specific items of property which, for property management and/or accounting purposes, are to be carried as capital assets until disposed of by transfer, sale or other means.

§ 57. General provision concerning the Nation’s property

A. Individuals to whom the Navajo Nation’s property is entrusted are charged with responsibility for its care and safekeeping, and they should be prepared to show, in the event of loss, the precautions taken by them personally to guard against loss, damage, etc.

B. An individual should not be assigned to duty that will separate him/her from property for which he/she is responsible. Individuals may be required to assume accountability for property remotely located. In such instances they are required to maintain records which will show at all times, the general location of such property and the individuals responsible for its care and safekeeping.

C. The sale, gift, loan, exchange, or other disposition of any of the Navajo Nation’s property not specifically authorized by regulations or other directives issued by the Navajo Nation Council is illegal.

D. Any person who, without authority, sells or otherwise disposes of the Navajo Nation’s property willfully or through neglect allows the Navajo Nation’s property to be lost, damaged, destroyed, sold or wrongly disposed of, may be punished as local rules, regulations and/or laws may direct.

E. To the extent practical, all of the Navajo Nation’s property will be identified by marking and/or tagging unless such marking would impair the utility of the item.

F. Records of accountability for property will list serial numbers for positive identification of like items and reporting losses.

G. Navajo Nation employees who occupy assigned Navajo Nation quarters or have been issued Navajo Nation property for use in family quarters, acquire responsibility for the proper care of the quarters and furnishings.

Upon occupancy of quarters or receipt of furnishings, a document covering the occupancy or receipt of property will contain a listing of the property, including its present condition. Acceptance of the quarters and/or furnishings infers that the employee assumes responsibility for loss, damage, or destruction of the property due to his/her negligence, including those instances where the loss, damage or destruction is related to an act of a member of his/her household or other individual and the evidence shows that the employee, under the circumstances, failed to exercise a reasonable degree of care.

B. All property that is discovered, tagged or not, by an accountable individual will be taken up and accounted for by him/her. When discovered by individuals not accountable it will be reported by them to an accountable individual. It shall also be the duty of the individual reporting the existence of property as indicated above to take charge of and protect such property until responsibility has been assumed by property authority.

C. Under special or extraordinary circumstances, the Navajo Nation Council may grant waivers of or deviations from prescribed accounting procedures. Any requests for such waivers or deviations will be prepared and routed through their respective chain of command to the Property Control and Stores Department where recommendations will be made and forwarded for formal approval.

Annotations

1. Legislative body; jurisdiction of Secretary of Interior

"The Navajo Government has been called 'probably the most elaborate' among tribes . . . The legitimacy of the Navajo Tribal Council, the freely elected governing body of the Navajos, is beyond question . . . [N]either Congress nor the Navajos have found it necessary to subject the Tribal Council's tax laws to review by the Secretary of the Interior. . . ." Kerr McGee Corp. v. Navajo Tribe, 471 U.S. 195 (1985).

2. Powers of Navajo Nation Council

"If a Chairman or Vice Chairman is not exercising powers as defined by the Council, or if the powers are not exercised in the best interests of the Navajo people, or if the powers are being used to provide for personal gain or profit, then surely the Council can restrict use of those powers.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 116 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“ . . . [T]he offices of Chairman and Vice Chairman were created by the Council and whatever powers are in those offices were placed there by the Council. Without the Council giving and defining those powers the Chairman’s or Vice Chairman’s powers would not exist.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 116 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“The question then arises whether the Navajo Tribal Council can place a Chairman or Vice Chairman on administrative leave with pay. The answer is yes, because the power to place those officials on leave is a part of the power the Council has to withdraw, limit, or supervise the exercise of powers it has bestowed on the offices of Chairman and Vice Chairman.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 115 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“The Navajo Nation Council clearly has authority to withdraw, limit, or supervise the exercise of power it gives to the offices of Chairman and Vice Chairman. The power to create an office and delegate authority to that office includes the power to abolish, withdraw, limit, or supervise exercise of those powers by the office holder. The Navajo Tribal Council can prevent a Chairman and Vice Chairman from exercising certain powers it has delegated to the offices of Chairman and Vice Chairman, and the Council can specify how those powers can be exercised. The latter has frequently been done by the Council as shown by the history of Navajo government.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 115 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

3. Retroactive legislation

“The prohibition against retroactive legislation is not absolute, and [r]etroactivity provisions often serve entirely benign and legitimate purposes, whether to respond to emergencies, to correct mistakes, to prevent circumvention of a new statute in the interval immediately preceding its passage, or simply to give comprehensive effect to a new law Congress considers salutary.’ . . . The question to be asked when examining a statute for prohibited retroactivity is ‘whether the new provision attaches new legal consequences to events completed before its enactment,’ or whether the new provisions affect existing contract or property rights Legislation which impairs vested rights retroactively cannot stand.” Ramah Navajo Community School v. Navajo Nation, No. SC-CV-17-99, slip op. at 6-7 (Nav. Sup. Ct. July 25, 2001).

4. Presumptions

“ . . . [R]esolutions of the Navajo Tribal Council are presumed to be valid and the party seeking to challenge the validity of any Council resolution has the burden of rebutting that presumption with clear evidence to the contrary.” Thompson v. Navajo Nation, 6 Nav. R. 181, 184 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1990).

1. Purpose

“CAP-23-00 was adopted on April 18, 2000, to amend 2 N.N.C. § 109 to make Council delegates ‘common law employees’ of the Navajo Nation.” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 18 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

2. Construction and application

“Amendment of Section 109 did not require the chapter ratification process as did Section 106(A), and for good reason. Whether a Delegate was self-employed or a common law employee, the salary remained at twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000). There was no significance to the change except a shift in the responsibility for payment of individual tax liability.” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 23 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

3. Procedural considerations

“In this respect, we disagree with the district court that CAP-23-00 was a salary increase and thus subject to the procedural demands of Section 106(A). We vacate the district court’s decision.” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 24 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

“Had the Title II Amendments contemplated that additional tax benefits operate to increase Delegate salaries, it would have subjected Section 109 to the same chapter ratification process. The Council recognized that the federal taxing process was keyed to the salary set by 106(A), and not an amount in addition to the salary. In passing CAP-23-00, the Council recognized that the legislation dealt only with employment benefits and, ‘not salary increases for Council delegates,’ CAP-23-00, Resolved Clause 2 (April 19, 2000).” Judy v. White, No. SC-CV-35-02, slip op. at 23 (Nav. Sup. Ct. August 2, 2004).

§ 164. Navajo Nation Council and committee resolutions procedure

A. Statements of policy, enactment of positive law, intergovernmental agreements, budget resolutions, and reallocations, must be reviewed and approved by resolution by the appropriate standing committee(s) and the Navajo Nation Council except as otherwise provided herein.

1. Only Council delegates or Standing Committees may introduce a proposed resolution to the Standing Committee(s) and the Navajo Nation Council, except where Navajo government employees are authorized by statute or regulation to introduce proposed resolutions. Prior to introducing the proposed resolution, the Office of Legislative Counsel shall review and draft the proposed resolution for the council delegate(s) or standing committee(s) to ensure that the proposed resolution is drafted in a proper codified format. Where Navajo government employees are authorized to introduce proposed resolutions, they may seek the assistance of either the Office of Legislative Counsel or the Navajo Department of Justice.

2. Proposed resolutions expressing condolence shall be reserved for former members of the Navajo Nation Council, Chairman, Vice-Chairman, President and Vice-President of the Navajo Nation.

3. After the proposed resolution is drafted, the council delegate(s), standing committee(s) or Navajo government employee(s) shall present the proposed resolution to the Executive Director for the Office of Legislative Services who will assign a number to the proposed resolution.

4. After the proposed resolution is assigned a number, the Speaker of the Navajo Nation Council shall assign the proposed resolution to the respective oversight committee(s) of the Navajo Nation Council having authority over the matters contained in the proposed resolution for proper consideration and distribute a photocopy of the proposed resolution to the Office of the President, Office of the Attorney General, Office of the Controller and the affected division, department and/or program. 5. Proposed resolutions that require final action by the Navajo Nation Council shall be assigned to at least two standing committees; the oversight committee(s) and the Ethics and Rules Committee. The standing committees may markup the proposed resolutions, which will be presented as amendments. Only the Navajo Nation Council proposed resolution shall be introduced, and the Ethics and Rules Committee shall present the oversight committee(s) markup to the Council as amendment(s).

For a meeting to be deemed to have been held, each of the following acts shall occur: a quorum is present, an agenda is adopted, substantive actions (approval, disapproval or table) are taken, and per diem and roundtrip mileage are paid to committee members or commissioners. Meetings shall not mean work sessions, workshops, orientations, training and business meetings with Navajo or non-Navajo entities, therefore, no meeting per diem payment for work sessions, workshops, etc. shall be paid. See 2 N.N.C. § 106. Meetings held elsewhere within the Navajo Nation shall be by written permission of the Speaker of the Navajo Nation Council, provided that funds are available. § 193. Agency caucus

A. Purpose. The Navajo Nation Council Rules of Order recognize the ability of the Council to form itself into caucuses for the discussion of Council business. Caucuses are formed by delegates dividing themselves among the Bureau of Indian Affairs agencies from which each delegate is elected. Each agency caucus then develops policy on issues to be discussed by the Council, and those policies are advanced by each member delegate of the caucus. It is the purpose of this section to formalize the agency caucus powers and procedures. The purpose of this statute is to improve and make more efficient the legislative process by creating a forum which provides education of, and information to, Council delegates on issues pending before the Council and which allows formulation of positions on these issues in advance of Council sessions.

B. Agency Caucus defined. An agency caucus shall consist of all those Council delegates elected from chapters within the BIA recognized Northern, Fort Defiance, Chinle, Western and Eastern Agencies.

C. Powers. An agency caucus shall have authority to make recommendations on any issue before the Council. Caucuses shall act by resolution, but need not seek review of such resolutions pursuant to 2 N.N.C. § 164. In addition, the authority of the caucuses to make recommendations shall not be deemed to extend or add any requirement for review, recommendation or approval of any resolution of the Council. Caucus resolutions shall be only advisory in nature and are not binding upon the Council or the members of the caucus.

D. Procedures. The caucus shall select a caucus leader and Whip, and Recorder from among its members. The caucus leader may call meetings of the caucus upon notice to all members in a form reasonably calculated to provide actual notice of the meeting. There shall be no requirement that notice be given at any particular time in advance of the meeting; notice shall be timed only to provide members with as much advance notice of the meeting as is consistent with the requirements of due process. A caucus may adopt rules of order to govern their meetings. All caucus resolutions shall be in written form.

E. Powers and duties of caucus leader. In addition to powers and duties set forth elsewhere in this statute, the Caucus Leader shall have the following powers and duties:

1. Act as chair of all caucus meetings;
2. Speak of behalf of the caucus at all meetings of the Council and present the positions adopted through caucus resolutions;
3. Ensure that all caucus members have notice of all issues and legislation pending before the Council.

F. Powers and duties of whip. In addition to the powers and duties set forth elsewhere in this statute, the Whip shall have the following powers and duties:

1. Act as deputy to the caucus leader and exercise the powers and duties of the leader in his or her absence;
2. Communicate caucus policy, as adopted by resolution of the caucus, to all caucus members and seek to ensure that the actions of caucus members coincides with this policy;
3. Canvass all caucus members on issues during Council sessions and keep the Caucus Leader informed as to the number of votes which can be counted on for such issues.

G. Powers and duties of Recorder. The recorder shall have the following powers and duties:

1. Keep a record of all meetings of the caucus;
2. Arrange for preparation of all documents, including resolutions, utilized by the caucus;
3. Submit official forms on behalf of all caucus members.

1. Screening, generally

“The initial screening of applicants, which includes review of qualifications pursuant to 7 N.T.C. § 354 and interviews, is conducted by the Judiciary Committee of the Navajo Tribal Council. The power of initial screening is given to the Judiciary Committee by 7 N.T.C. §§ 355, 354(a) and 2 N.T.C. § 572(1).” In re: Certified Questions I, 6 Nav. R. 97, 99 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

2. Powers of committee

“Different events occur if the Judiciary Committee recommends a probationary judge to a permanent position. [. . .] The legislative scheme does not allow the Chairman’s denial of permanent appointment to a probationary judge to be final. [. . .] The Navajo Tribal Council will make a final decision as to whether to grant permanent status to this type of probationary judge.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 108–110 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“If the Judiciary Committee’s recommendation is that the probationary judge be denied permanent appointment, the Chairman must deny the appointment. [. . .] The Chairman is required to follow the Judiciary Committee’s recommendation of denial.” In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 108 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

“The Chairman [President] has no independent authority to appoint a person as judge who has not been screened and recommended by the Judiciary Committee. As a collateral matter, the Advisory Committee has absolutely no authority to either recommend, not recommend, confirm, or on its own appoint a person as judge of the Navajo Nation. All recommendations for appointment of judges are initiated by the Judiciary Committee.” In re: Certified Questions I, 6 Nav. R. 97, 99 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

3. Termination of judge

“The above cited statute providing for removal of probationary judge is not discretionary because the statute gives the public an overwhelming and compelling interest in ensuring that only qualified and ethics-conscious individuals become judges. The Navajo public has an interest in a strong and independent judiciary. Navajo sovereignty is strengthened by a strong and independent judiciary. For these reasons, a probationary judge who has been determined to be unfit for office by the Judiciary Committee must be removed by the Chairman. The public is protected by the removal of the judge." In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 107 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

"If a probationary judge is to be removed prior to the expiration of his probationary period, the Judiciary Committee must make a recommendation of removal to the Chairman. Pursuant to such recommendation, the Chairman must remove the probationary judge. No further removal proceeding is required. The removal is final." In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 106 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

"The Chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council is not empowered to act alone in either removing a probationary judge or denying a permanent appointment to a probationary judge. The Navajo Tribal Code laws on the Judicial Branch provide for two ways by which a probationary judge can be terminated. The first is by removal and the second is by denial of permanent appointment. In either case the Chairman cannot act until after the Judiciary Committee of the Navajo Tribal Council has formally acted by recommendation." In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 106 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

4. Probationary evaluations

"The Committee makes an independent determination of the training requirement and whether the probationary judge has performed satisfactorily over the two (2) year probationary term." In re: Certified Questions II, 6 Nav. R. 105, 108 (Nav. Sup. Ct. 1989).

B. Within thirty (30) days after the mailing by the investigator of his/her report, either the claimant or Peabody may file a demand with the Board for a hearing on the claim. If no such request is filed with the Board within thirty (30) days after copies of the investigator's report have been mailed, the report shall be deemed accepted by the claimant and Peabody, and the Board shall enter judgment for the amount recommended in the investigator's report.

C. If either Peabody or the claimant file objections with the Board, the Chairperson of the Board shall schedule a hearing within thirty (30) days of the date the first such objection is filed (to be held at a location as near as practicable to the land in question). At such hearings, both the claimant and Peabody may present any relevant evidence with respect to the economic loss, subject to 2 N.N.C. § 908.

D. At the conclusion of this presentation, the Board shall make a determination as to the amount of compensation to be paid, if any.  2. Within fifteen (15) days of the date the Board's order is mailed to it;
- or
3. If the investigator's report is not contested, within forty-five (45) days of its mailing to Peabody.

In addition to the investigative and hearing procedure herein provided, any four members of the Board or the Chairperson thereof may call a hearing to be held in the area affected by the mining activities at the request of the Kayenta Chapter, the Forest Lake Chapter, the Shonto Chapter, the Chilchinbeto Chapter, Peabody, or upon petition of interested Navajos.

2. It shall be the duty of the Board to give notice of such a hearing in as broad a fashion as possible to persons who are or might be affected by the mining activities.

3. At such a hearing the Board would explain its function and procedure to the parties present. Any party who has or might have a claim cognizable under the provisions of this Plan of Operation could present that claim at such a hearing.

4. Further Board action will follow as if the claim had been filed with the Board.

F. Minimizing Adverse Economic Impact.

1. The Board and/or investigator may, in addition to testimony received with respect to economic loss, take testimony from interested parties as to proposed methods for reducing the adverse economic impact of the mining activities on the Navajo People in the Black Mesa area.

2. § 2021. Application for appointment of a Special Prosecutor

A. The Attorney General shall conduct a preliminary investigation pursuant to the provisions of this section whenever he/she receives information sufficient to constitute grounds to investigate whether any of the persons listed in Subsection (B) of this section has committed a violation of any federal or state criminal law or any law or regulation of the Navajo Nation, or committed any act upon which the Navajo Nation may have a civil cause of action. The Attorney General may take no longer than sixty (60) days to conduct such preliminary investigation.

B. The persons referred to in Subsection (A) of this section are:

1. The President of the Navajo Nation;
2. The Vice-President of the Navajo Nation;
3. Any member of the Executive Staff of the Office of the President or the Vice-President.
4. The Chairperson of any Standing Committee of the Navajo Nation Council;
5. The Attorney General, in which case the Deputy Attorney General shall perform the functions of the Attorney General pursuant to the provisions of §§ 2021–2024 of this title;
6. The Director or Acting Director or Deputy Director of any Division, Department, Program or Office of the Executive Branch of the Navajo Nation; and
7. Any other official, employee or agent of the Navajo Nation, where the Attorney General determines that investigation or prosecution or civil litigation against such person by the Attorney General or other officer or employee of the Department of Justice may result in a personal, financial, or political conflict of interest.

C. In determining whether grounds sufficient to investigate exist, the Attorney General shall consider the degree of specificity of the information received and the credibility of the source of the information.

D. Upon completion of the preliminary investigation, if the Attorney General finds that there are no reasonable grounds to believe that further investigation or prosecution is warranted, or that the matter may be handled by the Attorney General, the Office of the Prosecutor or other officials, or employees of the Department of Justice without resulting in personal, financial or political conflict of interest, the Attorney General may take such lawful action or inaction as he/she deems appropriate.

E. Upon completion of the preliminary investigation, if the Attorney General finds that there are reasonable grounds to believe that further investigation or prosecution is warranted, and that the matter cannot be handled by the Attorney General, the Office of the Prosecutor or any other official or employee of the Department of Justice without resulting in personal, financial, or political conflict of interest, the Attorney General shall apply to the Special Division of the Window Rock District Court for appointment of a Special Prosecutor.

F. An application pursuant to Subsection (E) of this section shall contain sufficient information to assist the special division to select a Special Prosecutor and to define that Special Prosecutor's jurisdiction. The Attorney General shall recommend at least three persons among whom the Special Division shall appoint such Special Prosecutor, shall recommend appropriate compensation, and shall recommend the extent of such Special Prosecutor's jurisdiction.

G. If for any reason the Special Division fails to comply with the provisions of § 2022(A) of this title, then the Attorney General shall exercise the powers of the Special Division under of § 2022 (A) and (C) of this title.

H. Whenever a Special Prosecutor is currently in office, and whenever the Attorney General receives information sufficient to cause him/her to apply for appointment of a Special Prosecutor pursuant to Subsection (E) of this section, in lieu thereof the Attorney General may apply to the Special Division to enlarge the jurisdiction of such Special Prosecutor to include any such new matter.

I. No application or any other documents or materials supplied to the Special Division in connection with an application or appointment of a Special Prosecutor shall not be revealed to any person outside the Special Division or the Department of Justice without leave of the Special Division, or the written release of the Attorney General.

J. Whenever a matter is within the jurisdiction of a Special Prosecutor, the Attorney General, the Chief Prosecutor, and all officers and employees of the Department of Justice, shall suspend all investigations and proceedings regarding such matter, except insofar as such Special Prosecutor and the Attorney General agree in writing that such investigations and proceedings may continue.

K. Notwithstanding the provisions of Subsection (J) of this section, the Attorney General may appear in any proceeding before any court or legislative or administrative body as an amicus curiae concerning any issues of law raised by any case or proceeding.

§ 3748. Abstention from official action

A. When a public official or employee is required to take official action on a matter in which such public official or employee has a personal economic interest, they should first consider eliminating that interest. If that is not feasible nor required under § 3747 above, such public official or employee shall:

1. Prepare and sign a written statement describing the matter requiring action and the nature of the potential conflict, as soon as such public official or employee is aware of such conflict and they shall deliver copies of such statement to the responsible party for inclusion in the official record of any vote or other decision or determination and also to the Ethics and Rules Committee;

2. Abstain from voting, sponsoring, influencing or in any manner attempting to influence any vote, official decision or determination which would favor or advance such person's personal economic interest in such matter; and

3. Abstain from voting or otherwise participating in the official decision or determination of such matter, unless otherwise directed by the authorized presiding official of the governmental body making such decision or determination, or otherwise legally required by law, (such as the vote of an elected representative delegate which is cast on behalf of his or her electorate constituents), or unless such person's vote, position, recommendation or participation is contrary to their personal economic interest.

B. Unless otherwise provided by applicable law, the abstention by such person from voting or otherwise participating in the official determination or decision shall not affect the presence of such person for purposes of establishing a quorum necessary for a governmental body, agency or commission to take such action or vote upon such matter.

C. Public employees shall also deliver a copy of such statement to the Committee and to their immediate superior, if any, who shall assign the matter to another. If such employee has no immediate superior, he or she shall take such steps as the Committee shall prescribe or advise, to abstain from influencing actions and decisions in the matter.

D. In the event that a public official's or employee's participation is otherwise legally required for the action or decision to be made, such person and the presiding official or immediate superior requiring such participation shall fully report the occurrence to the Committee.

b. Fly ash waste, bottom ash waste, slag waste and flue gas emission control waste generated primarily from the combustion of coal or other fossil fuels and wastes produced in conjunction with the combustion of fossil fuels that are necessarily associated with the production of energy and that traditionally have been and actually are mixed, with and are disposed of or treated at the same time with fly ash, bottom ash, boiler slag or flue gas emission control wastes from coal combustion;

History

CJY-51-97, July 24, 1997.

§ 103. Declaration of Policy

A. Legislative Purposes

1. The Navajo Nation Council finds and declares that disposal of solid waste in or on the land without careful planning and management can present a danger to public health and the environment; that open dumping is particularly harmful to public health, potentially contaminates drinking water from underground and surface sources, and pollutes the air and the land; and that potentially recoverable material that could be recycled is needlessly buried each year, using scarce land resources, even though methods are available to separate usable materials from solid waste. The Navajo Nation Council is hereby creating a coordinated program for management of solid waste within the Navajo Nation.

2. The Navajo Nation Council, by enacting this Chapter, intends to protect the health, safety, welfare and environment of the Navajo Nation; to manage, protect and preserve the resources of the Navajo Nation; and to maintain and improve the aesthetic appearance of the Navajo Nation, by:

- a. Assuring that solid waste management practices are conducted in a manner which protects human health and the environment and minimizes the need for corrective action at a future date;
- b. Prohibiting open dumping and requiring the closure of existing open dumps;
- c. Prohibiting open burning at SWLFs;
- d. Minimizing the generation of solid waste by encouraging recycling and reuse; and
- e. Providing for the promulgation of guidelines for solid waste collection, transport, separation, recovery and disposal practices and systems.

3. The Navajo Nation Council places primary responsibility for the enforcement of this Chapter with the Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency.

C. Notwithstanding the provisions of Subsection (B) of this Section, the provisions of this Act and/or regulations promulgated hereunder, in whole or in part, shall apply to any person who has submitted an application for and received a permit pursuant to this Act or is otherwise subject to its provisions and to all property within the Navajo Nation owned or operated by such person.

C. A voluntary compliance agreement shall be for a term of not less than one (1) year, and may be subject to renewal for successive terms of not less than one (1) year. A voluntary compliance agreement may not vary the requirements of this Act or of any regulations promulgated pursuant to this Act, except that the consent required to be given in accordance with § 143(B) of this Act shall be strictly limited to the application of this Act and regulations promulgated pursuant to this Act in accordance with the terms of said voluntary compliance agreement, including any renewals thereof.

D. A voluntary compliance agreement shall not be effective unless and until final approval of the agreement is given by the Director.

E. Except as otherwise expressly provided in the agreement, by entering into a voluntary compliance agreement, no person shall be deprived of the benefit of any valid covenant not to regulate or otherwise exercise jurisdiction over such person or property owned or operated by such person.

F. A person may enter into a voluntary compliance agreement in accordance with this Section, notwithstanding that the validity of such person's claim to be exempt from the provisions of this Act has not been judicially determined, whenever the Director determines that entering into such an agreement is in the best interests of the Navajo Nation. Entering into an agreement pursuant to this subsection shall not constitute a determination or admission by the Navajo Nation that such claim of exemption is valid.

4. Closure criteria and post-closure care requirements, including requirements for the installation of final cover; and
5. Financial responsibility requirements, including financial assurance requirements for damage claims, closure, post-closure care and corrective actions relating to SWLFs. The Director shall specify the various financial assurance mechanisms which will be deemed to satisfy these financial responsibility requirements.

B. Transportation Inspection Fees. The Director shall have the authority to inspect solid waste transportation vehicles, by regulation and charge reasonable fees for such service.

§ 132. Variances

A. Issuance. The Director shall adopt regulations providing for the issuance of variances to owners or operators of solid waste management facilities, which would allow such facilities to vary from provisions of this Chapter and regulations and plans adopted and permits issued pursuant to this Chapter. Such regulations shall allow owners and operators of solid waste management facilities to petition the Director in writing for variances, and shall specify the minimum requirements for such petitions and for public participation. The Director shall also consider issuing variances for hardships caused by, but not limited to, isolation and extreme weather conditions. In all cases, the Director shall grant a petition for a variance only if the Director finds that issuance of the variance will not endanger public health, safety, welfare or the environment and does not violate 40 C.F.R. Parts 257 or 258.

B. Terms and Conditions of Variances. The requirements imposed as a basis for granting or renewing a variance shall include, but not be limited to:

1. A detailed plan for the completion of corrective steps needed to conform to the provisions of this Chapter and the regulations adopted and permits issued hereunder, wherever practicable;

2. A fixed term for the variance; and
3. The right of the Director to make periodic inspections of the facilities for which the variance is granted.

Subject to the provisions of Subsection (C), variances shall be valid for no longer than the term specified in the variance. The Director may impose fees with the approval of the Resources Committee, on a facility for the issuance of a variance.

C. Renewals. A holder of a variance may petition the Director for a renewal of such variance. A petition for renewal may be filed not more than sixty (60) days nor fewer than thirty (30) days prior to the expiration of the variance. The Director, within thirty (30) days of receipt of the petition, shall issue a decision to grant or deny the request for a renewal of the variance.

D. Suspension and Revocation. If the terms of a variance are being or have been violated, the Director may seek to revoke or suspend the variance. In such event, the Director shall serve notice of such violation on the holder of the variance, specifying the nature of the violation and the date on which a hearing will be held to determine whether the violation occurred and whether the variance should be suspended or revoked.

“Permittee consents to the jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation with respect to those activities conducted pursuant to this permit issued by the Director pursuant to the provisions of the Navajo Nation Solid Waste Act. This consent shall be effective when a permit is issued and may not be withdrawn. This consent shall extend to and be binding upon all successors, heirs, assignees, employees and agents, including contractors and subcontractors of permittee whose activities fall within the scope of the issued permit”; and

§ 152. General Enforcement Authority

A. In General. Whenever, on the basis of any information available to the Director, the Director finds that any person conducting an activity that threatens human health or the environment and/or has violated, or is in violation of, any requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or permits, orders, plans, variances or fees issued or approved pursuant to this Chapter, the Director may:

1. Issue and serve on such person an order requiring the person to comply with each requirement or prohibition, pursuant to the provisions of this Section;
2. Issue and serve on such person an administrative penalty order in accordance with § 154 of this Chapter;
3. Bring a civil action in accordance with § 153(A) of this Chapter; and/or
4. Bring a criminal action in accordance with § 153(B) of this Chapter.

In addition, when a person has consistently violated any requirements or prohibitions of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or permits, orders, variances or fees issued or approved pursuant to this Chapter, or refused to comply with any such requirements or prohibitions, the Director may issue an order prohibiting such person from continuing to operate a solid waste management facility within the Navajo Nation, and/or prohibiting such person from entering into any new contracts (including leases) that would permit such person to operate a solid waste management facility within the Navajo Nation.

B. Requirements for Orders to Comply. An order to comply issued under this Section shall state with reasonable specificity the nature of the violation, shall state that the alleged violator is entitled to a hearing pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Director under § 161 of this Chapter, if such hearing is requested in writing within thirty (30) days after the date of issuance of the order, and shall specify a time for compliance that the Director determines is as expeditious as practicable, taking into account the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts to comply with applicable requirements. The order shall become effective immediately upon the expiration of the thirty (30) days if no hearing is requested and, if a timely request for a hearing is made, upon the decision of the Director. The order may be conditional and require a person to refrain from particular acts unless certain conditions are met. If the order is issued to a corporation, it shall be issued to the appropriate corporate officers. No order to comply issued under this Section shall prevent the Director from assessing any penalties nor otherwise affect or limit the Director's authority to enforce under other provisions of this Chapter, nor affect any person's obligations to comply with any section of this Chapter or with a term or condition of any permit or implementation plan promulgated or approved under this Chapter.

C. Emergency Compliance Orders. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section, the Director (after consultation with the Attorney General where feasible) may issue a compliance order that is effective immediately where there is an imminent and substantial threat to the public health, welfare or environment. Any person issued an order that is effective immediately may file a written request with the Director for a stay pending the outcome of any appeal taken under this Section in accordance with the procedures provided for in § 152(B). The Director shall, by written notice, grant or deny the request for a stay within five (5) days receipt of a request for a stay. If the Director denies the request for a stay, the affected party has thirty (30) days to appeal the denial to the Window Rock District Court. Any person subject to an emergency compliance order may seek judicial review of a final agency determination as provided for in § 154(D) of this Chapter.

D. Enforcement of Compliance Orders. Orders of the Director shall be enforced by the NNSWMP, the Navajo Department of Justice, Resources Enforcement and the Division of Public Safety. Those authorized to enforce the orders may take reasonable steps to assure compliance, including but not limited to:

1. Entering upon any property or establishment believed to be violating the order and demanding compliance; and

2. Terminating part or all operations at the solid waste management facility.

E. Injunctive Relief. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section, the Director may seek injunctive relief pursuant to § 153(A) to restrain any activity which may endanger or cause damage to human health or the environment.

§ 153. Judicial Enforcement

A. Civil Judicial Enforcement. The Director shall request the Attorney General to file an action for a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, a permanent injunction or any other relief provided by law, including the assessment and recovery of civil penalties in a maximum amount per day per violation of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) but not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), in any of the following instances:

1. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter;
2. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any duty to allow or carry out inspection, entry or monitoring activities; and
3. Whenever an activity exists which may endanger or cause damage to human health or the environment, in which case the Director shall request the Attorney General to pursue injunctive relief, but not the assessment of penalties, unless the endangerment to the public health is caused by a violation, as specified in Paragraphs (1) and (2).

B. Criminal Penalties. Any person who intentionally:

1. Violates any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including but not limited to a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter, a filing, reporting or notice requirement under this Chapter;
2. Makes any false material statement, representation or certification in, or omits material information from, or alters, conceals or fails to file or maintain any notice, application, record, report, plan or other document required pursuant to this Chapter to be filed or maintained, including required by a permit issued pursuant to this Chapter; or
3. Falsifies, tampers with, renders inaccurate or fails to install any monitoring device or method required to be maintained or followed under this Chapter; shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine in a maximum amount of not less five hundred dollars ($500.00) but not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000) per day per violation or imprisonment for not more than one hundred eighty (180) days per day per violation or both or be subject to any other penalty imposed by the court available under Navajo law. For the purpose of this Subsection, the term “person” includes, in addition to the entities referred to in § 102(A)(13) of this Chapter, any responsible corporate officer.

C. Suits for Costs. In addition to the above proceedings, the Director is authorized to initiate proceedings, separately or in connection with either a civil, criminal or exclusion proceeding brought under this Chapter, for any damages caused to the lands or other resources of the Navajo Nation as the result of any violation of this Chapter, including for payment of costs of all associated remedial actions taken, for any expenses incurred in investigating and evaluating such damages, for any administrative costs incurred as a result of this matter and for the reasonable value of the attorney time and expenses associated with such proceedings.

D. Jurisdiction and Venue. Any action under this Subsection may be brought in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock, and such Court shall have jurisdiction to restrain such violation, require compliance, assess civil penalties, collect any fees or noncompliance penalties owed the Nation under this Chapter, and award any other appropriate relief.

E. Calculation of Penalties; Notice.

1. For purposes of determining the number of days of violation for which a civil penalty may be assessed under this Section, § 154 or § 155, if the Director has notified the source in writing of the violation and a prima facie showing can be made that the conduct or events giving rise to the violation are likely to have continued or recurred past the date of notice, the days of violation shall be presumed to include the date of such notice, each day of violation prior to such notice and each day thereafter until the violator establishes that continuous compliance has been achieved, except to the extent that the violator can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there were intervening days during which no violation occurred or that the violation was not continuing in nature. Notice under this Section shall be accomplished by the issuance of a written notice of violation or written order to comply or by filing a complaint in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock that alleges any violation described in Subsection (A) of this Section.

2. In determining the amount of a civil penalty assessed under this Section, the court shall consider the history, seriousness and duration of the violation; any good faith efforts to comply with the applicable requirements; the violator’s full compliance history, including the severity and duration of past violations, if any; the economic impact of the penalty on the violator; as an aggravating factor only, the economic benefit, if any, resulting from the violation; and any other factors that the court deems relevant. The court may assess penalties for noncompliance with administrative subpoenas under § 161 of this Chapter or actions under Subchapter 2 of this Chapter where the violator does not have sufficient cause to violate or fail or refuse to comply with such subpoena or action.

3. All penalties collected pursuant to this Section shall be deposited in a special fund in the Navajo Treasury for use by the Director to finance solid waste management compliance and enforcement activities. The Director shall report annually to the Navajo Nation Council about the sums deposited into the fund, including the sources and the actual and proposed uses thereof.

4. In lieu of or in addition to a monetary penalty, the Director may impose or may request the Attorney General to seek from the court a requirement to remediate the damage caused or to perform community service, or both.

F. Security. The court may, if a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction is sought under this Section or § 155 of this Chapter, require the filing of a bond or equivalent security.

§ 154. Administrative Assessment of Penalties

A. Basis for Penalty. The Director may issue against any person an administrative order assessing a civil administrative penalty of up to ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per day per violation whenever the Director finds that a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter. The Director's authority under this Subsection shall be limited to matters where the total penalty sought does not exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and the first alleged date of violation occurred no more than one (1) year prior to the initiation of administrative action, except where the Director and Attorney General jointly determine that a matter involving a larger penalty or longer period of violation is appropriate for administrative penalty action. The communications required to make such a joint determination and the method(s) used for making such a joint determination shall be privileged, and shall not be subject to judicial review. The Director may compromise, modify or remit, with or without any conditions, any administrative penalty imposed under this Section.

B. Hearing Requirement. The Director shall assess an administrative penalty under this Section by an order made after opportunity for a hearing. The Director shall promulgate rules for discovery and other procedures for hearings under this Section. Before issuing such an order, the Director shall give written notice of the proposed order to the person on whom the penalty is to be assessed and provide such person an opportunity to request a hearing within thirty (30) days of receipt of the notice.

C. Field Citations. After consultation with the Attorney General, the Director may implement a field citation program through regulations establishing minor violations for which field citations assessing civil penalties not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000) per day per violation may be issued by officers or employees designated by the Director, to the extent permissible under applicable law. Any person on whom a field citation is assessed may, pursuant to regulations issued under this Section, elect to pay the penalty or request a hearing on the citation. If a timely request for a hearing is not made, the penalty shall be final. Any hearing shall provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence. Payment of a penalty required by a field citation shall not be a defense to further enforcement by the Director to correct a violation or to assess the statutory maximum penalty pursuant to other authorities in this Chapter if the violation continues.

D. Judicial Review. Any person subject to a civil penalty under Subsections (A) or (C) of this Section may seek review of such penalty assessment in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock by filing a petition for review in such court within thirty (30) days following the date that the penalty becomes final and by simultaneously sending a copy of such filing by certified mail to the Director and the Attorney General. Within thirty (30) days thereafter the Director shall file in such court a certified copy or certified index of the record on which the penalty was based. The court shall not set aside or remand an order or assessment under this Section unless the record, taken as a whole, does not substantially support the finding of a violation or unless the order or penalty assessment constitutes an abuse of discretion. In any such proceedings, the Director may seek to recover civil penalties ordered or assessed under this Section.

E. Failure to Pay Penalty. If any person fails to pay an assessment of a civil penalty or fails to comply with an administrative penalty order after the order or assessment has become final, the Director shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock to enforce the order or recover the amount ordered or assessed plus interest, from the date of the final order or decision or the date of the final judgment, as the case may be. In such an action the validity, amount and appropriateness of the order or assessment shall not be subject to review. Any person who fails to pay on a timely basis a civil penalty ordered or assessed under this Section shall be required to pay, in addition to such penalty and interest, the Director's enforcement expenses, including but not limited to attorneys' fees and costs of collection proceedings. Such person shall also pay a quarterly nonpayment penalty for each quarter during which such failure to pay persists. The nonpayment penalty shall be 10% of the aggregate amount of the person's outstanding penalties and nonpayment penalties accrued as of the beginning of the quarter.

F. Calculation of Penalty. In determining the amount of any penalty to be assessed under this Section, the Director or the court, as appropriate, shall take into consideration the factors enumerated in § 153(E) of this Chapter.

§ 155. Citizen Suits

A. Authority to Bring Civil Action; Jurisdiction

1. Except as provided in Subsection (B) of this Section, a person may commence a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock on his own behalf:

a. Against any person (except the Navajo Nation or any instrumentality of the Navajo Nation, but not excepting tribal enterprises) who is alleged to be in violation of any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including but not limited to a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, an order or permit issued pursuant to this Chapter or a requirement to have a permit issued under this Chapter; or

b. Against any person (except the Navajo Nation or any instrumentality of the Navajo Nation, but not excepting tribal enterprises) who has contributed or who is contributing to the past or present handling, storage, treatment, transportation, or disposal of any solid waste which may present an imminent and substantial endangerment to health or the environment.

2. The Navajo Nation courts shall have jurisdiction to enforce such provision, requirement, prohibition, regulation, order or permit requirement, to restrain any person who has contributed or who is contributing to the past or present handling, storage, treatment, transportation, or disposal of any solid waste, to order such person to take such other action as may be necessary and to apply any appropriate civil penalties.

B. Notice.

1. An action may not be commenced under Subsection (A)(1)(a) of this Section fewer than sixty (60) days after the plaintiff has given notice of the alleged violation to the Director, the Navajo Nation and the alleged violator. In addition, an action may not be commenced if the Director has commenced and is diligently prosecuting an administrative or a civil action in court to require compliance with this Chapter, except that any person may intervene as a matter of right in an action filed with the Window Rock District Court.

2. An action may not be commenced under Subsection (A)(1)(b) of this Section fewer than ninety (90) days after the plaintiff has given notice of the endangerment to the Director, the Navajo Nation and any person alleged to have contributed or to be contributing to the past or present handling, storage, treatment, transportation, or disposal of any solid waste. In addition, an action may not be commenced if the Director has commenced and is diligently prosecuting an administrative or a civil action in court to restrain or abate conditions which may have contributed or are contributing to the activities which may present the alleged endangerment, except that any person may intervene as a matter of right in an action before the Window Rock District Court if such person claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, impair or impede his ability to protect that interest, unless the Director or the Navajo Nation shows that the person's interest is adequately represented by existing parties.

C. Venue; Intervention; Service of Complaint.

1. Any action respecting a violation by a solid waste management facility of any requirement of this Chapter or the regulations promulgated hereunder may be brought only in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock.

2. The Director, if not already a party, may intervene as a matter of right in any action brought under this Section.

3. Whenever any action is brought under this Section the plaintiff shall serve a copy of the complaint on the Attorney General and on the Director. No consent judgment may be entered in an action brought under this Section in which the Director is not a party prior to forty-five (45) days following the receipt of a copy of the proposed consent judgment by the Attorney General and the Director, during which time the Attorney General and the Director may submit, on behalf of the Nation, their comments on the proposed consent judgment to the court and parties or the Director may intervene as a matter of right.

D. Award of Costs. The court, in issuing a final order in an action brought under this Section, may award costs of litigation (including reasonable attorney and expert witness fees) to any party whenever the court; determines that such award is appropriate. The court may, if a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction is sought, require the filing of a bond or equivalent security.

E. Penalty Fund. Penalties received under this Section shall be deposited in a Special Revenue Fund in the Navajo Nation Treasury for use by the Director to finance solid waste management compliance and enforcement activities. The Director shall report annually to the Navajo Nation Council about the sums deposited into the fund, including the sources and the actual and proposed uses thereof.

A petition for review of any final action taken by the Director under this Chapter, including but not limited to promulgation of regulations and standards, issuance of orders and issuance and denial of permits (but not including imposition of administrative penalties under § 154 which are subject to review under § 154(D), or challenge of an administrative subpoena which are subject to review under § 161(B)(3) shall be brought in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. The petition shall be filed within sixty (60) days from the date that notice of such final action is first published, or, if notice is not published, first served upon the alleged violator or such other person required to be served under this Chapter, except that if the petition is based solely on grounds arising after the sixtieth day, then the petition shall be filed within sixty (60) days after such grounds arise.

B. Limitations on Review.

1. If judicial review of a final action of the Director could have been obtained under Subsection (A) of this Section, that action shall not be subject to judicial review in judicial proceedings for enforcement.

2. With respect to any regulations promulgated under this Chapter, only an objection that was raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period may be raised during judicial review. If the person raising an objection can demonstrate to the Director that it was impracticable to raise the objection within such time or if the grounds for the objection arose after the public comment period (but within the time specified for judicial review), and if the objection is of central relevance to the outcome of the regulation, the Director shall convene a proceeding for reconsideration of the regulation and provide the same procedural rights as would have been afforded had the information been available at the time the regulation was proposed. If the Director refuses to convene such a proceeding, the person may seek review of such refusal in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. Such reconsideration shall not postpone the effectiveness of the regulation, although it may be stayed by the Director or the court for up to three (3) months.

3. Except as otherwise expressly allowed by Navajo law no interlocutory appeals shall be permitted with regard to determinations made by the Director under this Chapter. In reviewing alleged procedural errors, the court may invalidate the regulation only if the errors were so serious and related to matters of such central relevance to the regulation that there is a substantial likelihood that the regulation would have been significantly changed if such errors had not been made.

C. Standards for Review. In reviewing any final action of the Director undertaken pursuant to this Chapter, the court may reverse any such action that it finds to be:

1. Arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with the law;
2. In excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations or short of statutory right;
3. Without observance of procedure required by law; or
4. Unsupported by substantial evidence.

D. Challenge to Provisions. Any challenge to the lawfulness of any provision of this Chapter must be filed in accordance with Navajo law within ninety (90) calendar days after the date of enactment of this Chapter in the Window Rock District Court, naming as defendant the Navajo Nation, and not thereafter or in any other manner. Any challenge to regulations promulgated under this Chapter must be filed within ninety (90) calendar days of their adoption. In any such action, relief shall be limited to declaratory relief. The Window Rock District Court shall have exclusive jurisdiction and venue over any action challenging any provision of this Chapter.

§ 312. Standards of competency for certification of commercial and public applicators

A. Commercial and public applicators must demonstrate competency in the use and handling of pesticides, both with regard to general standards applicable to all users and to additional specific standards applicable to each category or subcategory in which the applicator is to be classified.

B. General Standards for Commercial and Public Applicators. Commercial and public applicators must demonstrate knowledge of the following subjects in order to receive certification:

1. Label and Labeling Comprehension.
 - a. The general format and terminology of pesticide labels and labeling;
 - b. The understanding of instructions, signal words, terms, symbols, and other information commonly appearing on pesticide labels;
 - c. Classification of the product, general or restricted; and
 - d. Necessity for use consistent with the label.
2. Safety. Factors including:
 - a. Pesticide toxicity and hazard to man and common exposure routes;
 - b. Common types and causes of pesticide accidents;
 - c. Precautions necessary to guard against injury to applicators and other individuals in or near treated areas;
 - d. Need for and use of protective clothing and equipment;
 - e. Symptoms of pesticide poisoning;
 - f. First aid and other procedures to be followed in case of a pesticide accident; and
 - g. Proper identification, storage, transport, handling, mixing procedures and disposal methods for pesticides and used pesticide containers, including precautions to be taken to prevent children from gaining access to pesticides and pesticide containers.
3. Environment. The potential environmental consequences of the use and misuse of pesticides as may be influenced by such factors as:
 - a. Weather and other climatic conditions;
 - b. Types of terrain, soil or other substrate;
 - c. Presence of fish, wildlife and other non-target organisms; and

- d. Drainage patterns.
- 4. Pests. Factors such as:
 - a. Common features of pest organisms and characteristics of damage needed for pest recognition;
 - b. Recognition of relevant pests; and
 - c. Pest development and biology as it may be relevant to problem identification and control.
- 5. Pesticides. Factors such as:
 - a. Types of pesticides;
 - b. Types of formulations;
 - c. Compatibility, synergism, persistence and animal and plant toxicity of the formulations;
 - d. Hazards and residues associated with use;
 - e. Factors which influence effectiveness or lead to such problems as resistance to pesticides; and
 - f. Dilution procedures.
- 6. Equipment. Factors including:
 - a. Types of equipment and advantages and limitations of each type; and
 - b. Uses, maintenance and calibration of equipment.
- 7. Application Techniques. Factors including:
 - a. Techniques used to apply various formulations of pesticides, solutions, and gases, together with a knowledge of which techniques of application to use in a given situation;
 - b. Relationship of discharge and placement of pesticides to proper use, unnecessary use, and misuse; and
 - c. Prevention of drift and pesticide loss into the environment.
- 8. Laws and Regulations. Applicable federal and Navajo Nation laws and regulations.

C. Category Specific Standards. In addition to the general standards, commercial and public applicators must demonstrate knowledge of the principles of pesticide use as they relate to the particular use category in which the applicator is involved. The following are the category specific standards.

- 1. Agricultural Pest Control.
 - a. Plant. Applicators must demonstrate practical knowledge of the crops grown and the specific pests of those crops on which they may be using restricted use pesticides. The importance of such knowledge is amplified by the extensive areas involved, the quantities of pesticides needed, and the ultimate use of many commodities as food and feed. Practical knowledge is required concerning soil and water problems, pre-harvest intervals, re-entry intervals, phytotoxicity, and potential for environmental contamination, non-target injury and community problems resulting from the use of restricted use pesticides in agricultural areas.
 - b. Animal. Applicators applying pesticides directly to animals must demonstrate practical knowledge of such animals and their associated pests. A practical knowledge is also required concerning specific pesticide toxicity and residue potential, since host animals will frequently be used for food. Further, the applicator must know the relative hazards associated with such factors as formulation, application techniques, age of animals, stress and extent of treatment.

2. Forest Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of the types of forests, forest nurseries, and seed production in the Navajo Nation and the pests involved. They should possess practical knowledge of the cyclic occurrence of certain pests and specific population dynamics as a basis for programming pesticide applications. A practical knowledge is required of the relative biotic agents and their vulnerability to the pesticides to be applied. Because forest stands may be large and frequently include natural aquatic habitats and harbor wildlife, the consequences of pesticide use may be difficult to assess. The applicator must therefore demonstrate practical knowledge of control methods which will minimize the possibility of secondary problems such as unintended effects on wildlife. Proper use of specialized equipment must be demonstrated, especially as it may relate to meteorological factors and adjacent lands use. Due to frequent proximity of human habitation to application activities, applicators in this category must demonstrate practical knowledge of application methods which will minimize or prevent hazards to human, pests and other domestic animals.

3. Ornamental and Turf Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of pesticide problems associated with the production and maintenance of ornamental trees, shrubs, plantings, and turf, including cognizance of potential phytotoxicity due to a wide variety of plant materials, drift, and persistence beyond the intended period of pest control. Because of the frequent proximity of human habitation to application activities, applicators in this category must demonstrate practical knowledge of application methods which will minimize or prevent hazards to humans, pests, and other domestic animals.

4. Seed Treatment. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of types of seeds that require chemical protection against pests and factors such as seed coloration, carriers, and surface active agents which influence pesticide binding and may affect germination. They must demonstrate practical knowledge of hazards associated with handling, sorting and mixing, and misuse of treated seed such as introduction of treated seed into food and feed channels, as well as proper disposal of unused treated seeds.

5. Aquatic Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of the secondary effects which can be caused by improper application rates, incorrect formulations, and faulty application of restricted use pesticides used in this category. They shall demonstrate practical knowledge of various water use situations and the potential of downstream effects. Further, they must have practical knowledge concerning potential pesticide effect on plants, fish, birds, beneficial insects and other organisms which may be present in aquatic environments. These applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of the principles of limited area application.

6. Right-of-Way Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of a wide variety of environments since rights-of-way can traverse many different terrains, including waterways. They shall demonstrate practical knowledge of problems on runoff, drift, and excessive foliage destruction and ability to recognize target organisms. They shall also demonstrate practical knowledge of the nature of herbicides, the need of containment of these pesticides within the right-of-way area, and the impact of their application activities on the adjacent areas and communities.

7. Industrial, Institutional, Structural and Health-Related Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate a practical knowledge of a wide variety of pests including their life cycles, types of formulations appropriate for their control and methods of application that avoid contamination of food, damage and contamination of habitat and exposure of people and pets. Since human exposure, including babies, children, pregnant women and elderly people, is frequently a potential problem, applicators must demonstrate practical knowledge of the specific factors which may lead to a hazardous condition, including continuous exposure in the various situations encountered in this category. Because health-related pest control may involve outdoor application, applicators must also demonstrate practical knowledge of environmental conditions particularly related to this Activity.

8. Public Health Pest Control. Applicator shall demonstrate practical knowledge of vector-disease transmission as it relates to and influences application programs. A wide variety of pests is involved, and it is essential that they be known and recognized, and appropriate life cycles and habitats be understood as a basis for control strategy. These applicators shall have practical knowledge of a great variety of environments ranging from streams to those conditions found in buildings. They should also have practical knowledge of the importance and employment of such non-chemical control methods as sanitation, waste disposal, and drainage.

9. Regulatory Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of regulated pests, applicable laws relating to quarantine and other regulations of pests, and the potential impact on the environment of restricted use pesticides used in suppressing and eradication programs. They shall demonstrate knowledge of factors influencing introduction, spread, and population dynamics of relevant pests. Their knowledge shall extend beyond that required by their immediate duties since their services are frequently required in other areas of the country where emergency measures are invoked to control regulated pests, and where individual judgments must be made in new situations.

10. Research and Demonstration Pest Control:

a. Persons demonstrating the safe and effective use of pesticides to other applicators and the public will be expected to meet comprehensive standards reflecting a broad spectrum of pesticide uses. Many different pest problem situations will be encountered in the course of activities associated with demonstration, and practical knowledge of problems, pests, and population levels occurring in each demonstration situation is required. Such persons should also demonstrate an understanding of pesticide-organism interaction and the importance of integrating pesticide use with other control methods. In general, it would be expected that applicators doing demonstration pest control work possess a practical knowledge of all of the standards detailed in 40 C.F.R. § 171.4(b). In addition, such persons shall meet the specific standards required for categories (1)-(7) of this Section as may be applicable to their particular activity.

b. Persons conducting field research or method improvement work with restricted use pesticides will be expected to know the general standards detailed in § 312 (B) of this Act. In addition, they shall meet the specific standards required for categories (1)-(7) of § 312(C) of this Act that are applicable to their particular activity, or alternatively, they shall meet the more inclusive requirements listed under “Demonstration”.

11. Rodent, Predator, and Bird Pest Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of rodents, predators, and bird pests, as well as predator-prey relationships. They should possess practical knowledge of rodent, predator and bird habits and habitat, and the hazards associated with secondary poisoning of non-target species.

12. Wood Preservative Control. Applicators shall demonstrate practical knowledge of wood preservative products containing creosote, pentachlorophenol (including its salts) and the inorganic arsenicals. They shall possess knowledge of how wood is preserved when using an EPA-registered pesticide containing creosote, pentachlorophenol (including its salts) and inorganic arsenical to protect it from insect attack and decay. Also knowledge should include applicator safety and environmental protection. Wood treated with creosote, pentachlorophenol (including its salts) and inorganic arsenic should only be used in areas where such protection is important.

D. Exemptions from Standards. The above standards do not apply to the following persons for purposes of this Act:

1. Persons conducting laboratory type research involving restricted use pesticides; and

2. Doctors of Medicine and Doctors of Veterinary Medicine applying pesticides as drugs or medication during the course of their normal practice other than Doctors of Veterinary Medicine included under category (B)(1) of § 311 of this Act.

E. Until such time as the NNEPA has adopted its own plan and procedures for examination and testing of competency, any applicant who possesses a certificate from the State of Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah, granted pursuant to an approved state FIFRA plan, shall be deemed to have demonstrated the level of knowledge and competency necessary to receive a similar certificate from the Navajo Nation.

§ 313. Standards of competency for certification of private applicators

A. In order to receive certification, all private applicators must show that they possess a practical knowledge of the pest problems and pest control practices associated with their agricultural operations; proper storage, use, handling and disposal of the pesticides and containers; and their related legal responsibilities. This practical knowledge includes the ability to:

1. Recognize common pests to be controlled and prevent potential damages caused by them.
2. Read and understand the label and labeling information including the common name of the pesticide to be applied; pest(s) to be controlled; timing and methods of application; safety precautions; preharvest or re-entry restrictions; and any specific disposal procedures.
3. Apply pesticides in accordance with label instructions and warnings, including the ability to prepare the proper concentration of pesticide to be used under particular circumstances taking into account such factors as areas to be covered, speed at which application equipment will be driven, and the quantity dispersed in a given period of operation.
4. Recognize local environmental situations that must be considered during application to avoid contamination.
5. Recognize poisoning symptoms and procedures to follow in case of a pesticide accident.

B. Until such time as the NNEPA has adopted its own procedures for examination and testing of competency, any applicant who possesses a certificate from the State of Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah, granted pursuant to an approved state FIFRA plan, shall be deemed to have demonstrated the level of knowledge and competency necessary to receive a similar certificate from the Navajo Nation.

§ 314. Certification and license application conditions

A. All certification and license applications shall contain the following statement to which the applicant must agree and subscribe for the application to be complete and as a condition precedent to the issuance of any certification or license:

“Applicant hereby consents to the jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation in connection with all activities conducted pursuant to or in connection with any certification or license issued pursuant to this application or to which the provisions of the Navajo Nation Pesticide Act otherwise apply. This consent shall be effective whether or not a certification or license is issued or is in effect, and may not be withdrawn by Applicant. This consent shall extend to and be binding upon all successors, heirs, assigns, employees and agents, including contractors and subcontractors, of Applicant.”

B. Applicant shall include the foregoing statement as a term and condition of any agreement it executes for services to be performed or goods to be provided within the Navajo Nation in connection with any certification or license issued under this Chapter, and each party to any such agreement must agree and subscribe to said statement, substituting the name of the party for “Applicant” as appropriate, and substituting the phrase “this agreement” in place of the phrase “any certification or license issued pursuant to this application.” Failure by Applicant to include such statement, or of any party to agree and subscribe to such statement, shall render the contract or other agreement void and unenforceable, and shall subject Applicant to a civil penalty in accordance with § 322 of this Chapter.

§ 315. Standards for supervision of non-certified applicators by certified applicators

A. Certified applicators (except non-readers) whose activities indicate a supervisory role must demonstrate a practical knowledge of federal and Navajo Nation supervisory requirements, including labeling, regarding the application of restricted use pesticides by non-certified applicators.

B. The availability of the certified applicator must be directly related to the hazard of the situation. In many situations, where the certified applicator is not required to be physically present, “direct supervision” shall include verifiable instruction to the competent person, as follows:

- (1) Detailed guidance for applying the pesticide properly, and
- (2) Provisions for contacting the certified applicator in the event he/she is needed. In other situations, and as required by the label, the actual physical presence of a certified applicator may be required when application is made by a non-certified applicator.

C. Each commercial applicator shall be responsible for the acts of each person employed, contracted, subcontracted, or supervised by him in the application of pesticides and all claims and recommendations for use of pesticides. The certified applicator shall be subject to criminal or civil penalties for any violation whether committed by him, or by his officers, agents, employees or subcontractors. Reliance on a subcontractor shall not constitute a defense against any action brought by the Executive Director against a certified applicator pursuant to this Act.

§ 316. Certification procedures

A. Commercial and Public Applicators

1. Certification Methods:

a. A Navajo Nation certification may be obtained by presenting to the Executive Director a valid commercial or public applicator certification issued by the State of Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah pursuant to an approved state FIFRA plan. The Navajo Nation certification issued will reflect Navajo Nation certification only in the commercial or public applicator categories appearing on the State certification. Further, the expiration date on the Navajo Nation certification shall not exceed the expiration date given on the State certification.

b. The Executive Director is authorized to develop and implement a Navajo Nation commercial and public applicator examination and certification program, in conjunction with EPA, and in accordance with the standards required by this Act and FIFRA. Such program maybe either an exclusive or non-exclusive alternative to the acceptance of state certification. A Navajo Nation certification issued pursuant to such a program shall be valid for a period of three (3) years from the date of issuance. A reasonable fee, at a rate set by regulation, may be charged for the issuance of a Navajo Nation certification, whether the certification is based on a State certification or on exam.

2. Certification Renewal. A Navajo Nation certification may be renewed by presenting a valid Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah certification to the Executive Director, and shall be re-issued for a period not to exceed the expiration of such State certification; provided, if the Executive Director has promulgated a Navajo Nation examination procedure for commercial and public applicators, such certification may be renewed pursuant to the procedure specified therein.

3. Records

a. Commercial and public applicators shall keep and maintain records of each application of any restricted use pesticide within the Navajo Nation. Such records shall include the following information:

(1) Name and address of the person for whom the pesticide was applied;

(2) Location and size of treatment site, if different from subsection (A)(3)(a)(1);

(3) Year, month, day and time of application;

(4) Name of pesticide, identified by trade name and EPA registration number, formulation, concentration, rate applied, and total amount used;

(5) Purpose of application, including target pest(s), crop, commodity, or site, as applicable;

(6) Weather conditions; and

(7) Type and amount of pesticide disposed of, method of disposal, date, and location of disposal site.

b. Such records shall be kept for a period of two (2) years from the date of application of the pesticide and shall be available for inspection by the Executive Director at reasonable times. The Executive Director shall, upon written request, be furnished a copy of such records by the commercial or public applicator. Records of restricted use pesticides application performed by persons under the direct supervision of a certified commercial or public applicator shall be the responsibility of the supervising certified applicator.

4. Exemption. The provision of this Section concerning records shall not apply to persons conducting research involving restricted use pesticides nor to Doctors of Medicine or Doctors of Veterinary Medicine applying restricted use pesticides as drugs or medication during the course of their normal practice other than Doctors of Veterinary Medicine included under category (B) (1) (b) of § 311 of this Act.

B. Private Applicators

1. Certification Methods

a. A private applicator may obtain a Navajo Nation certification by presenting to the Executive Director a valid Private Applicator's certification issued by the States of Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah pursuant to an approved state FIFRA plan. The Executive Director will issue a Navajo Nation certification to the holder of an Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah certification which shall authorize only those uses authorized by the State certification. The expiration date of the Navajo Nation certification shall not exceed the expiration date given on the State certification.

b. The Executive Director is authorized to conduct or arrange for the conducting of training sessions for private applicators. Applicators who complete a thorough training in the use of one or more pesticides and demonstrate competency to use such pesticide(s), based on the private applicator standards set forth above, may be certified by the Executive Director to use such pesticide(s). The certification program may employ either a written or oral testing procedure or a thorough physical demonstration of proper technical knowledge and competency. This certification program maybe either an exclusive or a non-exclusive alternative to the acceptance of State certification. A Navajo Nation certification issued pursuant to such a program shall be valid for three (3) years from the date of issuance.

c. A reasonable fee, at a rate set by regulation, may be charged for the issuance of a Navajo Nation certification.

d. Recertification may be obtained by presenting an updated Arizona, New Mexico, or Utah certification to the Executive Director, but such renewal shall not exceed the period of the state certification, provided, if the Executive Director has promulgated a Navajo Nation Certification Program, such certifications shall be renewed pursuant to the procedures specified therein.

C. Certification of Non-English Reading Applicators/Non-Readers

1. The Executive Director may certify a person who is unable to read English, if such person can demonstrate competency with regard to all of the standards required by this Act, except the ability to read. An applicator who does not read English or cannot for any other reason read the appropriate labels must:

a. Receive personal instruction from a certified applicator in the use of the pesticide.

b. Physically demonstrate that he understands how to use such pesticide.

c. Learn and memorize all of the significant information on the label.

d. Be able to distinguish by label shape, color, size or configuration the pesticide from others.

e. Be aware of sources of advice and information for safe and proper use of each pesticide related to his authorization.

2. Certification for non-readers is limited to one pesticide per certification. Non-readers may not supervise non-certified applicators.

§ 320. Denial, suspension or revocation of license or certificate

A. The Executive Director may, for good cause shown or upon his/her own information and belief, informally contact any pesticide dealer or applicator about possible violations of the Act or practices which may result in violations. These informal contacts are to assist the dealer or applicator in adhering to practices which promote the proper use of pesticides.

B. Upon recommendation to the Executive Director or based upon his/her own findings and belief, the Executive Director may issue a Warning of Possible Violation in the form of a letter to a dealer or an applicator. The letter shall explain the basis for the Warning, possible measures which the dealer or applicator may take to mitigate the basis of the Warning, and an explanation of the steps that maybe taken if the dealer or applicator does not take positive corrective action. Neither this letter nor an informal contact are a necessary prerequisite to any further administrative or judicial action, except that the issuance of a warning of possible violation is a prerequisite to any criminal action against a private applicator.

C. The Executive Director is authorized to issue to any person who has willfully or negligently failed to comply with the recommendations of a Warning of Possible Violation or otherwise failed to comply with the requirements of this Act or the terms of a license or certification, an Order to Show Cause why a license or certification should not be revoked. Such an Order will require the person to appear before the Executive Director or other body designated by the Executive Director.

D. The Executive Director is authorized to suspend immediately or deny an application for a license or certification of any dealer or applicator whose actions or omissions in violation of this Act pose a significant threat to the health or welfare of the Navajo Nation, its people and its resources. Within thirty (30) days of any such action, the Executive Director must insure that the dealer or applicator is given an opportunity for a hearing before the Executive Director or a body the Executive Director may designate for consideration of the suspension action and consideration as to whether the license or certification must be revoked, denied, or suspended pending further investigation.

§ 322. Penalties

A. Criminal Penalties.

1. Any person who commits one or more violations of the provisions of this Act shall be subject to criminal prosecution in the District Courts of the Navajo Nation. Upon receipt of the Executive Director's sworn statement alleging one or more violations of this Act, the Office of the Prosecutor of the Navajo Nation shall investigate and prosecute as appropriate alleged criminal violations of this Act.

2. Any person who knowingly violates any provision of this Act or the regulations promulgated thereunder, or who knowingly makes any material false statement or omits material information from, or alters, conceals, or fails to file or maintain any record, application, or other document required pursuant to this Chapter to be filed or maintained shall, upon conviction, be subject to a criminal fine of not greater than five thousand dollars ($5,000), except that in the case of a private applicator the maximum fine shall be one thousand dollars ($1,000), and/or imprisonment for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days.

3. In any instance where the Navajo Nation lacks jurisdiction over the person charged, the Executive Director may refer the action to the appropriate EPA Regional Administrator. Any person who is not subject to the criminal jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation also may be subject to exclusion from the territory of the Navajo Nation for consistent violations of the provisions of this Chapter or the regulations promulgated thereunder. Exclusion proceedings may be initiated by the Director in the District Courts of the Navajo Nation upon his/her determination that such violations have occurred.

4. In addition to the above proceedings, the Director in the District Courts of the Navajo Nation is authorized to initiate a proceeding, separately or in connection with either a criminal or exclusion proceeding brought under this Chapter, for any damages caused to the lands or other resources of the Navajo Nation as the result of any violation of this Chapter or the regulations promulgated thereunder, for any expenses incurred in investigating and evaluating such damages or violations, for any administrative costs incurred, and for the reasonable value of any attorney time or expenses associated with such proceeding.

B. Civil Administrative Penalties.

1. Any person who violates any provision of this Act or the regulations promulgated hereunder may be assessed a civil administrative penalty by order of the Executive Director of not more than five thousand dollars ($5,000) for each violation; provided, however, that no civil penalty shall be assessed unless the person cited shall have been given notice and opportunity for a hearing on such violation. The person cited shall have thirty (30) days from receipt of such notice to pay the penalty or request a hearing. If a timely request for a hearing is not made, the penalty shall be final and the opportunity for judicial review shall be waived.

2. In the event that the Executive Director is unable to collect the civil penalty, the Executive Director shall refer the matter to the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation, for recovery of such amount in the appropriate District Court of the Navajo Nation. In addition, the Attorney General is authorized to recover all of the Director's enforcement expenses, including, but not limited to attorneys' fees and the cost of collection proceedings.

3. In determining the amount of the penalty, the Executive Director shall consider the appropriateness of such penalty to the size of the business of the person charged, the effect on the person's ability to continue in business, and the gravity of the violation. Whenever the Executive Director finds that the violation occurred despite the exercise of due care or did not cause significant harm to health or the environment, the Executive Director may issue a warning in lieu of assessing a penalty.

C. Stop Sale, Use, Removal, and Seizure.

1. Stop Sale, Use, or Removal Orders. In addition to any other penalties or actions available under this Act, the Executive Director may issue and enforce a written or printed "stop sale, use, or removal" order to the pesticide dealer for any lot of pesticides or devices which the Executive Director has reasonable cause to believe are being sold or offered for sale in violation of any of the provisions of this Act or regulations promulgated pursuant to this Act. Such order shall remain in effect until the Executive Director has determined that the provisions of this Act or regulations in question have been complied with.

2. Seizure. If the Executive Director has reasonable cause to believe that a pesticide dealer is selling or offering for sale any pesticides or devices in violation of a "stop sale, use or removal order," the Executive Director may seize the pesticides or devices subject to such order and hold them at a designated place until the violation of this Act or its regulations has been complied with or until the violation has been otherwise legally disposed of and the dealer has paid all costs incurred in connection with the seizure. Such seizure shall be conducted in accordance with the applicable laws of the Navajo Nation.

D. Injunctive Relief. If the violation of any of the provisions of this Act or of any regulations promulgated thereunder is a nuisance or a hazard to the health and safety of humans or harmful to the environment, such activity may be restrained or enjoined at any time by an order issued by the appropriate District Court of the Navajo Nation, but only if all administrative remedies have been exhausted or if the Executive Director determines that immediate and irreparable injury, loss, or damage will result if such violation or activity is not immediately restrained or enjoined. The Executive Director shall request the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation to bring an action to obtain an order to restrain or enjoin any such violation.

E. Records and reports. Pesticide dealers shall keep a record of each sale of restricted use pesticide at each sales outlet on forms provided by the Executive Director. All records and reports shall be submitted to the Executive Director as specified by the regulations promulgated pursuant to this Act.

§ 323. Judicial Review

A. Review in Navajo Nation District Court. Whenever the Executive Director takes final action without the opportunity for a hearing, such as in the case of a refusal to change a pesticide classification, review of such final action shall be had in the appropriate Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock. In addition, any person subject to an administrative penalty under § 322(B) may seek review of such penalty assessment in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock by filing a petition for review in such court within thirty (30) days following the date that the penalty becomes final and by simultaneously sending a copy of such filing by certified mail to the Executive Director and the Attorney General. Within thirty (30) days thereafter the Executive Director shall file in such court a certified copy or certified index of the record on which the penalty was based. The court shall not set aside or remand an order or assessment under this Section unless the record, taken as a whole, does not substantially support the finding of a violation or unless the order or penalty assessment constitutes an abuse of discretion. In any such proceedings, the Executive Director may seek to recover civil penalties ordered or assessed under this Section.

B. Review in Navajo Nation Supreme Court. Review of all other final actions of the Executive Director, including but not limited to promulgation of regulations, issuance of orders, including civil penalty orders, and denial, suspension or revocation of certificates and licenses, shall be had in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. A petition for review shall be filed within sixty (60) days from the date that notice of such final action is first published, or, if notice is not published, first served upon the alleged violator or person required to be served, except that if the petition is based solely on grounds arising after the sixtieth day, then the petition shall be filed within sixty (60) days after such grounds arise. The Navajo Nation Supreme Court, in reviewing the final action, shall limit its review to the issues and evidence that were before the Executive Director at the time of the final action from which the appeal is taken.

C. Limitations on Review. If judicial review of a final action of the Executive Director could have been obtained under Subsection (A) or (B) of this Section, that action shall not be subject to judicial review in judicial proceedings for enforcement.

4 N.N.C. § 323

ENVIRONMENT

D. Standards for Review. In reviewing any final action of the Executive Director undertaken pursuant to this Act, the court may reverse any such action that it finds to be:

1. Arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with the law;

7. “Air pollution” means the presence in the ambient air of one or more air pollutants or combinations thereof in sufficient quantities, which either alone or in connection with other substances, by reason of their concentration and duration, is or tends to be injurious to human, plant or animal life, causes damage to property, unreasonably interferes with the comfortable enjoyment of life or property of a substantial part of a community, obscures visibility, or in any way degrades the quality of the ambient air.

14. “Best available control technology” or “BACT” means, with respect to each pollutant subject to regulation under this Chapter, an emission limitation based on the maximum degree of emission reduction from a major emitting facility which the permitting authority, on a case-by-case basis, taking into account energy, environmental, and economic impacts and other costs, determines is achievable for such facility through application of production processes and available methods, systems and techniques, including fuel cleaning or treatment or innovative fuel combination techniques for control of such pollutant. In no event shall application of BACT result in emissions of any pollutants which will exceed the emissions allowed by any applicable standard established pursuant to § 111⁶ or § 112⁷ of the Clean Air Act or Parts (D) or (F) of Subchapter 2 of this Chapter.
15. “Building,” “structure,” “facility” or “installation” means all of the pollutant-emitting activities that belong to the same industrial grouping, are located on one or more contiguous or adjacent properties, and are under the control of the same person or of persons under common control, except that it shall not include the activities of any vessel. § 1102. Declaration of policy

A. Legislative findings and purposes:

1. The Navajo Nation Council finds that air pollution exists with varying degrees of severity within the Navajo Nation; is an increasing danger to the health and welfare of residents of the Navajo Nation; can cause physical discomfort and injury to property and property values, including injury to agricultural crops and livestock; discourages recreational and other uses of the Navajo Nation's resources; and is aesthetically unappealing.

2. The Navajo Nation Council, by enacting this Chapter, is creating a coordinated program to control present and future sources of air pollution on the Navajo Nation. This Chapter provides for the regulation of air pollution activities in a manner that ensures the health, safety and general welfare of all the residents of the Navajo Nation, protects property values and protects plant and animal life. The Council further is placing primary responsibility for air pollution control and abatement in the Navajo Nation Air Quality Control Program, a program of the Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency.

B. Maintenance of air quality. It is the policy of this Nation that no further significant degradation of the air in the Navajo Nation shall be tolerated, and that economic growth will occur in a manner consistent with the preservation of existing clean air resources. Those sources emitting pollutants in excess of the emission standards set by the Director of the Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency shall bring their emissions into conformity with the standards with all due speed. A new source shall not commence operation until it has secured a permit according to the provisions of this Chapter, the conditions of which require that operation of the source will not cause pollution in excess of the standards set by the Director.

C. Modular approach to air quality control programs:

1. The Navajo Nation is committed to providing for an air quality control program to ensure clean air for residents of the Navajo Nation. Pursuant to § 301 (d) of the Clean Air Act¹ and the regulations thereunder, however, it is discretionary with the Navajo Nation as to whether and which Clean Air Act programs to implement, and in what order. The Director shall determine which programs are essential to the protection of the environment and the health and welfare of the Navajo Nation, and of those programs shall determine which should be developed first. The Director may also determine that only parts of such programs are essential, and may develop these severable portions, as provided in the regulations under § 301 (d) of the Clean Air Act. The Director shall not be required to develop any of the programs described in this Chapter by any particular time.

2. However, once the Director determines that a particular program or portion of a program should be developed, the Director and the NNAQCP must comply with all the relevant statutory and regulatory requirements for that program or portion of a program.

in the Navajo Nation. Nothing contained in this Chapter shall be construed to abridge or alter rights of action or remedies in equity under the common law or statutory law, nor shall any provisions of this part or any act done by virtue thereof be construed as preventing the Navajo Nation or individuals from the exercise of their rights under the common law or statutory law to suppress nuisances or to abate pollution.

Subchapter 2. Air Quality Control Programs

Part A. Tribal Implementation Plans

§ 1111. Designation of air quality control regions

A. Designations. The Director may request the President to submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a list of all areas in the Navajo Nation, designating, with regard to each pollutant for which a national ambient air quality standard exists, each such area as:

1. Nonattainment, if it does not meet (or contributes to ambient air quality in a nearby area that does not meet) the national primary or secondary ambient air quality standard for the pollutant;
2. Attainment, if it meets the national primary or secondary ambient air quality standard for the pollutant; or
3. Unclassifiable, if it can not be classified on the basis of available information as meeting or not meeting the national primary or secondary ambient air quality standard for the pollutant.

B. Redesignations

1. If the President has submitted designations to the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to Subsection (A) of this Section, and the Administrator of the USEPA promulgates a new or revised NAAQS pursuant to § 109 of the Clean Air Act,¹ the President may, and in the case of a revised NAAQS for which the President has submitted designations pursuant to Subsection (A) shall, submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a new list of designations not later than one (1) year after promulgation of the new or revised NAAQS.

2. The President also shall submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a redesignation of a particular area no later than one hundred twenty (120) days after receiving notification from the Administrator of the USEPA, pursuant to § 107(d) (3) of the Clean Air Act,² of the need to redesignate.

3. The Director may request the President, on his/her own motion, to submit to the Administrator of the USEPA for approval, pursuant to § 107 of the Clean Air Act,³ a redesignation of any area within the Navajo Nation if air quality changes within such area. In the case of an area in the Nation which the Administrator of the USEPA finds may significantly affect air pollution concentrations in a state or another tribe, the Director may redesignate that area only with the consent of the states or tribes which the Administrator of the USEPA determines may be significantly affected.

4. The submission of a redesignation shall not affect the effectiveness or enforceability of the applicable tribal implementation plan.

C. Regulations. If the President decides to submit designations to the Administrator of the USEPA under this Section, the Director shall adopt regulations to implement this Section that both:

1. Describe the geographic extent of attainment, nonattainment or unclassified areas of the Navajo Nation for all pollutants for which a national ambient air quality standard exists; and

2. Establish procedures and criteria for redesignating such areas that include:

a. The technical bases for proposed changes, including ambient air quality data, types and distributions of sources of air pollution, population density and projected population growth, transportation system characteristics, traffic congestion, projected industrial and commercial development, meteorology, pollution transport and political boundaries; and

b. Provisions for review of and public comment on proposed changes to area designations.

 - b. Provide for establishment and operation of appropriate devices, methods, systems, and procedures necessary to monitor, compile, and analyze data on ambient air quality, and upon request, make such data available to the Administrator of the USEPA;
 - c. Include a program to enforce the measures described in Subparagraph (a) and regulate the modification and construction of any stationary source within the areas covered by the plan as necessary to assure that national ambient air quality standards are achieved, including a permit program as required in Parts B and E of this Subchapter;
 - d. Contain adequate provisions:
 - (1) Prohibiting, consistent with the provisions of this Chapter, any source within the Navajo Nation from emitting any air pollutant in amounts that will:
 - (a) Contribute significantly to nonattainment in, or interfere with maintenance by, any neighboring state or tribe with respect to any such national primary or secondary ambient air quality standard; or
 - (b) Interfere with measures required to be included in an applicable implementation plan for any neighboring state or tribe under Part C of Title I of the Clean Air Act² to prevent significant deterioration of air quality or to protect visibility; and
 - (2) Insuring compliance with the applicable requirements of Subsection (C) of this Section (relating to interstate pollution abatement);
 - e. Provide:
 - (1) Necessary assurances that the Navajo Nation will have adequate personnel, funding, and authority under Navajo Nation law to carry out such implementation plan and that the NNAQCP is not prohibited by any provision of federal or tribal law from carrying out such implementation plan or portion thereof; and
 - (2) Necessary assurances that, where the Navajo Nation has relied on a local or regional government, agency, or instrumentality for the implementation of any plan provision, the Navajo Nation has responsibility for ensuring adequate implementation of such plan provision;
 - f. Require, as may be prescribed by the Administrator of the USEPA:
 - (1) The installation, maintenance, and replacement of equipment, and the implementation of other necessary steps, by owners or operators of stationary sources to monitor emissions from such sources;

(2) Periodic reports on the nature and amounts of emissions and emissions related data from such sources; and

(3) Correlation of such reports by the NNAQCP with any emission limitations or standards established pursuant to this Chapter, which reports shall be available at reasonable times for public inspection;

g. Provide for authority comparable to that in § 1105 of this Chapter and adequate contingency plans to implement such authority,

h. Provide for revision of such plan:

(1) From time to time as may be necessary to take account of revisions of national primary or secondary ambient air quality standards or the availability of improved or more expeditious methods of attaining such standards; and

(2) Whenever the Administrator of the USEPA finds, on the basis of information available to the Administrator of the USEPA and pursuant to the requirements of § 110 of the Clean Air Act³ and the regulations hereunder, that the plan is substantially inadequate to attain the national ambient air quality standard which it implements or to otherwise comply with any additional requirements established under the Clean Air Act¹ or this Chapter.

i. In the case of a plan or plan revision for an area designated as a nonattainment area, meet the applicable requirements of Part E of this Subchapter (relating to nonattainment areas);

j. Meet the applicable requirements of Subsection (D) of this Section (relating to public notification) and Parts B and C of this Subchapter (relating to prevention of significant deterioration of air quality and visibility protection);

k. Provide for:

(1) The performance of such air quality modeling as the Administrator of the USEPA may prescribe for the purpose of predicting the effect on ambient air quality of any emissions of any air pollutant for which the Administrator of the USEPA has established a national ambient air quality standard; and

(2) The submission, upon request, of data related to such air quality modeling to the Administrator of the USEPA;

l. Require the owner or operator of each major stationary source to pay to the permitting authority, as a condition of any permit required under this Chapter, a fee sufficient to cover:

(1) The reasonable costs of reviewing and acting upon any application for such a permit; and

(2) If the owner or operator receives a permit for such source, the reasonable costs of implementing and enforcing the terms and conditions of any such permit (not including any court costs or other costs associated with any enforcement action), until such fee requirement is superseded with respect to such sources by the QSEPA Administrator's approval of a fee program under Title V of the Clean Air Act;⁴

m. Provide for consultation and participation by Navajo chapters, as defined in 2 N.N.C. § 4001, and any Navajo-created townships affected by the plan; and

n. Provide that in the case of any source which uses a supplemental or intermittent control system for purposes of meeting the requirements of an order under § 113(d) of the Clean Air Act,⁵ the owner or operator of such source may not temporarily reduce the pay of any employee by reason of the use of such supplemental or intermittent or other dispersion-dependent control system.

B. Revisions to plans

1. The Director shall adopt regulations that describe procedures for revising tribal implementation plans as needed from time to time and as required by the Administrator of the USEPA, pursuant to the Clean Air Act¹ and the regulations thereunder, after promulgation of new or revised national ambient air quality standards.

2. If the Director has adopted and submitted to the Administrator of the USEPA a proposed plan revision which the Director determines:

a. Meets the requirements of this Section; and

b. Is necessary (i) to prevent the closing for one (1) year or more of any source of air pollution and (ii) to prevent substantial increases in unemployment which would result from such closing, and which the Administrator of the USEPA has not approved or disapproved under this Section within twelve (12) months of submission of the proposed plan revision, the Director may issue a temporary emergency suspension of the part of the applicable implementation plan that is proposed to be revised with respect to such source. The determination under Subparagraph (b) may not be made with respect to a source that would close without regard to whether or not the proposed plan revision is approved.

3. A temporary emergency suspension issued by the Director under this Subsection shall remain in effect for a maximum of four (4) months or such lesser period as may be specified in a disapproval order of the Administrator of the USEPA.

4. The Director may include in any temporary emergency suspension issued under this Subsection a provision delaying for a period identical to the period of such suspension any compliance schedule (or increment of progress) to which such source is subject under § 113 (d) of the Clean Air Act⁵ upon a finding that such source is unable to comply with such schedule (or increment) solely because of the conditions on the basis of which a suspension was issued under this subsection.

C. Interstate pollution abatement. Each applicable implementation plan shall require each proposed new or modified major source that is subject to Part B of this Chapter or that may significantly contribute to levels of air pollution in excess of the NAAQS in any air quality control region outside the Navajo Nation to provide written notice to all nearby states or tribes in which air pollution levels may be affected by such source at least sixty (60) days prior to the date on which commencement of construction is to be permitted. Each applicable plan shall also identify all major existing stationary sources that may significantly contribute to levels of air pollution in excess of the NAAQS in any area outside the Navajo Nation and shall provide for notice to all nearby states or tribes in which air pollution levels may be affected of the identity of such sources.

D. Public notification. Each plan shall contain measures that will be effective to notify the public on a regular basis of instances or areas in which any national primary ambient air quality standard is or was exceeded, to advise the public of the health hazards associated with such pollution, and to enhance public awareness of the measures that can be taken to prevent such standards from being exceeded and the ways in which the public can participate in regulatory and other efforts to improve air quality. Provisions shall be made to notify the public in both the Navajo and English languages.

E. Prohibition against modification of plan requirements. No order, suspension, plan revision or other action modifying any requirement of any applicable implementation plan maybe taken with respect to any stationary source except for those specifically allowed under the provisions of this Chapter and the Clean Air Act.¹

§ 1116. Increments and ceilings

A. Sulfur oxide and particulate matter. Each applicable implementation plan shall contain measures ensuring that maximum allowable increases over baseline concentrations of, and maximum allowable concentration of, sulfur dioxide and particulate matter shall not be exceeded. The maximum allowable increases and concentrations and provisions affecting those increases and concentrations are specified in §§ 163¹ and 165(d)² of the Clean Air Act and the regulations thereunder.

B. Other pollutants. In the case of nitrogen oxides, each applicable implementation plan shall contain measures ensuring compliance with the maximum allowable increases set forth at 40 C.F.R. § 51.166. With respect to any air pollutant for which a NAAQS is established, other than sulfur oxides or particulate matter, an area classification plan shall not be required if the implementation plan adopted by the Navajo Nation and submitted for the USEPA Administrator's approval or promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 110(c) of the Clean Air Act³ contains other provisions that, when considered as a whole, the Administrator of the USEPA finds will carry out the purposes in § 110 of the Clean Air Act⁴ at least as effectively as an area classification plan for such pollutant. Such other provisions referred to in the preceding sentence need not require the establishment of maximum allowable increases with respect to such pollutant for any area to which this Section applies.

§ 1117. Area reclassification

A. Authority to reclassify areas. The President may reclassify, upon approval of the Navajo Nation Council, such areas as he deems appropriate as class I areas. The land comprising Canyon de Chelly National Monument, as established in 16 U.S.C. § 445, may be reclassified only as class I or II. An area may be reclassified as class III if:

1. Such reclassification will not cause or contribute to concentrations of any air pollutant which exceed any maximum allowable increase or maximum allowable concentration permitted under the classification of any other area; and

2. Such reclassification otherwise meets the requirements of this Part.

B. Notice and hearing; disapproval of Administrator of the USEPA

1. Prior to reclassification of any area under this Part, notice shall be afforded and public hearings shall be conducted in areas proposed to be reclassified and in areas which maybe affected by the proposed reclassification. Prior to any such public hearing a satisfactory description and analysis of the health, environmental, economic, social and energy effects of the proposed reclassification shall be prepared and made available for public inspection, and prior to any such reclassification the description and analysis of such effects shall be reviewed and examined by the Navajo Nation Council.

2. Prior to the issuance of notice under Paragraph (1) respecting the reclassification of any area under this Subsection, if such area includes any federal lands, the President shall provide for written notice to be given to the appropriate federal land manager and afford adequate opportunity (but not in excess of sixty (60) days) to confer with the President and to submit written comments and recommendations with respect to the intended notice of reclassification. In reclassifying any area under this Section with respect to which any federal land manager has submitted written comments and recommendations, the President shall publish a list of any inconsistency between such reclassification and such recommendations and an explanation of such inconsistency (together with the reasons for making such reclassification against the recommendation of the federal land manager).

3. Any reclassification is subject to disapproval by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 164(b) (2) of the Clean Air Act.¹

C. Resolution of disputes between the Navajo Nation and other Indian tribes or states. If any state or tribe is affected by the reclassification of an area by the Navajo Nation and if such party disagrees with such reclassification, or if a permit is proposed to be issued for any new major emitting facility proposed for construction in the Navajo Nation which the governor of an affected state or governing body of an affected tribe, as the case may be, determines will cause or contribute to a cumulative change in air quality in excess of that allowed in the affected state or tribe, the Director shall enter into negotiations with the representative of such governor or other Indian governing body to attempt to resolve such dispute. If the parties are unable to reach an agreement, the Director shall request the USEPA Administrator's involvement pursuant to § 164(e) of the Clean Air Act.²

§ 1118. Preconstruction requirements

A. Major emitting facilities on which construction is commenced. No major emitting facility on which construction was commenced after August 7, 1977, may be constructed in any area to which this part applies unless:

1. A permit has been issued for such proposed facility in accordance with this Part (and Part H of this Subchapter) setting forth emission limitations for such facility which conform to the requirements of this Part;

2. The proposed permit has been subject to a review in accordance with this Section, the required analysis has been conducted in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, and a public hearing has been held with opportunity for interested persons including representatives of the Administrator of the USEPA to appear and submit written or oral presentations on the air quality impact of such source, alternatives to the proposed construction, control technology requirements, and other appropriate considerations;

3. The owner or operator of such facility demonstrates as required pursuant to § 110(j) of the Clean Air Act,¹ that emissions from construction or operation of such facility will not cause, or contribute to, air pollution in excess of any (a) maximum allowable increase or maximum allowable concentration for any pollutant in any area to which this part applies more than one time per year, (b) national ambient air quality standard in any air quality control region, or (c) any other applicable emission standard or standard of performance under this Chapter;

4. The proposed facility is subject to the best available control technology for each pollutant subject to regulation under this Chapter that is emitted from or results from such facility;

5. The proposed facility has complied with the provisions of Subsection (D) of this Section with respect to protection of class I areas, where applicable;

6. There has been an analysis of any air quality impacts projected for the area as a result of growth associated with such facility;

7. The person who owns or operates, or proposes to own or operate, a major emitting facility for which a permit is required under this Part agrees to conduct such monitoring as may be necessary to determine the effect that emissions from any such facility may have, or are having, on air quality in any area that may be affected by emissions from such source; and

8. In the case of a source which proposes to construct in a class III area, emissions from which would cause or contribute to exceeding the maximum allowable increments applicable in a class II area and where no standard under § 111 of the Clean Air Act² has been promulgated subsequent to August 7, 1977 for such source category, the Administrator of the USEPA has approved the determination of best available technology as set forth in the permit.

B. Exception. The demonstration pertaining to maximum allowable increases required under Subsection (A) (3) of this Section shall not apply to maximum allowable increases for class II areas in the case of an expansion or modification of a major emitting facility that was in existence on August 7, 1977, whose allowable emissions of air pollutants, after compliance with Subsection (A) (4) of this Section, will be less than fifty tons per year and for which the owner or operator of such facility demonstrates that emissions of particulate matter and sulfur oxides will not cause or contribute to ambient air quality levels in excess of the national secondary ambient air quality standard for either of such Pollutants.

C. Permit applications. Any completed permit application under this part and the regulations hereunder for a major emitting facility in any area to which this part applies shall be granted or denied not later than one (1) year after the date of filing of such completed application.

D. Action taken on permit applications; notice; adverse impact on air quality related values; variance; emission limitations

1. The Director shall transmit to the Administrator of the USEPA a copy of each permit application relating to a major emitting facility that he/she receives and provide notice to the Administrator of the USEPA of every action related to the consideration of such permit. The Administrator of the USEPA will provide notice of the permit application to the federal land manager and the federal official directly responsible for management of any lands within a class I area that may be affected by emissions from the proposed facility, pursuant to the requirements of § 165 (d) (2) of the Clean Air Act.³

a. In any case where the federal official charged with direct responsibility for management of any lands within a class I area, or the federal land manager of such lands, or the Administrator, of the USEPA, or the Governor of an adjacent state or governing body of a nearby tribe containing such a class I area files a notice alleging that emissions for a proposed major emitting facility may cause or contribute to a change in the air quality in such area and identifying the potential adverse impact of such change, a permit shall not be issued unless the owner or operator of such facility demonstrates that emissions of particulate matter and sulfur dioxide will not cause or contribute to concentrations which exceed the maximum allowable increases for a class I area.

b. In any case where the federal land manager demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Director that the emissions for such facility will have an adverse impact on the air quality-related values (including visibility) of such lands, notwithstanding the fact that the change in air quality resulting from emissions from such facility will not cause or contribute to concentrations which exceed the maximum allowable increases for a class I area, a permit shall not be issued.

c. In any case where the owner or operator of such facility demonstrates to the satisfaction of the federal land manager, and the federal land manager so certifies, that the emissions from such facility will have no adverse impact on the air quality-related values of such lands (including visibility), notwithstanding the fact that the change in air quality resulting from emissions from such facility will cause or contribute to concentrations which exceed the maximum allowable increases for class I areas, the NNAQCP may issue a permit.

d. In the case of a permit issued pursuant to Paragraph (c), the facility shall comply with such emission limitations under the permit as may be necessary to assure that emissions of sulfur oxides and particulates from the facility will not cause or contribute to concentrations of such pollutant which exceed the maximum allowable increases over the baseline concentration regulations thereunder.

e. In any case where the owner or operator of a proposed major emitting facility who has been denied a certification under Paragraph (c) demonstrates to the satisfaction of the President, after notice and public hearing, and the President finds, that the facility cannot be constructed by reason of any maximum allowable increase for sulfur dioxide for periods of twenty-four (24) hours or less applicable to any class I area, the President, after consideration of the federal land manager's recommendation (if any) and subject to his concurrence, may grant a variance from such maximum allowable increase. If such variance is granted, a permit may be issued to such source pursuant to the requirements of this Subparagraph.

f. In any case in which the President recommends a variance under this Subsection in which the federal land manager does not concur, the recommendations of the President and the federal land manager shall be transmitted to the President of the United States, according to the provisions of § 165(d)(2)(D)(ii) of the Clean Air Act.⁴

g. In the case of a permit issued pursuant to Paragraphs (e) and (f), the facility shall comply with such emission limitations under the permit as may be necessary to assure that emissions of sulfur oxides from such facility will not (during any day on which the otherwise applicable maximum allowable increases are exceeded) cause or contribute to concentrations which exceed the maximum allowable increases for such areas over the baseline concentration of such pollutant, as prescribed in § 165(d)(2)(D)(iii) of the Clean Air Act⁵ and the regulations hereunder, and to assure that such emissions will not cause or contribute to concentrations which exceed the otherwise applicable maximum allowable increases for periods of exposure of twenty-four (24) hours or less on more than eighteen (18) days during any annual period.

E. Analysis; continuous air quality monitoring data; regulations; model adjustments

1. The review provided for in Subsection (A) of this Section shall be preceded by an analysis in accordance with regulations of the Administrator of the USEPA, promulgated under § 165 of the Clean Air Act,⁶ which shall be conducted by the major emitting facility applying for such permit, of the ambient air quality at the proposed site and in areas which may be affected by emissions from the proposed facility for each pollutant subject to regulations under this Chapter which will be emitted from such facility.

2. The analysis required by this Subsection shall include continuous air quality monitoring data gathered for purposes of determining whether emissions from the proposed facility will exceed the maximum allowable increases or the maximum allowable concentration permitted under this Part. Such data shall be gathered over a period of one calendar year preceding the date of application for a permit under this part unless the NNAQCP, in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, determines that a complete and adequate analysis for such purposes may be accomplished in a shorter period. The results of such analysis shall be available at the time of the public hearing on the application for such permit.

Part C. Protection of Visibility

§ 1119. Visibility protection for federal class I areas

A. Plan requirements. In the case of an area listed by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 169A(a)(2) of the Clean Air Act ¹ that is located within the Navajo Nation or that could reasonably be anticipated to have impaired visibility due in part or in whole to emissions coming from within the Navajo Nation, each applicable tribal (Navajo Nation) implementation plan under Part A of this Subchapter shall contain such emission limits, schedules of compliance and other measures as may be necessary to make reasonable progress toward meeting the national goal of preventing any future and remedying any existing impairment of visibility due to man-made air pollution in mandatory class I federal areas. Such provisions shall include:

1. Except as otherwise provided pursuant to § 169A(c) of the Clean Air Act,² regarding exemptions, a requirement that each major stationary source that was in existence on August 7, 1977, but was not in operation for more than fifteen (15) years prior to such date, and that as determined by the Director (or the Administrator of the USEPA in the case of a federal implementation plan under § 110 (c) of the Clean Air Act),³ emits any air pollutant which may reasonably be anticipated to cause or contribute to any impairment of visibility in any such area, shall procure, install, and operate, as expeditiously as practicable (and maintain thereafter) the best available retrofit technology, as determined by the Director or the Administrator of the USEPA, as the case may be, for controlling emissions from such source for the purpose of eliminating or reducing any such impairment; and

2. A long-term (ten (10) to fifteen (15) year) strategy for making reasonable progress toward meeting the national goal specified in the first paragraph of this Subsection (A) and in § 169A(a) (1) of the Clean Air Act.⁴

The Director shall make such determinations in accordance with regulations and guidelines promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 169(A) of the Clean Air Act.⁵ In the case of a fossil fuel-fired power plant having a total generating capacity in excess of 750 megawatts, the emission limitations required under this paragraph shall be determined pursuant to guidelines promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 169(A)(b) (1) of the Clean Air Act.

B. Consultations with appropriate federal land managers. Before holding the public hearing required on a proposed promulgation of or revision to an applicable implementation plan to meet the requirements of this section, the Director shall consult in person with the appropriate federal land manager or managers and shall include a summary of the conclusions and recommendations of the federal land managers in the notice to the public.

A. Visibility transport regions. B. Visibility transport commissions. The President or his designee may be a member of a visibility transport commission established by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 169B of the Clean Air Act,¹ and as such shall participate in all activities required under that Section.

Part D. New Source Performance Standards

§ 1121. Implementation and enforcement of standards of performance

A. Implementation and enforcement by Director. The Director may develop and submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a procedure for implementing and enforcing standards of performance for new sources located in the Navajo Nation. The Director is authorized under the Clean Air Act¹ to implement and enforce such standards upon delegation of such authority from the Administrator of the USEPA.

B. Standards of performance for existing sources. The Director may submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a plan that:

1. Establishes standards of performance for any existing source for any air pollutant:

a. For which air quality criteria have not been issued or that is not included on a list published under § 108 of the Clean Air Act² or emitted from a source category that is regulated under § 112 of the Clean Air Act,³ but

b. To which a standard of performance under § 111 of the Clean Air Act⁴ would apply if such existing source were a new source; and

2. Provides for the implementation and enforcement of such standards of performance.

3. In applying a standard of performance to any particular source under a plan submitted under this Paragraph, the Director may take into consideration, among other factors, the remaining useful life of the existing source to which such standard applies.

C. Solid waste incineration units

1. If existing solid waste incineration units of a category for which the Administrator of the USEPA has promulgated guidelines are operating within the Navajo Nation, the Director may submit to the Administrator of the USEPA for approval, pursuant to § 129(b)(2) of the Clean Air Act,⁵ a plan to implement and enforce the guidelines. The plan shall be at least as protective as the guidelines and shall provide that each unit subject to the guidelines shall be in compliance with all requirements of § 129 of the Clean Air Act⁶ within three (3) years of the date that the plan is approved by the Administrator of the USEPA. The Director may modify and resubmit a plan that has been disapproved.

2. The Director may implement a model program for the training of solid waste incineration unit operators and high-capacity fossil fuel-fired plant operators, if the Director has adopted a program that is at least as effective as the model program developed by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 129(d) of the Clean Air Act⁷ and has been authorized to do so by the Administrator of the USEPA.

3. Each solid waste incineration unit in the Navajo Nation in a category for which the Administrator of the USEPA has promulgated performance standards under §§ 111⁴ or 129⁶ of the Clean Air Act shall operate pursuant to a permit issued under this Subsection and Part H of this Subchapter, if the Navajo Nation has an approved permit program for such source. Such permits may be renewed according to the provisions of Part H of this Subchapter. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Chapter, each permit for a solid waste incineration unit that combusts municipal waste shall be issued for a period of up to twelve (12) years and shall be reviewed every five (5) years from the date of issuance or reissuance. Each permit shall continue in effect after the date of issuance until the date of termination, unless the Director determines that the unit is not in compliance with all standards and conditions contained in the permit. Such determination shall be made at regular intervals during the term of the permit, such intervals not to exceed five (5) years, and only after public comment and public hearing. No permit may be issued by any person who is also responsible, in whole or in part, for the design and construction or operation of the unit. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Paragraph, the Director may require the owner or operator of any unit to comply with emissions limitations or implement any other measures, if the Director determines that emissions in the absence of such limitations or measures may reasonably be anticipated to endanger public health or the environment.

4. The Director may adopt and enforce any regulation, requirement, limitation or standard relating to solid waste incineration units that is more stringent than one in effect under the Clean Air Act,¹ and may establish any other requirements applicable to solid waste incineration units, including the authority to establish for any air pollutant an ambient air quality standard, except that no solid waste incineration unit subject to performance standards under §§ 111⁴ and 129⁶ of the Clean Air Act shall be subject to standards under § 1128 of this Chapter.

5. A solid waste incineration unit shall not be a utility unit for purposes of Part G of this Subchapter, provided that more than 80% of its annual average fuel consumption measured on a Btu basis, during a period or periods to be determined by the Administrator of the USEPA, is from a fuel (including any waste burned as a fuel) other than a fossil fuel.

6. No requirement of an applicable implementation plan under §§ 1118 or 1122 of this Chapter may be used to weaken the standards in effect under this Subsection.

D. Prohibited acts. It shall be unlawful for any owner or operator of any new source (or any existing source for which standards of performance are established pursuant to Subsection (B) of this Sections) or any new or existing solid waste incineration unit to operate such source in violation of any standard of performance applicable to such source, as prescribed by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to §§ 111⁴ or 129⁶ of the Clean Air Act and the regulations hereunder and by the Director pursuant to this Section and the regulations thereunder.

E. Revision of regulations. The Director, with the approval of the President, may submit an application to the Administrator of the USEPA for revision of the regulations promulgated under § 111(f)(1) of the Clean Air Act.⁸ The application shall demonstrate that:

1. The Administrator of the USEPA has failed to specify in regulations under § 111 (f)(1) of the Clean Air Act⁸ any category of major stationary sources required to be specified under such regulations;

2. The Administrator of the USEPA has failed to include in the list under § 111 (b) (1) (A) of the Clean Air Act⁹ any category of stationary sources that contributes significantly to air pollution which may reasonably be anticipated to endanger public health or welfare (notwithstanding that such category is not a category of major stationary sources);

3. The Administrator of the USEPA has failed to apply properly the criteria required to be considered under § 111(f) (2) of the Clean Air Act;¹⁰ or

4. A new, innovative or improved technology or process that achieves greater continuous emission reduction has been adequately demonstrated for any category of stationary sources and, as a result, the new source standard of performance in effect for such category no longer reflects the greatest degree of emission limitation achievable through application of the best technological system of continuous emission reduction which (taking into consideration the cost of achieving such emission reduction, and any non-air quality health and environmental impact and energy requirements) has been adequately demonstrated.

Part E. Provisions for Nonattainment Areas and New Source Review

§ 1122. Nonattainment plan provisions

A. Plan submissions. With respect to any area within the Navajo Nation that the Administrator of the USEPA designates as nonattainment for any NAAQS, pursuant to § 107 of the Clean Air Act,¹ the Director may submit a plan or plan revision meeting the applicable requirements prescribed in §§ 110(a)(2)² and 172(c)³ of the Clean Air Act and in Subsection (B) of this Section and § 1112 (A) of this Chapter and in the regulations promulgated hereunder.

B. Plan provisions. The plan shall provide for attainment of the national primary ambient air quality standards and shall also contain the following provisions:

1. A requirement for the implementation of all reasonably available control measures as expeditiously as practicable (including such reductions in emissions from existing sources in the area as may be obtained through the adoption, at a minimum, of reasonably available control technology);
2. A requirement for reasonable further progress;
3. A comprehensive, accurate, current inventory of actual emissions from all sources of the relevant pollutant or pollutants in such area, including such periodic revisions as the Administrator of the USEPA may determine necessary to assure that the requirements of this Part are met;
4. An identification and quantification of the emissions, if any, of any such pollutant or pollutants which will be allowed, in accordance with § 1124 (A) (1) (b) of this Chapter, from the construction and operation of major new or modified stationary sources in each such area. The plan shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Administrator of the USEPA that the emissions quantified for this purpose will be consistent with the achievement of reasonable further progress and will not interfere with attainment of the applicable national ambient air quality standard by the applicable attainment date;

5. A requirement for permits for the construction and operation of new or modified major stationary sources anywhere in the nonattainment area, in accordance with § 1124 of this Chapter;

6. Enforceable emission limitations and such other control measures, means or techniques (including economic incentives such as fees, marketable permits and auctions of emission rights), as well as schedules and timetables for compliance, as may be necessary or appropriate to provide for attainment of such standard in such area by the applicable attainment date specified by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to regulations issued under § 172(a)(2) and (b) of the Clean Air Act,⁴ as modified for Indian tribes by regulations issued under § 301 (d) of the Clean Air Act.⁵ The Director may apply to the Administrator of the USEPA for the use of equivalent modeling, emission inventory and planning procedures, if the proposed techniques are, in the aggregate, at least as effective as the methods specified by the Administrator of the USEPA; and

7. A requirement for the implementation of specific measures to be undertaken if the area fails to make reasonable, further progress or to attain the national primary ambient air quality standard by the applicable attainment date. Such measures shall be included in the plan revision as contingency measures to take effect in any such case without further action by the Director or the Administrator of the USEPA.

C. Plan revision in response to finding of plan inadequacy. Any plan revision for a nonattainment area which is submitted in response to a finding by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 110(k)(5) of the Clean Air Act⁶ must correct the plan deficiencies specified by the Administrator of the USEPA and meet all other applicable plan requirements of § 1112 of this Chapter and this Part.

D. Planning procedures. For any ozone, carbon monoxide, or PM-10 nonattainment area for which the Director intends to submit a plan, the Director shall develop planning procedures pursuant to this Subsection. The organization preparing the plan shall be certified by the Director, and shall include elected officials from the affected area, representatives of the NNAQCP and representatives of any transportation planning agency and of any other organization with responsibilities for developing, submitting or implementing the plan under this Part. In the case of a nonattainment area that is also included within another tribe or state, the Navajo Nation may jointly with the other tribes or states, through intergovernmental agreement or otherwise, undertake and implement all or part of the planning procedures described in this Subsection.

E. Planning grants. The Director, in accordance with Navajo Nation law, may apply to the Administrator of the USEPA for grants for the planning activities required by this Section.

F. Maintenance plans. If the Director submits a request under § 1111(B) of this Chapter for redesignation of a nonattainment area as an area that has attained the national primary ambient air quality standard for any air pollutant, the Director shall also submit a revision of the applicable implementation plan to provide for the maintenance of the standard for such air pollutant in the area concerned for at least ten (10) years after the redesignation. The plan shall contain such additional measures, if any, as maybe necessary to ensure such maintenance. Until a plan revision is approved and an area is redesignated as attainment, the requirements of this Part shall continue in force and effect with respect to such area. Moreover, eight (8) years after redesignation of any area as an attainment area under § 107(d) of the Clean Air Act,⁷ the Director shall submit to the Administrator of the USEPA an additional revision of the applicable implementation plan for maintaining the standard for an additional ten (10) years after the expiration of the 10-year period referred to above.

G. Contingency provisions. Each plan revision submitted under Subsection (F) shall contain such contingency provisions as the Administrator of the USEPA deems necessary to assure that the Director will promptly correct any violation of the standard that occurs after the redesignation of the area as an attainment area. Such provision shall include a requirement that the Director implement all measures with respect to the control of the air pollutant concerned that were contained in the implementation plan for the area before redesignation as an attainment area. The failure of an area to maintain the NAAQS concerned shall not result in a requirement that the Director revise the implementation plan unless the Administrator of the USEPA requires the Director to do so.

H. Interstate transport commissions. The President may petition the Administrator of the USEPA to establish an interstate transport commission under § 176A of the Clean Air Act⁸ and to add or remove the Navajo Nation or any other tribe or state or portion thereof to or from any such commission established under that Section.

§ 1124. Permit requirements

A. General requirements. The Director may issue permits to construct and operate a proposed new or modified major stationary source if:

1. The Director determines, in accordance with regulations issued under § 173 of the Clean Air Act¹ and under this Section, that:

a. By the time the source is to commence operation, sufficient offsetting emissions reductions have been obtained such that total allowable emissions from existing sources in the region, from new or modified sources that are not major emitting facilities, and from the proposed source will be sufficiently less than total emissions from existing sources prior to the application for such permit to construct or modify so as to represent, when considered together with the plan provisions required under § 1122 of this Chapter, reasonable further progress; or

b. In the case of a new or modified major stationary source that is located in a zone (within the nonattainment area) identified by the Administrator of the USEPA as a zone to which economic development should be targeted, that emissions of such pollutant resulting from the proposed new or modified major stationary source will not cause or contribute to emission levels that exceed the allowance permitted for such pollutant for such area from new or modified major stationary sources under § 1122 of this Chapter and § 172 (c) of the Clean Air Act;²

2. The proposed source is required to comply with the lowest achievable emission rate;

3. The owner or operator of the proposed new or modified source has demonstrated that all major stationary sources owned or operated by such person (or by any entity controlling, controlled by, or under common control with such person) in the Navajo Nation are subject to emission limitations and are in compliance, or on a schedule for compliance, with all applicable emission limitations and standards under this Chapter;

4. The Administrator of the USEPA has not determined that the applicable implementation plan is not being adequately implemented for the nonattainment area in which the proposed source is to be constructed or modified; and

5. An analysis of alternative sites, sizes, production processes and environmental control techniques for such proposed source demonstrates that benefits of the proposed source significantly outweigh the environmental and social costs imposed as a result of its location, construction or modification.

B. Any emission reduction required as a precondition to the issuance of a permit shall be federally enforceable before such permit may be issued.

C. Offsets

1. The owner or operator of a new or modified major stationary source may comply with any offset requirement in effect under this Part and Part D of Title 1 of the Clean Air Act³ for increased emissions of any air pollutant only by obtaining emission reductions of such air pollutant from the same source or other sources in the same nonattainment area, except that the Director may allow the owner or operator to obtain such emission reductions in another nonattainment area if (a) the other area has an equal or higher nonattainment classification than the area in which the source is located, and (b) emissions from such other area contribute to a violation of the NAAQS in the nonattainment area in which the source is located. Such emission reductions shall be in effect and enforceable by the time a new or modified source commences operation, and shall assure that the total tonnage of increased emissions of the air pollutant from the new or modified source shall be offset by an equal or greater reduction, as applicable, in the actual emissions of such air pollutant from the same or other sources in the area.

2. Emission reductions otherwise required by this Chapter or by the Clean Air Act⁴ shall not be creditable as emissions reductions for purposes of any such offset requirement. Incidental emission reductions which are not otherwise required by this Chapter shall be creditable as emission reductions for such purposes if such emission reductions meet the requirements of Paragraph (1).

D. Control technology information

The Director shall provide that control technology information from permits issued under this Section will be promptly submitted to the Administrator of the USEPA for purposes of making such information available through the RACT/BACT/LAER clearinghouse to other tribes and states and to the general public.

Part F. Control of Hazardous Air Pollutants

United States Code

§ 1125. Control of hazardous air pollutants

A. In general. The Director may develop and submit to the Administrator of the USEPA for approval a program for the implementation and enforcement of emission standards and other requirements for hazardous air pollutants pursuant to § 112 of the Clean Air Act¹ or requirements for the prevention and mitigation of accidental releases pursuant to § 112(r) of the Clean Air Act,² or both. The program may provide for partial or complete delegation of the USEPA Administrator's authorities and responsibilities to implement and enforce emissions standards and prevention requirements.

B. Navajo standards. As part of the program developed under Subsection (A) of this Section, the Director may adopt and enforce regulations, requirements, limitations, or standards that are more stringent than those in effect under § 112 of the Clean Air Act¹ or that apply to a substance that is not subject to § 112 of the Clean Air Act, pursuant to §§ 1126, 1127 and 1128 of this Chapter. Any standards set by the Director shall be at least as stringent as those promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA.

C. Grants. The Director, in accordance with Navajo Nation law, may apply to the Administrator of the USEPA, pursuant to § 112(1)(4) of the Clean Air Act,³ for grants to assist in developing and implementing a program under Subsection (A) of this Section.

§ 1126. List of hazardous air pollutants

A. Contents of list. The hazardous air pollutants that are subject to regulation under this Part shall consist of

1. The federally listed hazardous air pollutants, as defined in § 1101 of this Chapter;
2. Hazardous air pollutants that are designated by the Director, pursuant to Subsection (B) of this Section.

B. Designation of hazardous air pollutants. The Director may, by regulation, designate hazardous air pollutants in addition to the federally listed hazardous air pollutants if the Director finds that the pollutants present, or may present, through inhalation or other routes of exposure, a threat of adverse human health effects or adverse environmental effects, whether through ambient concentration, bioaccumulation, deposition, or otherwise, but not including releases subject to regulation under § 112(r) of the Clean Air Act.¹ The Director shall rely on technical protocols appropriate for the development of a list of hazardous air pollutants and shall base any designation on credible medical and toxicological evidence that has been subjected to peer review. The Director shall not include any air pollutant that is listed under § 108 of the Clean Air Act,² except that he/she may include a pollutant that independently meets the listing criteria of this subsection and is a precursor to a pollutant listed under § 108(a) or to any pollutant in a class of pollutants listed under that Section. An adequate and reliable methodology must exist for quantifying emissions and ambient concentrations of a pollutant before that pollutant maybe listed under this Subsection. The Director shall not list elemental lead as a hazardous air pollutant under this subsection.

C. Review of list. The Director shall periodically review the list of hazardous air pollutants that are designated pursuant to Subsection (B) of this Section and, where appropriate, shall revise such list by rule, adding or deleting substances as warranted. A current list of all hazardous air pollutants designated pursuant to Subsection (B) of this Section shall be kept on file at the NNAQCP office and shall be available for examination by the public during regular business hours.

D. Petitions to modify list. Any person may petition the Director to modify the list of hazardous air pollutants under Subsection (B) of this Section by adding or deleting substances. The petition must include a showing that there is adequate data on the health or environmental effects of the pollutant or other evidence adequate to support the petition. The Director shall commence a rulemaking pursuant to § 1161 of this Chapter within six (6) months of receipt of the petition.

§ 1127. List of source categories

A. Contents of list. The categories and subcategories of major sources and area sources of hazardous air pollutants listed under § 1126 of this Chapter shall consist of:

1. Source categories listed by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 112 (c) of the Clean Air Act;¹ and
2. Categories and subcategories of sources that emit the hazardous air pollutants designated by the Director pursuant to § 1126 (B) of this Chapter.
3. The Director may list a major source or area source category under Paragraph (2) of this Subsection if the Director finds, through rulemaking pursuant to § 1161 of this Chapter, that emissions of hazardous air pollutants from that category present a threat of adverse effects to human health or the environment (by such sources individually or in the aggregate) warranting regulation under this Section. The Director shall periodically review the list of hazardous air pollutants that are designated pursuant to Paragraph (2) of this Subsection and, where appropriate, shall revise such list by rule, adding or deleting substances as warranted.

B. Petitions to modify list. Any person may petition the Director to modify the list of source categories under Subsection (A) (2) of this Section by adding or deleting categories. The petition must include a showing as to the lifetime risk of cancer to the most exposed individual in the affected population caused by the hazardous air pollutants emitted from such source category, the extent to which hazardous air pollutants emitted from such source category exceed or do not exceed a level which is adequate to protect public health with an ample margin of safety, the degree to which adverse environmental effects will or will not result from hazardous air pollutants emitted from such source category, or other evidence adequate to support the petition. The Director shall commence a rulemaking pursuant to § 1161 of this Chapter within six (6) months of receipt of the petition to add or delete the source category from the list under Subsection (A).

§ 1128. Emission standards

A. In general. The Director shall adopt the standards promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 112 (d), (e)(5), (f) and (n) of the Clean Air Act¹ and, in addition, shall promulgate regulations establishing emissions standards for each category or subcategory listed by the Director pursuant to § 1127(A)(2) of this Chapter. The Director may distinguish among classes, types and sizes of sources within a category or subcategory in establishing such standards.

Notwithstanding the first sentence of this Subsection, the Director may adopt more stringent standards than those promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, except in the case of emissions of radionuclides from facilities licensed by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The Director shall comply with § 112(n)(4) of the Clean Air Act² with respect to the non-aggregation of emissions from oil and natural gas facilities and pipelines. Emissions from any oil or gas exploration or production well (with its associated equipment) and emissions from any pipeline compressor or pump station shall not be aggregated with emissions from other similar units, whether or not such units are in a contiguous area or under common control, to determine whether such units or stations are major sources, except as provided by regulation promulgated by the Director, and in the case of any oil or gas exploration or production well (with its associated equipment), such emissions shall not be aggregated for any purpose under this Part, except as provided by regulation promulgated by the Director.

B. Criteria. Emissions standards promulgated by the Director under this Section shall require the maximum degree of reduction in emissions of the hazardous air pollutants subject to this part (including a prohibition on such emissions, where achievable) that the Director, taking into consideration the cost of achieving such emission reduction, and any non-air quality health and environmental impacts and energy requirements, determines is achievable for new or existing sources in the category or subcategory to which such emission standard applies, through application of measures, processes, methods, systems or techniques including, but not limited to, measures that:

1. Reduce the volume of, or eliminate emissions of, such pollutants through process changes, substitution of materials or other modifications;
2. Enclose systems or processes to eliminate emissions;
3. Collect, capture, or treat such pollutants when released from a process, stack, storage, or fugitive emissions point;
4. Are design, equipment, work practice or operational standards (including requirements for operator training or certification), as provided in § 112(h) of the Clean Air Act;³ or
5. Are a combination of the above.

C. New and existing sources. The maximum degree of reduction in emissions that is deemed achievable for new sources in a category or subcategory shall not be less stringent than the emission control that is achieved in practice by the best controlled similar source, as determined by the Director. Emission standards promulgated under this Section for existing sources in a category or subcategory maybe less stringent than standards for new sources in the same category or subcategory but shall not be less stringent, and maybe more stringent, than:

1. The average emission limitation achieved by the best performing twelve percent (12%) of the existing sources (for which the Administrator of the USEPA has emissions information), excluding those sources that have, within eighteen (18) months before the emission standard is proposed or within thirty (30) months before such standard is promulgated, whichever is later, first achieved a level of emission rate or emission reduction which complies, or would comply if the source is not subject to such standard, with the lowest achievable emission rate applicable to the source category and prevailing at the time, in the category or subcategory for categories and subcategories with 30 or more sources; or

2. The average emission limitation achieved by the best performing five sources (for which the Administrator of the USEPA has or could reasonably obtain emissions information) in the category or subcategory for categories or subcategories with fewer than 30 sources.

D. Alternative standard for area sources. With respect to categories and subcategories of area sources listed pursuant to § 1127 the Director may, in lieu of the authorities provided in Subsection (B) of this Section, elect to promulgate standards or requirements applicable to sources in such categories or subcategories that provide for the use of generally available control technologies or management practices by such sources to reduce emissions of hazardous air pollutants.

E. Compliance. For those standards promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA that the Director adopts pursuant to Subsection (A) of this Section, the Director shall also adopt the same compliance dates. The Director shall establish compliance dates for each category or subcategory of existing sources for which the Director promulgates emissions standards under this Section. These dates shall provide for compliance as expeditiously as practicable, but not until ninety (90) days after the effective date of the standard, and no later than two (2) years after the effective date of such standard, except as provided in § 1129(D) of this Chapter.

§ 1129. Hazardous air pollutant permit program

A. In general. Permits issued to sources of hazardous air pollutants covered under § 1127 of this Chapter shall be issued pursuant to the provisions of Part H of this Chapter and subject to the requirements and conditions contained within this Section.

B. Construction, reconstruction and modifications. After the effective date of the permit program under Part H of this Subchapter, no person may obtain a permit or permit revision to modify, construct or reconstruct a major source of hazardous air pollutants or area source in a category listed under § 1127 of this Chapter unless the Director determines that the appropriate maximum achievable control technology emission limitation under this Part will be met. In the case of modifications, the appropriate emission limitation shall be that for existing sources; in the case of construction or reconstruction, for new sources, determined pursuant to § 1128(C) of this Part. In both cases, where the Administrator of the USEPA or the Director, as the case may be, has not established applicable emission limitations, the Director shall make such determination on a case-by-case basis.

C. Exemption from definition of modification. A physical change in a source or change in the method of operation of a source that results in a greater than de minimis increase in actual emissions of a hazardous air pollutant shall not be considered a modification if such increase in the quantity of actual emissions of any hazardous air pollutant from such source will be offset by an equal or greater decrease in the quantity of emissions of another hazardous air pollutant or pollutants from such source that is deemed more hazardous, pursuant to guidance issued by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 112(g)(1)(B) of the Clean Air Act.¹ The owner or operator of such source shall submit a showing to the Director that such increase has been offset under this Subsection.

D. Schedule for compliance. Once the Navajo Nation has an approved permit program under Part H of this Subchapter:

1. After the effective date of any emission standard, limitation, or regulation under § 112(d), (f), or (h) of the Clean Air Act² or under § 1128 of this Chapter, no person may construct any new major source or area source or reconstruct any existing major source or area source subject to such emission standard, regulation, or limitation unless the Director determines that such source, if properly constructed or reconstructed and operated, will comply with the standard, regulation, or limitation.

2. Notwithstanding Paragraph (1), a new source that commences construction or reconstruction after an applicable standard, limitation or regulation is proposed and before such standard, limitation, or regulation is promulgated shall not be required to comply with such promulgated standard until the date three (3) years after the date of promulgation if:

- a. The promulgated standard, limitation, or regulation is more stringent than the standard, limitation, or regulation proposed; and

- b. The source complies with the standard, limitation, or regulation as proposed during the 3-year period immediately after promulgation.

3. After the effective date of any emissions standard, limitation or regulation promulgated under § 112 (d), (f), or (h) of the Clean Air Act² or under § 1128 of this Chapter and applicable to a source, no person may operate such source in violation of such standard, limitation or regulation except, in the case of an existing source, the source shall comply with the emissions standard, limitation or regulation by the date set by the Administrator of the USEPA, pursuant to § 112(i) of the Clean Air Act, or by the Director, pursuant to this Section and § 1128 of this Chapter, as the case may be.

4. The Director may issue a permit that grants an extension permitting an existing source up to one (1) additional year to comply with standards under § 112(d) of the Clean Air Act³ or § 1128 of this Chapter if such additional period is necessary for the installation of controls. An additional extension of up to three (3) years may be added for mining waste operations if the compliance time required under § 112(i)(3) of the Clean Air Act⁴ and the regulations hereunder, together with the 1-year extension provided by the Director under this Paragraph, is insufficient to dry and cover mining waste in order to reduce emissions of any pollutant listed under § 112 (b) of the Clean Air Act.⁵

5. If the owner or operator of an existing source demonstrates that the source has achieved a reduction of at least ninety (90%) in emissions of hazardous air pollutants (at least ninety-five percent (95%) in the case of hazardous air pollutants that are particulates) before the otherwise applicable standard under § 112(d) of the Clean Air Act³ or § 1128 of this Chapter is first proposed, the Director shall issue a permit allowing the source to meet an alternative emission limitation reflecting such reduction in lieu of an emission limitation promulgated under § 112(d) of the Clean Air Act or § 1128 of this Chapter. The permit shall provide for an extension of six (6) years from the compliance date for the otherwise applicable standard. The Director may, through regulations, require greater reductions than those specified in this paragraph as a condition of granting this extension. The reduction shall be determined according to the provisions of § 112(i)(5)(C) of the Clean Air Act⁶ and the regulations hereunder.

6. The reduction in Paragraph (5) shall be determined with respect to verifiable and actual emissions in a base year not earlier than calendar year 1987, provided that there is no evidence that emissions in the base year are artificially or substantially greater than emissions in other years prior to implementation of emission reduction measures.

7. For each source granted an alternative emission limitation under Paragraph (5) above, the permit shall establish an enforceable emission limitation for hazardous air pollutants reflecting the reduction which qualifies the source for an alternative emission limitation under paragraph (5). An alternative emission limitation shall not be available with respect to standards or requirements promulgated pursuant to § 112 (f) of the Clean Air Act.⁷

E. Equivalent emission limitation by permit. Once the Navajo Nation has an approved permit program under Part H of this Chapter:

1. If the Administrator of the USEPA fails to promulgate a standard for a category or subcategory of major sources by the date established pursuant to § 112 (e) (1) and (3) of the Clean Air Act,⁸ then beginning eighteen (18) months after that date (but not prior to the effective date of the Navajo permit program), the owner or operator of any major source in such category or subcategory shall submit a permit application to the Director, pursuant to requirements established by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 112(j) of the Clean Air Act.⁹ If the owner or operator has submitted a timely and complete application for a permit, any failure to have a permit shall not be a violation of this requirement, unless the delay in final action is due to the failure of the applicant to timely submit information required or requested to process the application.

2. Permit applications submitted under this Subsection shall be reviewed and approved or disapproved according to the provisions of Part H of this Chapter. If the Director disapproves a permit application or determines that the application is incomplete, the applicant shall have up to six (6) months to revise the application to meet the objections of the Director.

3. The permit shall contain emission limitations for the hazardous air pollutants subject to regulation under this Section and emitted by the source that the Director determines, on a case-by-case basis, to be equivalent to the limitation that would apply to such source if an emission standard had been promulgated in a timely manner under § 112 (d) of the Clean Air Act.³ In the alternative, if the applicable criteria are met, the permit may contain an emissions limitation established according to the provisions of Subsection (D)(5) of this Section. For these purposes, the reduction required by Subsection (D)(5) shall be achieved by the date on which the relevant standard should have been promulgated under § 112 (d) of the Clean Air Act. No such pollutant may be emitted in amounts exceeding an emission limitation contained in a permit immediately for new sources and as expeditiously as practicable but no later than three (3) years after the permit is issued for existing sources, or such other compliance date as would apply under Subsection (D) of this Section.

4. If the Administrator of the USEPA promulgates an emission standard that is applicable to the major source prior to the date on which a permit application is approved, the emission limitation in the permit shall reflect the promulgated standard rather than the emission limitation determined pursuant to Paragraph (3), provided that the source shall have the compliance period provided under Subsection (D) of this Section. If the Administrator of the USEPA promulgates a standard under § 112 (d) of the Clean Air Act³ that would be applicable to the source in lieu of the emission limitation established by permit under this Subsection after the date on which the permit has been issued, the Director shall revise such permit upon the next renewal to reflect the standard promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, providing such source a reasonable time to comply but no longer than eight (8) years after such standard is promulgated or eight (8) years after the date on which the source is first required to comply with the emissions limitation established by Paragraph (3), whichever is earlier.

§ 1130. Research program on hazardous air pollutants

A. Research program. The NNAQCP may, in cooperation with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the National Academy of Sciences, undertake a research program to evaluate the existing risk to public health from hazardous air pollutants and to provide options and recommendations for programs to control the release of hazardous substances into the ambient air. This research may include any or all of the following:

1. Identification of hazardous air pollutants that are or may be emitted into the ambient air in the Navajo Nation;
2. Identification and evaluation of methods for conducting ambient air monitoring, modeling, measuring emissions, and performing related analyses;
3. Surveying concentrations of hazardous air pollutants within the ambient air of the Navajo Nation and estimating contributions to those concentrations from permitted, nonpermitted and natural sources as well as background concentrations;
4. Identification and evaluation of residual risk after implementation of controls during the term of study, of actual risk from exposure to hazardous air pollutants and of alternative risk assessment methodologies;
5. Evaluation of the feasibility of, need for, and potential methods for establishing ambient air quality standards or health-based guidelines for hazardous air pollutants; and
6. Development of a public education program to provide information and increase public awareness of hazardous air pollutants.

B. Report. If the NNAQCP conducts any such research program, it shall submit a report of its findings and recommendations to the President and shall make such report available to the public.

Part G. Acid Deposition Control

§ 1131. Acid deposition permits and compliance plans

A. Permit Program

1. The Director may submit a permit program for approval in accordance with Title V of the Clean Air Act¹ and Part H of this Subchapter to provide for permits for: new utility units required under § 403 (e) of the Clean Air Act² to have allowances; affected units or sources under § 405 of the Clean Air Act;³ and units subject to nitrogen oxide emission reductions under § 407 of the Clean Air Act.⁴

2. Any permit issued by the Director shall prohibit:

- a. Annual emissions of sulfur dioxide in excess of the number of allowances to emit sulfur dioxide that the owner or operator of the unit or designated representative of the owners or operators hold for the unit;
- b. Violations of applicable emissions rates;
- c. The use of any allowance prior to the year for which it was allocated; and
- d. Contravention of any other provision of the permit.

3. Permits shall be issued for a period of five (5) years. No permit shall be issued that is inconsistent with the requirements of this Section and Title IV of the Clean Air Act⁵ and the regulations thereunder, and with the applicable provisions of Part H of this Subchapter and Title V of the Clean Air Act¹ and the regulations thereunder.

B. Compliance plans. Each affected source when submitting an initial permit application to the Director shall include a compliance plan for the source to comply with its requirements under Title IV of the Clean Air Act.⁵ Where an affected source consists of more than one affected unit, the compliance plan shall cover all such units, and for purposes of § 502 (c) of the Clean Air Act⁶ the source shall be considered a "facility". Nothing in this Section regarding compliance plans or in Part H of this Subchapter shall be construed as affecting allowances. Except as provided under § 408(c) (1) (B) of the Clean Air Act,⁷ submission of a statement by the owner or operator, or the designated representative thereof, of a unit subject to the emissions limitation requirements of §§ 405³ and 407⁴ of the Clean Air Act that the unit will meet the applicable emissions limitation requirements of such sections in a timely manner or that, in the case of the emissions limitation requirements of § 405 of the Clean Air Act, the owners and operators will hold allowances to emit not less than the total annual emissions of the unit, shall be deemed to meet the compliance planning requirements of this section and Title V of the Clean Air Act,¹ except that, for any unit that will meet the requirements of Title IV of the Clean Air Act by means of an alternative method of compliance authorized under §§ 407(d) or (e),⁸ 409⁹ or 410¹⁰ of the Clean Air Act or §§ 1132 or 1133 of this Chapter, the proposed and approved compliance plan, permit application and permit shall include, pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, for each alternative method of compliance a comprehensive description of the schedule and means by which the unit will rely on one or more alternative methods of compliance in the manner and time authorized under Title IV of the Clean Air Act. Recordation by the Administrator of the USEPA of transfers of allowances shall amend automatically all applicable proposed or approved permit applications, compliance plans and permits. The Director may also require:

1. For a source, a demonstration of attainment of national ambient air quality standards; and
2. From the owner or operator of two or more affected sources, an integrated compliance plan providing an overall plan for achieving compliance at the affected sources.

C. Phase II permits

1. The owner or operator or the designated representative thereof of each affected source under § 405 of the Clean Air Act³ that is located within the Navajo Nation shall submit a permit application and compliance plan for that source to the Director not later than January 1, 1996.

2. Not later than December 31, 1997, provided that the Navajo Nation has an approved acid deposition control permit program, the Director shall issue permits to the owner, operator, or designated representative thereof of affected sources under § 405 of the Clean Air Act³ that satisfy the requirements of Part H of this Subchapter and Title V of the Clean Air Act¹ and that submitted to the Director a permit application and compliance plan pursuant to Paragraph (1). The permit application and the compliance plan, including amendments thereto, shall be binding on the owner, operator, or designated representative and shall be enforceable as a permit for purposes of this Part and Part H of this Subchapter until a permit is issued by the Director for the affected source.

3. The permit issued in accordance with this Subsection for an affected source shall provide that the affected units at the affected source may not emit an annual tonnage of sulfur dioxide in excess of the number of allowances to emit sulfur dioxide that the owner, operator, or designated representative holds for the unit.

D. New units. The owner or operator of each source that includes a new utility unit that is located within the Navajo Nation shall submit a permit application and compliance plan to the Director not later than two (2) years before January 1, 2000, or the date on which the unit commences operation, whichever is later. The Director shall issue a permit to the owner, operator, or designated representative of the unit that satisfies the requirements of this Part and Part H of this Subchapter and of Titles IV⁵ and V¹ of the Clean Air Act.

E. Units subject to NOx emission limitations. The owner or operator, or designated representative thereof, of any unit subject to an emission rate requirement under § 407 of the Clean Air Act⁴ and located within the Navajo Nation shall submit a permit application and compliance plan for such unit to the Director not later than January 1, 1998.

The Director shall issue a permit to the owner or operator that satisfies the requirements of Titles IV⁵ and V¹ of the Clean Air Act and this Part and Part H of this Subchapter, including any appropriate monitoring and reporting requirements.

F. Amendment of application and compliance plan. At any time after the submission of an application and compliance plan under this Section, the applicant may submit a revised application and compliance plan in accordance with the requirements of this Section and the regulations hereunder. In considering any permit application and compliance plan under this Section, the Director shall ensure coordination with the applicable electric ratemaking authority, in the case of regulated utilities, and with unregulated public utilities.

G. Prohibition

1. It shall be unlawful for an owner or operator, or designated representative thereof, required to submit a permit application or compliance plan under this Part to fail to submit such application or plan in accordance with the requirements specified in this Section or to otherwise fail to comply with regulations implementing this Section.

2. It shall be unlawful for any person to operate any source subject to this Section except in compliance with the terms and requirements of a permit application and compliance plan (including amendments thereto) or permit issued by the Director, provided that there is an approved Navajo Nation acid deposition permit program. For purposes of this Subsection, compliance, as provided in § 1136(E) of this Chapter, with a permit issued under Part H of this Subchapter which complies with this Part for sources subject to this Part shall be deemed compliance with this part as well as with § 1134(E) of this Chapter.

3. In order to ensure reliability of electric power, nothing in this Part or Part H of this Subchapter shall be construed as requiring termination of operations of an electric utility steam generating unit for failure to have an approved permit or compliance plan, except that any such unit may be subject to the applicable enforcement provisions of Subchapter 3 of this Chapter.

H. Certificate of representation. No permit shall be issued under this Section to an affected unit until the designated representative of the owners or operators has filed, with the Administrator of the USEPA and the Director, a certificate of representation with regard to matters under Title IV of the Clean Air Act⁵ and this part, including the holding and distribution of allowances and the proceeds of transactions involving allowances. Such certificate shall comply with the requirements of § 408(i) of the Clean Air Act¹¹ and the regulations hereunder, including where there are multiple holders of a legal or equitable title to, or a leasehold interest in, such a unit, or where a utility or industrial customer purchases power from an affected unit (or units) under life-of-the-unit, firm power contractual arrangements, as those terms are defined under Title IV of the Clean Air Act⁵ and the regulations hereunder.

§ 1132. Special provisions related to nitrogen oxides

A. Alternative emission limitations. Upon request by an owner or operator of a unit subject to § 407 of the Clean Air Act,¹ the Director shall authorize an emission limitation less stringent than the applicable limitation established under § 407(b) of the Clean Air Act upon a determination that:

1. A unit subject to § 407(b) (1) of the Clean Air Act² cannot meet the applicable limitation using low NOx burner technology, as defined in Title IV of the Clean Air Act³ and the regulations thereunder; or
2. A unit subject to § 407(b) (2) of the Clean Air Act³ cannot meet the applicable rate using the technology on which the Administrator of the USEPA based the applicable emission limitation.

B. Demonstration required. The Director shall base such determination upon a showing satisfactory to the Director, in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, that the owner or operator:

1. Has properly installed appropriate control equipment designed to meet the applicable emission rate;
2. Has properly operated such equipment for the period required by the Administrator of the USEPA in regulations and provides operating and monitoring data for such period demonstrating that the unit cannot meet the applicable emission rate; and
3. Has specified emission rate that such unit can meet on an annual average basis.

C. Permit. The Director shall issue an operating permit for the unit in question in accordance with § 1131 of this Chapter that permits the unit during the demonstration period referred to in Paragraph (B)(2) above to emit at a rate in excess of the applicable emission rate. At the conclusion of the demonstration period, the Director shall revise the operating permit to reflect the alternative emission rate demonstrated in Paragraph (B)(2) and (3) above.

D. Emissions averaging

1. In lieu of complying with the applicable emission limitations under § 407(b)(1), (2) or (d) of the Clean Air Act,⁵ the owner or operator of two or more units subject to one or more of the applicable emission limitations set pursuant to those Sections may petition the Director for alternative contemporaneous annual emission limitations for such units that ensure that the actual annual emission rate in pounds of nitrogen oxides per million Btu averaged over the units in question is a rate that is less than or equal to the Btu-weighted average annual emission rate for the same units if they had been operated, during the same period of time, in compliance with limitations set in accordance with the applicable emission rates set pursuant to § 407 (b) (1) and (2) of the Clean Air Act.⁶

2. If the Director determines in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Administrator of the USEPA, that the conditions in Paragraph (1) can be met, the Director shall issue operating permits for such units, in accordance with § 1131 of this Chapter, that allow alternative contemporaneous annual emission limitations. Such emission limitations shall only remain in effect while all such units continue operation under the conditions specified in their respective operating permits.

§ 1133. Repowered sources

A. Eligibility. Not later than December 31, 1997, the owner or operator of an existing unit subject to the emission limitation requirements of § 405(b) or (c) of the Clean Air Act¹ may demonstrate to the Director, if the Navajo Nation has an approved acid deposition control permit program by that date, that one or more units will be repowered with a qualifying clean coal technology, as that term is defined in Title IV of the Clean Air Act² and the regulations hereunder, to comply with the requirements of § 405 of the Clean Air Act.³ The owner or operator shall, as part of any such demonstration, provide, not later than January 1, 2000, satisfactory documentation of a preliminary design and engineering effort for such repowering and an executed and binding contract for the majority of the equipment to repower such unit and such other information as is required by regulation under this Section and § 409 of the Clean Air Act.⁴

B. Extension. The Director shall grant to an owner or operator satisfying the requirements of Subsection (A) of this Section an extension of the emission limitation requirement compliance date for that unit from January 1, 2000 to December 31, 2003. The extension shall be specified in the permit issued to the source, together with any compliance schedule and other requirements necessary to meet Phase II requirements by the extended date. Any unit that is granted an extension under this Section shall not be eligible for a waiver under § 1110 of the Clean Air Act.

C. Control requirements. Any unit qualifying for an extension under this Section that does not increase actual hourly emissions for any pollutant regulated under this Chapter or the Clean Air Act⁵ shall not be subject to any standard of performance under § 1121 of this Chapter. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, no new unit that is designated as a replacement for an existing unit, qualifies for an extension under this Section and is located at a different site than the existing unit shall receive an exemption from the requirements imposed under § 1121 of this Chapter.

D. Expedited permitting. The Director shall attempt to give expedited consideration to permit applications under Parts B and E of this Subchapter for any source qualifying for an extension under this Section.

E. Prohibition. It shall be unlawful for the owner or operator of a repowered source to fail to comply with the requirements of this Section, or any regulation or permit requirements to implement this Section, including the prohibition against emitting sulfur dioxide in excess of allowances held.

Part H. Permits

§ 1134. Permit programs

A. Submission and approval

1. The Director may develop and submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a permit program or portion thereof meeting the requirements of Title V of the Clean Air Act¹ and the regulations thereunder. The Director may establish additional permitting requirements in regulations under this Section, provided that the additional requirements are not inconsistent with the requirements of Title V of the Clean Air Act. In addition, the Director shall submit to the Administrator of the USEPA a legal opinion from the Attorney General that the laws of the Navajo Nation provide adequate authority to carry out the program.

2. If the Administrator of the USEPA disapproves the permit program, in whole or in part, and notifies the Director of any revisions or modifications necessary to obtain approval, the Director may revise and resubmit the program for review under § 502 of the Clean Air Act.²

3. The Director may, subject to 2 N.N.C. § 824(B)(6), 2 N.N.C. § 164(B)(2) and 2 N.N.C. § 1005(C)(2), enter into a delegation agreement with USEPA providing for the Director to implement a CAA Title V operating permit program pursuant...

B. Requirements. The permit program shall contain the elements required by the Administrator of the USEPA by regulation pursuant to Title V of the Clean Air Act,¹ as well as such other elements as the Director may require by regulation, including but not limited to:

1. Requirements for permit applications, including a standard application form and criteria for processing permit applications and for determining in a timely fashion the completeness of applications;

2. Adequate, streamlined, and reasonable procedures for expeditiously determining when applications are complete, for processing such applications, for public notice, including offering an opportunity for public comment and a hearing on permit applications and compliance plans and for expeditious review of permit actions, including applications, renewals, and revisions, and including an opportunity for judicial review in the Navajo Nation Court system of final permit actions (including review of failures to take timely action on permit applications or permit renewal applications, to require that action be taken on such permit applications without additional delay), by the permit applicant, any person who participated in the public comment process provided according to § 1137(D) of this Part, and any other person who could obtain judicial review under Navajo law;

3. Monitoring and reporting requirements;

4. Requirements for adequate personnel and funding to administer the program;

5. Provisions ensuring adequate authority to issue permits; assure compliance by all sources required to have a permit under this Part with each applicable standard, regulation or requirement under this Chapter; assure that upon issuance or renewal permits incorporate emission limitations and other requirements in an applicable implementation plan; terminate, modify or revoke, and reissue permits for cause; enforce permits and permit requirements imposed pursuant to this Part; assure that no permit will be issued if the Administrator of the USEPA objects to its issuance in a timely manner under this Part; and generally administer the permit program;

6. In the case of permits for major sources with a remaining term of three (3) or more years, a requirement that revisions be made to the permit to incorporate applicable standards and regulations promulgated under this Chapter or under the Clean Air Act³ after the issuance of such permit, as expeditiously as practicable and consistent with the procedures established under Paragraph (2) but not later than eighteen (18) months after the promulgation of such standards and regulations, except that no revision shall be required if the effective date of the standards or regulations is after the expiration of the permit term. Such permit revision shall be treated as a permit renewal if it complies with the requirements of this part regarding renewals;

7. In the case of affected sources under the acid rain program, a requirement that revisions be made to the permit to incorporate applicable requirements under Part G of this Subchapter and Title IV of the Clean Air Act⁴ and the regulations hereunder;

8. Provisions to allow changes within a permitted facility or one operating pursuant to § 1135(D) of this Chapter or § 503(d) of the Clean Air Act⁵ without requiring a permit revision, if the changes are not modifications under any provision of Title 1 of the Clean Air Act³ and the changes do not exceed the emissions allowable under the permit (whether expressed as a rate of emissions or as total emissions), and if the facility provides the Director and the Administrator of the USEPA with written notification a minimum of seven (7) days in advance of the proposed changes according to the requirements of the regulations promulgated under § 502 (b)(10) of the Clean Air Act⁶ and under this Section;

a. A requirement that the owner or operator of a source required to obtain a permit under this Part pay a fee to a system of fees established by the Director under this Part and designed solely to cover all reasonable direct and indirect costs required to develop and administer the permit program under this Part and the small business assistance program under § 1140 of this Part (if such program is developed by the Director), including the reasonable costs of reviewing and acting upon permit applications; implementing and enforcing the terms and conditions of permits (not including costs associated with enforcement actions); performing emissions and ambient monitoring; preparing generally applicable regulations and guidance; conducting modeling, analyses and demonstrations; preparing inventories and tracking emissions; the general administrative costs of running the permit program; and the costs of providing direct and indirect support to sources under the small business assistance program in determining and meeting their obligations under this Part and the regulations hereunder (if such program is developed by the Director);

b. A requirement that the fee program result in the collection, in the aggregate, from all sources subject to fees, of an amount not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) per ton of each regulated pollutant, as such term is defined and as such amount is calculated in accordance with § 502 (b) (3) (B) of the Clean Air Act⁷ and the regulations hereunder, unless a lesser amount will meet the requirements of the preceding paragraph; and that the NNAQCP regulations prescribe procedure for increasing the fee each year by the percentage, if any, by which the Consumer Price Index for the immediately preceding calendar year exceeds the Consumer Price Index for calendar year 1989, as defined in § 502 (b) (3) (B) of the Clean Air Act, and provide that any fees collected shall be deposited in the fund established by § 1139 of this Chapter and used solely to cover the reasonable costs of the permit program; and

9. Authority, and reasonable procedures consistent with the need for expeditious action by the Director on permit applications and related matters, to make available to the public any permit application, compliance plan, permit and monitoring or compliance report under § 1135(E) of this Chapter, subject to the provisions of § 1151 (D) of this Chapter.

C. Effective date. The effective date of a permit program or partial or interim program approved under § 502 of the Clean Air Act² shall be the effective date of approval by the Administrator of the USEPA.

D. Interim approval. If a program, including a partial permit program, submitted under Subsection (A) of this Section receives interim approval from the Administrator of the USEPA, for the period of any such interim approval the provisions of Subsection (E) of this Section shall be suspended.

E. Violations. After the effective date of any permit program promulgated under this Part, it shall be unlawful for any person to violate any requirement of a permit issued under this Part or to operate an affected source or a major source, as those terms are defined under § 1101 of this Chapter, or any other source (including an area source) subject to regulation under Parts D and F of this Subchapter, any other source required to have a permit under Parts B or E of this Subchapter, or any other stationary source in a category designated in whole or in part by the Administrator of the USEPA or the Director as requiring a permit, except in compliance with a permit issued by the Director under this Part. If the Director designates a category in whole or in part under this Subsection he/she shall do so by regulation after notice and public comment and shall include a finding setting forth the basis for such designation. If the Administrator of the USEPA exempts a source category from the requirements of § 502(a) of the Clean Air Act,⁸ pursuant to that Subsection, the Director may, but is not required to, exempt that source category from the requirements of this Subsection. Nothing in this Subsection shall be construed to alter the applicable requirements of this Chapter that a permit be obtained before construction or modification.

F. Permits implementing acid deposition provisions. The requirements of this Part, including regarding schedules for submission and approval or disapproval of permit applications, shall apply to permits implementing the requirements of Part G of this Subchapter except as modified by Part G. Nothing in the permits or compliance plans issued pursuant to this Part shall be construed as affecting allowances under Part G of this subchapter or Title IV of the Clean Air Act.⁴

G. Minor source permits. Notwithstanding any other provisions under this Part, the Director shall establish by regulation a minor source permitting program, under which sources not classified as major sources or not otherwise subject to the provisions of this Part shall nevertheless be required to obtain operating permits, in order to control emissions, including fugitive emissions, from such sources. The Director shall promulgate regulations pursuant to this Subsection which shall identify the minor sources subject to this Subsection, provide for the filing of permit applications and compliance plans and for the payment of fees pursuant to Subsection (B) (9) of this Section, and require monitoring and reporting. Minor sources identified by the Director may include coal mines and uranium mines, in addition to such other sources as the Director identifies by regulation.

§ 1135. Permit applications

A. Applicable date. Any source specified in § 1134(E) of this Part shall become subject to a permit program under this Part on the later of the following dates:

1. The effective date of a permit program or partial or interim permit program applicable to the source; or
2. The date such source becomes subject to § 1134 of this Chapter.

B. Deadline. Any person required to have a permit shall, not later than one (1) year after the date on which the source becomes subject to a permit program under this Part (including permit programs that have received interim approvals and partial permit programs), or such earlier date as the Director may establish, submit to the Director a compliance plan and an application for a permit signed by a responsible official, who shall certify the accuracy of the information submitted. Permit applications shall be filed in the manner and according to the requirements prescribed by this Chapter and by the Director through regulation. The Director shall approve or disapprove a completed application and shall issue or deny the permit within eighteen (18) months after the date of receipt thereof, except that the Director shall establish, in conjunction with EPA Region 9, a phased schedule for acting on permit applications submitted within the first full year after the effective date of the permit program or the partial or interim program. This schedule shall ensure that all such applications will be acted on by the Director within five (5) years after such effective date. The Director shall establish reasonable procedures to review permit applications and to prioritize approval or disapproval actions in the case of applications for construction or modification under the applicable requirements of this Chapter.

C. Permit applications

1. Each issued permit shall contain the following statement to which the permittee must agree and subscribe for the permit to be complete and as a condition precedent to the final issuance of any permit:

“Permittee consents to the jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation with respect to those activities conducted pursuant to this permit issued by the Director pursuant to the provisions of the Navajo Nation Air Pollution Prevention and Control Act. This consent shall be effective when a permit is issued and may not be withdrawn. This consent shall extend to and be binding upon all successors, heirs, assigns, employees and agents, including contractors and subcontractors of permittee whose activities fall within the scope of the issued permit.”

2. Permittee shall include the foregoing statement as a term and condition of any contract or other agreement it executes for services to be performed or goods to be provided within the Navajo Nation in connection with any permit issued by the Director, and each party to any such contract or other agreement must agree and subscribe to said statement, substituting the name of the party for “permittee” as appropriate.

D. Compliance plan. The applicant shall submit with the permit application a compliance plan describing how the source will comply with all applicable requirements under this Chapter. The compliance plan shall include a schedule of compliance and a schedule under which the permittee will submit progress reports to the Director no less frequently than every six (6) months. In addition, the permittee shall periodically certify that the facility is in compliance with any applicable requirements of the permit, and promptly report any deviations from permit requirements to the Director, as provided in the regulations promulgated under this Part.

E. Timely and complete applications. Except for sources required to have a permit before construction or modification under this Chapter, if an applicant has submitted a timely and complete application for a permit required by this Part (including for a renewal) but final action has not been taken on such application, the source’s failure to have a permit shall not be a violation of this Chapter, unless the delay in final action was due to the failure of the applicant timely to submit information required or requested to process the application.

No source required to have a permit under this Part shall be in violation of § 1134 (E) of this Chapter before the date on which the source is required to submit an application under subsection (B) of this Section.

F. Availability to public. A copy of each permit application, compliance plan (including the schedule of compliance), emissions or compliance monitoring report, certification, and each permit issued under this Part, shall be available to the public. If an applicant or permittee is required to submit information entitled to protection from disclosure under § 1151 (D) of this Chapter, the applicant or permittee may submit such information separately. The requirements of § 1151 (D) shall apply to such information. The contents of a permit shall not be entitled to protection under § 1151 (D) of this Chapter.

§ 1136. Permit requirements and conditions

A. In general. Permits shall be issued under this Part for fixed terms, not to exceed five (5) years, except that affected sources under Part G of this Subchapter must have 5-year fixed terms and solid waste incineration units under Part D of this Subchapter may have up to 12-year fixed terms. Each permit shall include enforceable emission limitations and standards, a schedule of compliance, a requirement that the permittee submit to the Director, no less often than every six (6) months, the results of any required monitoring, provisions under which the permit can be revised, terminated, modified, or reissued for cause, an identification of all alternative operating scenarios, and such other conditions as are necessary to assure compliance with applicable requirements of this Chapter and the regulations hereunder, including the requirements of the applicable implementation plan.

B. Inspection, entry, monitoring, certification and reporting. Each permit issued under this Part shall set forth inspection, entry, monitoring, compliance certification and reporting requirements to assure compliance with the permit terms and conditions. Such monitoring and reporting requirements shall conform to any applicable regulation promulgated under § 504(b) of the Clean Air Act.¹ Any report required to be submitted by a permit issued to a corporation under this Part shall be signed by a responsible corporate official, who shall certify its accuracy.

C. General permits. The Director may, after notice and opportunity for public hearing, issue a general permit covering numerous similar sources. Any general permit shall comply with all requirements applicable to permits under this Subchapter. No source covered by a general permit shall thereby be relieved from the obligation to file an application under § 1135 of this Chapter.

D. Temporary sources. The Director may issue a single permit authorizing emissions from similar operations at multiple temporary locations. No such permit shall be issued unless it includes conditions that will assure compliance with all the requirements of this Chapter at all authorized locations, including, but not limited to, ambient standards and compliance with any applicable increment or visibility requirements under Parts B and C of this Subchapter. Any such permit shall in addition require the owner or operator to notify the Director in advance of each change in location. The Director may require a separate permit fee for operations at each location.

E. Permit shield. Compliance with a permit issued in accordance with this Part shall be deemed compliance with § 1134 of this Chapter. Except as otherwise provided by the Administrator of the USEPA by regulation, the permit may also provide that compliance with the permit shall be deemed compliance with other applicable provisions of this Chapter that relate to the permittee if:

1. The permit includes the applicable requirements of such provisions;
or
2. The Director, in acting on the permit application, makes a determination relating to the permittee that such other provisions are not applicable and the permit includes the determination or a concise summary thereof.
3. Nothing in the preceding sentence shall alter or affect the provisions of § 1105 of this Chapter, including the authority of the Director under that Section.

1. The Director shall:
 - a. Transmit to the Administrator of the USEPA a copy of each permit application (including any application for a permit modification

2. Upon receipt of an objection by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 505 of the Clean Air Act,⁴ the Director may not issue the permit unless it is revised and issued in accordance with Subsection (C) of this Section. If the Director has issued a permit prior to receipt of an objection by the Administrator of the USEPA under § 505(b)(2) of the Clean Air Act, the Director may issue a revised permit in accordance with Subsection (C) of this Section after the permit has been modified, terminated, or revoked by the Administrator of the USEPA.

§ 1140. Technical and environmental compliance assistance for small businesses

A. Eligibility. This Section shall apply to small business stationary sources, as such term is defined in § 1101 of this Chapter, except that the Director may, upon petition by a source and after notice and opportunity for public comment, include as a small business stationary source a stationary source that does not meet the criteria of Paragraphs (c) to (e) of § 1101 (A) (58) but that does not emit more than 100 tons per year of all regulated pollutants combined. In addition, the Director may, in consultation with the Administrator of the USEPA and the Administrator of the Small Business Administration and after providing notice and opportunity for public hearing, exclude from the definition any category or subcategory of sources that the Director determines to have sufficient technical and financial capabilities to meet the requirements of this Chapter and the Clean Air Act¹ without the application of this Section.

B. Content of program. The Director may, after reasonable notice and public hearings, adopt and submit to the Administrator of the USEPA as part of the tribal implementation plan or as a revision to the tribal implementation plan a program to provide technical and environmental compliance assistance to small business stationary sources. The program must include each of the following:

1. Adequate mechanisms for developing, collecting and coordinating information concerning compliance methods and technologies for small business stationary sources, and programs to encourage lawful cooperation among such sources and other persons to further compliance with this Chapter and the Clean Air Act;¹
2. Adequate mechanisms for assisting small business stationary sources with pollution prevention and accidental release detection and prevention, including providing information concerning alternative technologies, process changes, products and methods of operation that help reduce air pollution;

3. A designated office within NNEPA to serve as ombudsman for small business stationary sources in connection with the implementation of this Chapter and the Clean Air Act;¹

4. A compliance assistance program for small business stationary sources that assists such sources in determining applicable requirements and in receiving permits under this Chapter and the Clean Air Act¹ in a timely and efficient manner;

5. Adequate mechanisms to assure that small business stationary sources receive notice of their rights under this Chapter and the Clean Air Act¹ in such manner and form as to assure reasonably adequate time for such sources to evaluate compliance methods and any relevant or applicable proposed or final regulation or standard issued under this Chapter or the Clean Air Act;

6. Adequate mechanisms for informing small business stationary sources of their obligations under this Chapter and the Clean Air Act,¹ including mechanisms for referring such sources to qualified auditors or, at the option of the Director, for providing audits of the operations of such sources to determine compliance with this Chapter and the Clean Air Act; and

7. Procedures for consideration of requests from a small business stationary source, made before any applicable compliance date, for modification of any work practice or technological method of compliance or modification of the schedule for implementing such work practice or method of compliance, based on the technological and financial capability of any such source. No such modification may be granted unless it is in compliance with the applicable requirements of this Chapter and the Clean Air Act,¹ including the requirements of the applicable implementation plan. Where such requirements are set forth in federal regulations, only modifications authorized in such regulations may be allowed.

C. Compliance advisory panel

1. A compliance advisory panel shall be established which shall:

a. Advise the Director on the effectiveness of the program operated pursuant to this Section, including on the difficulties encountered and the degree and severity of enforcement;

b. Review information developed by the program to ensure that it is understandable by the general public; and

c. Have the program develop and disseminate reports and advisory opinions concerning the findings made pursuant to Paragraphs (a) and (b) above.

2. The panel shall consist of five members, appointed for staggered terms, as follows:

a. Two members, who are not owners or representatives of owners of small business stationary sources, selected by the President to represent the general public;

b. Two members selected by the Speaker of the Navajo Nation Council who are owners or who represent owners of small business stationary sources; and

c. One member selected by the Director to represent NNEPA.

D. Fees. The Director may reduce any fee required under this Chapter to take into account the financial resources of small business stationary sources.

§ 1151. Record keeping, inspections, monitoring and entry

A. Requirements in orders or permits. The Director may require, by order or permit and on a one-time, periodic or continuous basis, any person who owns or operates any emission source, who manufactures emission control equipment or process equipment, who the Director believes may have information necessary for the purposes set forth in this Subsection, or who is subject to any requirement of this Chapter, to:

1. Establish and maintain such records;
2. Make such reports;
3. Install, use and maintain such monitoring equipment, and use such audit procedures or methods;
4. Sample such emissions (in accordance with such procedures or methods, at such locations, at such intervals, during such periods and in such manner as the Administrator of the USEPA or the Director shall prescribe);
5. Keep records on control equipment parameters, production variables or other indirect data when direct monitoring of emissions is impractical;
6. Submit compliance certifications in accordance with Subsection (B) of this Section; and
7. Provide such other information as the Director may reasonably require.

B. Monitoring. The Director may require sources to monitor, sample or otherwise quantify their emissions as follows:

1. The Director may adopt regulations requiring sources to monitor, sample or otherwise quantify their emissions of air pollutants for which ambient air quality standards or emission, design, equipment, work practice or operational standards have been adopted. In the development of these regulations, the Director shall consider the cost and effectiveness of the monitoring, sampling or other studies.

2. In prescribing monitoring, sampling or other quantification requirements under Subsection (A), the Director shall consider the relative cost and accuracy of any reasonable alternatives to such requirements. The Director may require monitoring, sampling or other quantifications under Subsection (A) if the Director determines in writing that the actual or potential emissions in question may adversely affect public health or the environment and the monitoring, sampling, or other quantification method to be required is technically feasible, reasonably accurate and reasonable in cost in light of the use to be made of the data.

3. The Director may require enhanced monitoring and submission of compliance certifications in cases where the Administrator of the USEPA has not already done so pursuant to § 114(a) (3) of the Clean Air Act.¹ Compliance certifications shall be subject to the same requirements as those prescribed under § 114 (a) (3) of the Clean Air Act and the regulations hereunder and, together with monitoring data, shall be subject to Subsection (D) of this Chapter. Submission of a compliance certification shall not limit the Director's authority to investigate or otherwise implement this Chapter.

C. Production of records. Whenever the Director has reasonable cause to believe that any person has violated or is in violation of any requirement of this Chapter or of any regulation hereunder or any requirement of a permit issued pursuant to this Chapter, he/she may require in writing that such person produce all existing books, records and other documents evidencing tests, inspections or studies which may reasonably relate to compliance or noncompliance with such requirements.

D. Public availability of information. Any records, reports or information obtained under Subsections (A), (B) or (C) of this Section shall be available to the public, except that upon a showing satisfactory to the Director by any person that records, reports or information, or any portion thereof (other than emission data), would, if made public, divulge methods or processes entitled to protection as trade secrets of such person, the Director shall consider such record, report, information or portion thereof confidential, except that such material may be disclosed to other officers, employees or authorized representatives of the Navajo Nation and of the United States concerned with carrying out this Chapter or when relevant to any proceeding under this Chapter.

§ 1152. Orders to comply

A. In general. Whenever, on the basis of any information available to the Director, the Director finds that any person has violated, or is in violation of, any requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or permits, orders, plans (including tribal (Navajo Nation) implementation plans), waivers or fees issued or approved pursuant to this Chapter, the Director may:

1. Issue and serve on such person an order requiring such person to comply with such requirement or prohibition, pursuant to the provisions of this Section;
2. Issue and serve on such person an administrative penalty in accordance with § 1155 of this Chapter;
3. Bring a civil action in accordance with § 1154 of this Chapter; and/or;
4. Bring a criminal action in accordance with § 1154 of this Chapter and/or refer any criminal enforcement action or portion of such action to the EPA Regional Administrator for the appropriate EPA region.

B. In addition, when a person has consistently violated any requirements or prohibitions of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or permits, orders, plans (including tribal (Navajo Nation) implementation plans), waivers or fees issued or approved pursuant to this Chapter, or refused to comply with any such requirements or prohibitions, the Director may issue an order prohibiting such person from continuing to operate a source within the Navajo Nation, and/or prohibiting such person from entering into any new contracts (including leases) that would permit such person to operate a source within the Navajo Nation.

C. Requirements for orders to comply. An order to comply issued under this Section shall state with reasonable specificity the nature of the violation, shall state that the alleged violator is entitled to a hearing pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Director under § 1161 of this Chapter, if such hearing is requested in writing within thirty (30) days after the date of issuance of the order, and shall specify a time for compliance that the Director determines is as expeditious as practicable, taking into account the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts to comply with applicable requirements. The order shall become effective immediately upon the expiration of the thirty (30) days if no hearing is requested and, if a timely request for a hearing is made, upon the decision of the Director. The order may be conditional and require a person to refrain from particular acts unless certain conditions are met. In the case of a source required to obtain a permit pursuant to Part H of Subchapter 2 of this Chapter and Title V of the Clean Air Act,¹ the order shall require compliance no later than one (1) year after the date the order is issued and shall be nonrenewable. A copy of the order shall be sent to the appropriate EPA region and, if the order is issued to a corporation, to the appropriate corporate officers. No order to comply issued under this Section shall prevent the Navajo Nation from assessing any penalties nor otherwise affect or limit the Navajo Nation's authority to enforce under other provisions of this Chapter, nor affect any person's obligations to comply with any Section of this Chapter or with a term or condition of any permit or implementation plan promulgated or approved under this Chapter.

§ 1153. Conditional orders

A. Issuance. The Director may adopt regulations providing for the issuance of conditional orders to owners or operators of air pollution sources, which would allow sources to vary from provisions of this Chapter and regulations and plans adopted and permits issued pursuant to this Chapter. Such regulations shall allow owners and operators of sources to petition the Director for conditional orders, and shall specify the minimum requirements for such petitions and procedures for processing petitions and for public participation. For a conditional order that would vary from a requirement of a tribal (Navajo Nation) implementation plan, the regulations shall provide for submittal of the order to the Administrator of the USEPA pursuant to § 110(1) of the Clean Air Act¹ and shall provide for a public hearing on the petition. For a conditional order that would vary from a requirement of a permit issued pursuant to this Chapter, the regulations shall conform to the procedures established for permit revisions pursuant to Part H of Subchapter 2 of this Chapter. In all cases, the Director shall grant a petition for a conditional order only if he/she finds that:

1. There has been a breakdown of equipment or operations beyond the control of the petitioner, the source was in compliance before the breakdown and the breakdown can be corrected within a reasonable time; and
2. Issuance of the conditional order will not endanger public health or the environment, impede attainment of the national ambient air quality standards or cause significant deterioration of existing air quality.

B. Terms and conditions of orders. The requirements imposed as a basis for granting or renewing a conditional order shall include, but not be limited to:

1. A detailed plan for the completion of corrective steps needed to conform to the provisions of this Chapter, and the regulations adopted and permits issued hereunder;

2. A requirement that necessary construction shall begin as expeditiously as practicable; and

3. The right of the NNAQCP to make periodic inspections of the facilities for which the conditional order is granted.

C. Subject to the provisions of Subsection (D), conditional orders shall, be valid for no longer than one (1) year in the case of a source that is required to obtain a permit pursuant to Part H of Subchapter 2 of this Chapter and Title V of the Clean Air Act ² and no longer than three (3) years in the case of any other source. Any fees imposed by the Director in order to obtain a conditional order shall be deposited in the permit fund established under § 1139 of this Chapter.

D. Renewals. A holder of a conditional order may petition the Director for a renewal of such order. A petition for renewal may be filed not more than sixty (60) days nor fewer than thirty (30) days prior to the expiration of the order. The Director, within thirty (30) days of receipt of the petition, shall renew the conditional order for one (1) year if the petitioner is in compliance with the requirements imposed pursuant to Subsection (B). The total term of renewals shall not exceed three (3) years from the date of initial issuance of such order, except that if the petitioner is not in compliance with the requirements of the order after this 3-year period and the Director finds that such failure is due to conditions beyond the control of the petitioner, the Director may renew the order for a total term of two (2) additional years. The Director may also renew a conditional order for up to an additional 2-year term if the Director amends or adopts any regulation that requires the installation of additional or different air pollution control equipment on the source in question.

E. Suspension and revocation. If the terms of a conditional order are being or have been violated, the Director may seek to revoke or suspend the conditional order. In such event, the Director shall serve notice of such violation on the holder of the order, specifying the nature of the violation and the date on which a hearing will be held to determine whether the violation occurred and whether the order should be suspended or revoked.

§ 1154. Judicial Enforcement

A. Civil judicial enforcement. The Director shall request the Attorney General to file an action for a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, a permanent injunction or any other relief provided by law, including the assessment and recovery of civil penalties not more than thirty-two thousand five hundred dollars ($32,500) per day, which amount shall increase automatically whenever the federal maximum civil penalty increases, in any of the following instances:

1. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation or plan adopted pursuant this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter or a fee assessed under this Chapter;
2. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any duty to allow or carry out inspection, entry or monitoring activities;
3. Whenever a person is creating an imminent and substantial endangerment to the public health or the environment because of a release of air pollution, in which case the Director shall request the Attorney General to pursue injunctive relief but not the assessment of penalties, unless the endangerment to the public health is caused by a violation, as specified in Paragraphs (1) and (2).

B. Criminal penalties. Any person who intentionally:

1. Violates any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including but not limited to a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter, a filing, reporting or notice requirement under this Chapter or a fee assessed under this Chapter;
2. Makes any false material statement, representation or certification in, or omits material information from, or alters, conceals or fails to file or maintain any notice, application, record, report, plan or other document required pursuant to this Chapter to be filed or maintained, including required by a permit issued pursuant to this Chapter; or
3. Falsifies, tampers with, renders inaccurate or fails to install any monitoring device or method required to be maintained or followed under this Chapter; shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine in a maximum amount of not less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per day per violation or, if smaller, the largest amount permissible under applicable law. In any instance where the Navajo Nation lacks jurisdiction over the person charged, or where the Director is limited in the amount of the fine that he/she may impose, the Director may refer the action to the appropriate EPA Regional Administrator pursuant to § 1152 of this Chapter. For the purpose of this Subsection, the term "person" includes, in addition to the entities referred to in § 1101(a)(49) of this Chapter, any responsible corporate officer.

C. Jurisdiction and venue. Any action under this Subsection may be brought in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock, and such court shall have jurisdiction to restrain such violation, require compliance, assess civil penalties, collect any fees or noncompliance penalties owed the Navajo Nation under this Chapter, and awarded any other appropriate relief.

D. Calculation of penalties

1. For purposes of determining the number of days of violation for which a civil penalty may be assessed under this Section, § 1155 or § 1156, if the Director has notified the source in writing of the violation and the Director or plaintiff makes a prima facie showing that the conduct or events giving rise to the violation are likely to have continued or recurred past the date of notice, the days of violation shall be presumed to include the date of such notice and each day thereafter until the violator establishes that continuous compliance has been achieved, except to the extent that the violator can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there were intervening days during which no violation occurred or that the violation was not continuing in nature. Notice under this Section shall be accomplished by the issuance of a written notice of violation or written order to comply or by filing a complaint in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock that alleges any violation described in Subsection (A) of this Section.

2. In determining the amount of a civil penalty assessed under this section, the court shall consider the history, seriousness and duration of the violation; any good faith efforts to comply with the applicable requirements; the violator's full compliance history, including the severity and duration of past violations, if any, the economic impact of the penalty on the violator; as an aggravating factor only, the economic benefit, if any, resulting from the violation; and any other factors that the court deems relevant. The court shall not assess penalties for noncompliance with administrative subpoenas under § 1161 of this Chapter or actions under § 1151 of this Chapter where the violator had sufficient cause to violate or fail to refuse to comply with such subpoena or action.

3. All penalties collected pursuant to this Section shall be deposited in a special fund in the Navajo Treasury for use by the Director to finance air compliance and enforcement activities. The Director shall report annually to the Navajo Nation Council about the sums deposited into the fund, including the sources and the actual and proposed uses thereof

E. Security. The court may, if a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction is sought under this Section or § 1156 of this Chapter, require the filing of a bond or equivalent security.

§ 1155. Administrative assessment of penalties

A. Basis for penalty. The Director may issue against any person an administrative order assessing a civil administrative penalty of up to ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per day per violation whenever the Director finds that a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter or a fee assessed under this Chapter. The Director's authority under this Subsection shall be limited to matters where the total penalty sought does not exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and the first alleged date of violation occurred no more than one (1) year prior to the initiation of administrative action, except where the Director and Attorney General jointly determine that a matter involving a larger penalty or longer period of violation is appropriate for administrative penalty action. The communications required to make such a joint determination and the method(s) utilized for making such a joint determination shall be privileged, and shall not be subject to judicial review. The Director may compromise, modify or remit, with or without any conditions, any administrative penalty imposed under this Section.

B. Hearing requirement. The Director shall assess an administrative penalty under this Section by an order made after opportunity for a hearing. The Director shall promulgate rules for discovery and other procedures for hearings under this Section. Before issuing such an order, the Director shall give written notice of the proposed order to the person on whom the penalty is to be assessed and provide such person an opportunity to request a hearing within thirty (30) days of receipt of the notice.

C. Field citations. After consultation with the Attorney General, the Director may implement a field citation program through regulations establishing minor violations for which field citations (assessing civil penalties not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000) per day per violation) may be issued by officers or employees designated by the Director, to the extent permissible under applicable law. Any person on whom a field citation is assessed may, pursuant to regulations issued under this Section, elect to pay the penalty or request a hearing on the citation. If a timely request for a hearing is not made, the penalty shall be final and the opportunity for judicial review shall be waived. Any hearing shall provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence. Payment of a penalty required by a field citation shall not be a defense to further enforcement by the Director to correct a violation or to assess the statutory maximum penalty pursuant to other authorities in this Chapter if the violation continues.

D. Judicial review. Any person subject to a civil penalty under Subsections (A) or (C) of this Section may seek review of such penalty assessment in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock by filing a petition for review in such court within thirty (30) days following the date that the penalty becomes final and by simultaneously sending a copy of such filing by certified mail to the Director and the Attorney General. Within thirty (30) days thereafter the Director shall file in such court a certified copy or certified index of the record on which the penalty was based. The court shall not set aside or remand an order or assessment under this Section unless the record, taken as a whole, does not substantially support the finding of a violation or unless the order or penalty assessment constitutes an abuse of discretion. In any such proceedings, the Director may seek to recover civil penalties ordered or assessed under this Section.

E. Failure to pay penalty. If any person fails to pay an assessment of a civil penalty or fails to comply with an administrative penalty order after the order or assessment has become final, the Director shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock to enforce the order or recover the amount ordered or assessed plus interest, from the date of the final order or decision or the date of the final judgment, as the case may be. In such an action the validity, amount and appropriateness of the order or assessment shall not be subject to review. Any person who fails to pay on a timely basis a civil penalty ordered or assessed under this Section shall be required to pay, in addition to such penalty and interest, the Director's enforcement expenses, including but not limited to attorneys' fees and costs of collection proceedings. Such person shall also pay a quarterly nonpayment penalty for each quarter during which such failure to pay persists. The nonpayment penalty shall be 10% of the aggregate amount of the person's outstanding penalties and nonpayment penalties accrued as of the beginning of the quarter.

F. Calculation of penalty. In determining the amount of any penalty to be assessed under this Section, the Director or the court, as appropriate, shall take into consideration the factors enumerated in § 1154(D) of this Chapter.

§ 1156. Citizen suits

A. Authority to bring civil action; jurisdiction

1. Except as provided in Subsection (B) of this Section, a person may commence a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock on his/her own behalf against any person (except the Navajo Nation or any instrumentality of the Navajo Nation, but not excepting Tribal enterprises) who is alleged to be in violation of an emission standard or limitation under this Chapter, an order issued by the Director or the President with respect to such a standard or limitation, or a permit of requirement to have a permit issued under this chapter.

2. The Navajo Nation Courts shall have jurisdiction to enforce such an emission standard or limitation, order or permit requirement and to apply any appropriate civil penalties.

B. Notice

1. An action may not be commenced under Subsection (A) (1) of this Section fewer than sixty (60) days after the plaintiff has given notice of the alleged violation to the Director, the Navajo Nation and the alleged violator. In addition, an action may not be commenced if the Director has commenced and is diligently prosecuting a civil action in court to require compliance with this Chapter, except that any person may intervene as a matter of right in such an action.

C. Venue; intervention; service of complaint

1. Any action respecting a violation by a source of an emission standard or limitation or an order respecting such standard or limitation may be brought only in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock.

3. Whenever any action is brought under this Section the plaintiff shall serve a copy of the complaint on the Attorney General and on the Director. No consent judgment may be entered in an action brought under this Section in which the Director is not a party prior to forty-five (45) days following the receipt of a copy of the proposed consent judgment by the Attorney General and the Director, during which time the Attorney General and the Director may submit, on behalf of the Navajo Nation, their comments on the proposed consent judgment to the court and parties or the Director may intervene as a matter of right.

D. Award of costs. The Court, in issuing a final order in an action brought under this Section, may award costs of litigation (including reasonable attorney and expert witness fees) to any party whenever the court determines that such award is appropriate.

E. Penalty fund. Penalties received under this Section shall be deposited in a special fund in the Navajo Nation Treasury for use by the Director to finance air compliance and enforcement activities. The Director shall report annually to the Navajo Nation Council about the sums deposited into the fund, including the sources and the actual and proposed uses thereof.

The notice shall specify the period available for public comment and the date, time and place of any public hearing, and shall make available to the public a copy of the proposed regulation. Not later than the date of proposal of the regulation in question the Director shall establish a rulemaking docket and shall make the docket available to the public for inspection and copying during regular business hours. The Director shall allow any person to submit written comments, data or documentary information; shall in addition give interested persons an opportunity to present orally their views, in the Navajo or English language, data or arguments; and shall keep the docket open for twenty (20) days after such proceeding to provide an opportunity for submission of rebuttal and supplementary information.

§ 1162. Review in Navajo Nation Courts

A. Petitions for review. A petition for review of any final action taken by the Director under this Chapter, including but not limited to promulgation of regulations and standards, issuance of orders, and issuance and denial of permits (but not including imposition of administrative penalties under § 1155), shall be brought in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. The petition shall be filed within ninety (90) days from the date that notice of such final action is first published, or, if notice is not published, first served upon the alleged violator or such other person required to be served under this chapter, except that if the petition is based solely on grounds arising after the ninetieth day, then the petition shall be filed within ninety (90) days after such grounds arise. The Navajo Nation Supreme Court, in reviewing the final action, shall limit its review to the issues and evidence that were before the Director at the time of the final action from which the appeal is taken.

B. Limitations on review

1. If judicial review of a final action of the Director could have been obtained under Subsection (A) of this Section, that action shall not be subject to judicial review in judicial proceedings for enforcement.

2. With respect to any regulations promulgated under this Chapter, only an objection that was raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period may be raised during judicial review. If the person raising an objection can demonstrate to the Director that it was impracticable to raise the objection within such time or if the grounds for the objection arose after the public comment period (but within the time specified for judicial review), and if the objection is of central relevance to the outcome of the regulation, the Director shall convene a proceeding for reconsideration of the regulation and provide the same procedural rights as would have been afforded had the information been available at the time the regulation was proposed. If the Director refuses to convene such a proceeding, the person may seek review of such refusal in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. Such reconsideration shall not postpone the effectiveness of the regulation, although it may be stayed by the Director or the court for up to three (3) months.

3. No interlocutory appeals shall be permitted with regard to procedural determinations made by the Director during rulemakings. In reviewing alleged procedural errors, the court may invalidate the regulation only if the errors were so serious and related to matters of such central relevance to the regulation that there is a substantial likelihood that the regulation would have been significantly changed if such errors had not been made.

C. Standards for review. In reviewing any final action of the Director undertaken pursuant to this Chapter, the court may reverse any such action that it finds to be:

1. Arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with the law;
2. In excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations short of statutory right;
3. Without observance of procedure required by law; or
4. Unsupported by substantial evidence.

D. Challenge to any provisions. Any challenge to the lawfulness of any provision of this Chapter must be filed in accordance with Navajo law within ninety (90) calendar days after the date of enactment of this Chapter in the District Court for the District of Window Rock, naming as defendant the Navajo Nation, and not thereafter or in any other manner. Any challenge to regulations promulgated under this Chapter must be filed within ninety (90) calendar days of their adoption. In any such action, relief shall be limited to declaratory relief. The District Court for the District of Window Rock shall have exclusive jurisdiction and venue over any action challenging any provision of this Chapter.

This definition does not include septic tanks or similar devices. For the purposes of this definition, "domestic sewage" includes waste and waste water from humans or household operations that are discharged to or otherwise enter a treatment works. The Director may designate any person subject to the standards for sewage sludge use and disposal established by the Administrator as a "treatment works treating domestic sewage."

Consistent with federal requirements, the Director may exclude from waters of the Navajo Nation certain waste treatment systems.

44. “Wetlands” means those areas that are inundated or saturated by surface water or groundwater at a frequency and duration to support, and that under normal circumstances do support, a prevalence of vegetation typically adapted for life in saturated soil conditions. § 1303. Policy and Authority

A. Legislative purposes and intent

1. The Navajo Nation Council finds and declares that discharges of pollutants into the waters of the Navajo Nation from point and non-point sources, introduction of pollutants by industrial users into publicly owned treatment works and improper management of sewage sludge are potential hazards to the health, welfare and environment of the Navajo Nation and its residents and need to be addressed.

2. It is the policy of the Navajo Nation Council to protect the health, safety, welfare and environment of the Navajo Nation and its residents; to prevent, reduce and eliminate pollution of the waters of the Navajo Nation; and to plan the development and use (including restoration, preservation, and enhancement) of land and water resources within the Nation, by:

a. Providing for the establishment of water quality standards to protect fish and wildlife and the domestic, cultural, agricultural and recreational uses of the waters of the Navajo Nation;

b. Preventing the discharge of pollutants into waters of the Navajo Nation in amounts that would cause violations of water quality standards;

c. Providing for the issuance of permits and implementation of certification programs under this Act to control present and future point source discharges, introduction of pollutants by industrial users to publicly owned treatment works, and sludge management activities, using, to the extent practicable, a watershed basis;

d. Providing for the development of nonpoint source, clean lakes, and watershed protection programs, and for the implementation of these programs using, to the extent practicable, a watershed basis; and

e. Supporting research relating to water quality standards and planning, clean lakes, nonpoint sources, and watershed protection, and providing for tribal technical services and financial aid (to the extent funds are available and appropriated) to the Navajo Nation government and chapters in connection with these programs and their implementation.

3. The Navajo Nation Council also finds and declares that degradation of the waters of the Navajo Nation shall be minimized, and that economic growth should occur in a manner consistent with the preservation of existing clean Navajo Nation water resources.

4. It is further the policy of the Navajo Nation Council that the President, acting through such tribal organizations as he determines appropriate, shall take such action as may be necessary to encourage all surrounding governmental entities to take meaningful action regarding water quality standards and planning, permitting of discharges into surface waters, pretreatment of pollutants introduced into treatment works, clean lakes, non-point sources, and watershed protection for the achievement of goals regarding these programs and the improvement of water quality to at least the same extent as the Navajo Nation does under its laws.

5. The Navajo Nation Council is placing primary responsibility for the implementation and enforcement of this Act with the Navajo Nation EPA.

B. Modular approach to water quality programs. The Navajo Nation is committed to providing for water quality standards and planning and implementing NPDES and other water quality management programs under this Act, to protect the health, safety, welfare and environment of the Navajo Nation. It is, however, discretionary with the Navajo Nation as to whether and which programs to implement, and in what order. The Director shall determine which programs are essential to the protection of the environment, health and welfare of the Navajo Nation, and of those programs shall determine which should be developed first. The Director may also determine that only parts of such programs are essential, and may develop these severable portions. The Director shall not be required to implement any of the programs described in this Act by any particular time. However, once the Director determines that a particular program or portion of a program should be developed, and sufficient funding exists, the Director must comply with all of the relevant statutory and regulatory requirements for that program or portion of a program.

Subchapter 2. Navajo Water Quality Standards and Planning

Part A. Water Quality Standards

United States Code

§ 1311. Water Quality Standards

A. Promulgation of Standards. The Director shall promulgate water quality standards that protect the public health or welfare, enhance the quality of water and generally serve the purposes of this Act. The standards shall provide for the protection and propagation of fish, wildlife and livestock and protect agricultural, domestic and recreational uses of water, as well as protecting the cultural value and use of water. The standards shall consist of the designated uses for the waters of the Navajo Nation and the water quality criteria for such waters based upon such uses, and shall be applicable to all waters of the Navajo Nation. The standards shall also include the methods and analyses to be used to determine compliance with such standards. The Director may also promulgate regulations regarding compliance schedules, mixing zones, low flows, variances and such other matters as may be appropriate, including regulations implementing the anti-degradation policy set forth in § 1303(A)(2) of this Act.

B. Uses. The water quality standards shall establish designated uses for waters of the Navajo Nation, or segments thereof, taking into consideration their use and value for public water supplies, protection and propagation of fish and wildlife, recreational purposes, and agricultural (including livestock watering), industrial, and other purposes, and also taking into consideration their use and value for navigation and the cultural value and use of the water. The Director may remove a designated use that is not an existing use consistent with the requirements of Section 303(c) of the Clean Water Act¹ and the Administrator's implementing regulations.

C. Criteria. The criteria established by the Director shall protect the designated uses, be based on sound scientific rationale (which may include criteria documents of the Administrator), and include sufficient parameters or constituents to protect the designated use. For waters with multiple uses, the criteria shall protect the most sensitive use. The Director may establish criteria specifically applicable to wildlife or sediment. The criteria shall include:

1. Narrative criteria to protect all waters of the Navajo Nation from: the discharge of toxics in toxic amounts; objectionable odors, tastes, color or turbidity in or on the water; detrimental effects on edible plant or animal life that reside in or on the water; bottom deposits; floating debris; and any other protections determined by the Director to be warranted under the goals of this Act.

2. Numerical criteria for pollutants or pollutant parameters, including toxic pollutants and a thermal component (consistent with the requirements of the Clean Water Act),² the discharge or presence of which in the waters of the Navajo Nation the Director has determined could reasonably be expected to interfere with designated uses adopted by the Director. The numerical criteria shall support such designated uses. In setting numerical criteria the Director may consider the effect of local conditions on water quality, and may modify stream standards to reflect actual stream conditions when justified by sufficient data and need. Where such numerical criteria are not available, and the Director determines it is appropriate to protect designated uses, the Director shall adopt criteria based on biological monitoring or assessment methods consistent with information published pursuant to Section 304(a)(8) of the Clean Water Act.³ Nothing in this Section shall be construed to limit or delay the use of effluent limitations or other permit conditions based on or involving biological monitoring or assessment methods or previously adopted numerical criteria.

3. Any other criteria the Director determines are necessary to protect the designated uses of the waters of the Navajo Nation.

D. Methods Used. The Director, in specifying the methods and analyses to be used to determine compliance with the water quality standards, may include biological monitoring and toxicity testing.

E. Compliance Schedules. The Director may establish by regulation, or on a case-by-case basis, a reasonable period of time, but no longer than five (5) years, for a person subject to an NPDES permit to comply with a new or more restrictive water quality-based effluent limitation based upon a water quality standard. The Director may establish by regulation, or on a case-by-case basis, a reasonable period of time, but no longer than five (5) years, for any person subject to a mechanism, including a best management practice applicable to a non-point source, to comply with a new or more restrictive requirement which implements a water quality standard.

The Director shall identify those waters of the Navajo Nation for which controls on thermal discharges under Section 301 of the Clean Water Act² are not stringent enough to assure protection and propagation of a balanced indigenous population of fish and wildlife.

C. Approval by Administrator

The Director shall submit to the Administrator from time to time for approval the identifications made under this Section. If the Administrator approves any such identification, the Director shall incorporate it into the current plan under § 1308 of this Act. If the Administrator disapproves such identification and himself identifies certain waters of the Navajo Nation for which the effluent limitations and controls on thermal discharges are not stringent enough to implement the water quality standards applicable to such waters, the Director shall incorporate this identification into the Director's current plan under § 1308 of this Act. § 1316. Total Maximum Daily Loads and Wasteload Allocations/Load Allocations

A. Total maximum daily load. The Director shall establish for the waters identified under Subsection 1315(A) of this Act, and in accordance with the priority ranking, the total maximum daily load for those pollutants which the Administrator identifies under Section 304(a)(2) of the Clean Water Act¹ as suitable for such calculation. Such load shall be established at a level necessary to implement the applicable water quality standards with seasonal variations and a margin of safety which takes into account any lack of knowledge concerning the relationship between effluent limitations and water quality.

B. Total maximum daily thermal load. The Director shall estimate for the waters identified in Subsection 1315(B) of this Act the total maximum daily thermal load required to assure protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of fish and wildlife. Such estimates shall take into account the normal water temperatures, flow rates, seasonal variations, existing sources of heat input, and the dissipative capacity of the identified waters or parts thereof. Such estimates shall include a calculation of the maximum heat input that can be made into each such part and shall include a margin of safety which takes into account any lack of knowledge concerning the development of thermal water quality criteria for such protection and propagation in the identified waters or parts thereof.

C. Approval by Administrator. The Director shall submit to the Administrator from time to time for approval the loads established under this Section. If the Administrator approves such loads, the Director shall incorporate them into the current plan under § 1318 of this Act. If the Administrator disapproves such loads and himself establishes loads to implement the water quality standards applicable to such waters, upon such establishment the Director shall incorporate such loads into the Director's current plan under § 1318 of this Act. These actions shall be taken in parallel with actions under § 1315 of this Act.

D. Additional identification. For the specific purpose of developing information, the Director shall identify all waters of the Navajo Nation which were not identified under Subsections 1315(A) and (B) of this Act and estimate for such waters the total maximum daily load with seasonal variations and margins of safety for those pollutants which the Administrator identifies under Section 304(a)(2) of the Clean Water Act¹ as suitable for such calculation and for thermal discharges, at a level that would assure protection and propagation of a balanced indigenous population of fish and wildlife.

A. Monitoring. The Director shall establish and provide for the operation of appropriate devices, methods, systems, and procedures necessary to monitor, and to compile and analyze data on (including classification according to eutrophic condition), the quality of the waters of the Navajo Nation, including biological monitoring, and provide for periodic updating of such data and the submission of such data to the Administrator. The Director may provide for such monitoring through water quality management plans and through regulations promulgated under § 1391 of this Act.

Part C. Certification of Compliance

§ 1319. Certification of Compliance with Federal Water Pollution Control Requirements

A. Certification of compliance. The Director may grant or deny certification that an applicant for a Navajo Nation or federal license or permit necessary to conduct any activity, including but not limited to the construction or operation of facilities, which may result in a discharge into waters of the Navajo Nation has satisfactorily shown that he or she will comply with Sections 301,¹ 302,² 303,³ 306⁴ and 307⁵ of the Clean Water Act. If there is no applicable effluent limitation or other limitation under Sections 301(b) and 302, and there is no applicable standard under Sections 306 and 307, for the activity in question, the Director shall so certify. The Director shall submit the application and any certification issued under this Section to the Administrator, pursuant to Section 401 of the Clean Water Act.⁶

B. Rules for grant or denial of certification. The Director shall promulgate rules, consistent with the provisions of Section 1391 of this Act, establishing the procedures that the Director will follow in granting or denying certifications under this Section. Such rules shall require public notice of an application for certification within an area no smaller than the chapter where the activity is located, opportunity for public participation in the decision-making process on an application for certification, and opportunity and procedures for contested hearings on applications for certification. Such rules also shall require an applicant to provide the Director with notice of proposed changes in the construction or operation of the facility or other activity in question and with plans for the operation of the facility or conduct of the activity in question. Such rules may also include fees to be charged by the Director for the review of applications and issuance of certifications.

Subchapter 3. Surface Water Discharges and Pretreatment Requirements

Part A. Surface Water Discharges

§ 1321. Permit Required to Discharge into Surface Waters

A. Prohibitions

1. Except as provided in this Act or regulations promulgated hereunder, it is unlawful for any person to discharge a pollutant from a point source into waters of the Navajo Nation. Any such action is a public nuisance, as well as being subject to enforcement under Subchapter 9 of this Act.

2. No person may discharge any waste, pollutant or combination of pollutants from a point source into the waters of the Navajo Nation without a permit issued consistent with rules promulgated pursuant to this Subchapter and Subchapter 5 or, if no such permit program has been established, by the Administrator under Section 402 of the Clean Water Act.¹

3. It is unlawful for any person, without first securing a permit from the Director, to:

- a. Make any discharge of pollutants from a point source into waters of the Navajo Nation if not authorized under an existing valid permit; or
- b. Construct, install, modify, or operate any treatment works or part of any treatment works or any extension or addition to any treatment works, the operation of which is reasonably determined to result in a discharge due to runoff, flow or usage.

B. Exemptions. The following discharges do not require NPDES permits:

1. Discharges into waters of the Navajo Nation of dredged or fill materials that are regulated under Section 404 of the Clean Water Act.²

2. Any discharge in compliance with the instructions of an on-scene coordinator pursuant to 40 C.F.R. Part 300 or 33 C.F.R. § 153.10(e).

C. Grounds for issuance of permit. The Director may, after notice and opportunity for public hearing, issue a permit for the discharge of any waste, pollutant or combination of pollutants into navigable waters, for a period not to exceed five (5) years, upon condition that such discharge meets or will meet, subject to authorized schedules of compliance, all applicable Navajo Nation, adjoining tribe or state, and federal water quality standards and effluent standards and all other requirements of this Act.

D. Grounds for denial of permit. The Director shall deny a permit where:

1. The permit would authorize the discharge of any radiological, chemical, or biological warfare agent, any high-level radioactive waste, or any medical waste into navigable waters;

2. The permit would, in the judgment of the Secretary of the Army acting through the Chief of Engineers, result in the substantial impairment of anchorage and navigation of any navigable waters;

3. The permit is objected to in writing by the Administrator pursuant to any right to object provided to the Administrator by Section 402(d) of the Clean Water Act;³

4. The permit would authorize a discharge from a point source which is in conflict with a plan approved by the Administrator under Subsection 208(b) of the Clean Water Act,⁴ and for which the submitting government entity had jurisdiction;

5. The issuance of the permit would otherwise be inconsistent with the applicable requirements of other Navajo Nation laws or regulations promulgated thereunder; or

6. The issuance of the permit would otherwise be inconsistent with applicable requirements of the Clean Water Act⁵ or regulations promulgated thereunder.

E. General permit

The Director may issue a general permit within a geographical area to cover (1) storm water point sources, (2) a category of point sources, or (3) a category of treatment works treating domestic sewage. A facility covered by a general permit shall be subject to all provisions of this Act and regulations promulgated hereunder, except as otherwise provided by the Director by regulation in the case of certain application requirements.

F. Compliance

Compliance with a permit issued pursuant to this Act shall be deemed compliance, for the purposes of Subchapter 9 of this Act, with Sections 301,⁶ 302,⁷ 306⁸ and 307⁹ of the Clean Water Act, except for any standard imposed under Section 307 for a toxic pollutant injurious to human health.

3. Toxic pollutant effluent standards or prohibitions promulgated by the Administrator under Section 307(a) of the Clean Water Act¹⁰ and contained within 40 C.F.R. Part 129, within the time frame for compliance provided by the Administrator, as well as the authority to modify existing permits to require compliance with such toxic pollutant effluent standards;

4. Effluent limitations, standards, or prohibitions on discharges from publicly owned treatment works and/or requirements of a pretreatment program based upon the requirements of Section 307 of the Clean Water Act¹¹ and the Administrator's implementing regulations;

B. Time for compliance. Effluent limitations prescribed under this Section shall be achieved in the shortest reasonable period consistent with Navajo Nation law and the Clean Water Act,⁶ and with any regulations or guidelines promulgated or issued thereunder.

C. Variances

1. The Director may grant or deny requests for variances under Section 316(a) of the Clean Water Act¹⁵ for thermal pollution. The Director may implement any alternative limitations, terms or conditions established in a final decision on such a variance request.

A. Required findings. The Director may issue a reasonable extension to a point source discharger, industrial user, or treatment works treating domestic sewage, which extension shall not conflict with the Clean Water Act,¹ in which to meet water quality standards or other applicable effluent limitations or standards of the Navajo Nation or an adjoining state or tribe (to the extent allowable under the state or tribal law or regulations), if the Director determines that:

1. The violation was the result of actions or conditions outside the control of the discharger;

Upon expiration of a permit, a new permit may be issued by the Director after notice and opportunity for public hearing and upon condition that the discharge or disposal (including of sludge) meets or will meet, subject to authorized schedules of compliance, all applicable requirements of this Act, including the conditions of any permit issued by the Director.

B. Renewals. When the permittee has made a timely and sufficient application for a renewal in accordance with Navajo Nation EPA rules, an existing permit for an activity of a continuing nature shall not expire until the application for renewal has been finally determined by the Director.

§ 1345. Issuance of Permits and Grounds for Revocation, Modification, or Suspension of Permits

A. Grounds for revocation, modification or suspension. Any permit issued under this Part may be revoked, modified, or suspended in whole or in part during its term or upon request of the permit holder or any interested person, for cause including, but not limited to the following:

1. Violation of any condition of the permit;
2. Obtaining a permit by misrepresentation or failure to disclose fully all relevant facts; or

B. Notice and hearing. If the Director recommends issuance or denial of an application for a permit, or revokes, suspends, or modifies a permit, he or she shall give written notice of his or her action to the applicant or permittee, any interested person who has requested to be notified, as well as other entities as provided by this Act. A. The Director, or his or her delegate, shall not participate in a permit action which involves himself or herself, any discharger, industrial user or treatment works treating domestic sewage with which he or she is connected as a director, officer or employee, or in which he or she has a direct personal financial interest. Part B. Other Authorizations

§ 1347. Approval of Construction Grant Projects and User Charges

A. Requirements for approval. The Director shall not approve (for those projects the Director has authority to approve or disapprove) any projects for any treatment works from a grant under Section 201(g)(1) of the Clean Water Act,¹ unless he or she shall first have determined that the applicant

1. Has adopted or will adopt a system of charges to assure that each recipient of waste treatment services within the applicant's jurisdiction, as determined by the Director, will pay its proportionate share (except as otherwise provided in this paragraph) of the costs of operation and maintenance (including replacement) of any waste treatment services provided by the applicant; and

2. Has legal, institutional, managerial, and financial capability to ensure adequate construction, operation, and maintenance of treatment works throughout the applicant's jurisdiction, as determined by the Director. The Director may determine that the applicant has a system of charges which results in the distribution of operation and maintenance costs for treatment works within the applicant's jurisdiction, to each user class, by determining the system of charges is in proportion to the contribution to the total cost of operation and maintenance of such works by each user class (taking into account total waste water loading of such works, the constituent elements of the waste, and other appropriate factors), including different rates for small non-residential and residential user classes. In defining small non-residential users, the Director shall consider the volume of wastes discharged into the treatment works by such users and the constituent elements of such wastes as well as such other factors as he or she deems appropriate. A system of user charges which imposes a lower charge for low-income residential users (as defined by the Director) shall be deemed to be a user charge system meeting the requirements of clause (1) of this Paragraph if the

Director determines that such system was adopted after public notice and hearing.

B. Guidelines on Payment of Waste Treatment Costs. The Director may, after consultation with appropriate Navajo Nation, federal, interstate, municipal, and intermunicipal agencies, issue guidelines applicable to payment of waste treatment costs by industrial and nonindustrial recipients of waste treatment services which shall establish:

1. Classes of users of such services, including categories of industrial users;
2. Criteria against which to determine the adequacy of charges imposed on classes and categories of users reflecting all factors that influence the cost of waste treatment, including strength, volume, and delivery flow rate characteristics of waste; and
3. Model systems and rates of user charges typical of various treatment works serving municipal-industrial communities.

C. Alternative systems of charges. A system of charges that meets the requirements of § 1347(A)(1) may be based on something other than metering the sewage or water supply flow of residential recipients of waste treatment services, consistent with Navajo Nation law. If the system of charges is based on something other than metering the Director shall require:

1. The applicant to establish a system by which the necessary funds will be available for the proper operation and maintenance of the treatment works; and
2. The applicant to establish a procedure under which the residential user will be notified as to that portion of his or her total payment which will be allocated to the costs of the waste treatment services.

§ 1351. Nonpoint Source Assessment Report

A. Content of report. The Director shall, after notice and opportunity for public comment, prepare and submit to the Administrator for approval (to the extent that it has not otherwise already been completed and approved), a report which:

1. Identifies those waters of the Navajo Nation which, without additional action to control nonpoint sources of pollution, cannot reasonably be expected to attain or maintain applicable water quality standards or the goals and requirements of this Act or the Clean Water Act;¹
2. Identifies those categories and subcategories of nonpoint sources or, where appropriate, particular nonpoint sources which add significant pollution to each portion of the waters of the Navajo Nation identified under Subsection (A)(1) in amounts which contribute to such portion not meeting such water quality standards or such goals and requirements;
3. Describes the process, including intergovernmental coordination and public participation, for identifying best management practices and measures to control each category and subcategory of nonpoint sources and, where appropriate, particular nonpoint sources identified under Subsection (A)(2) and to reduce, to the maximum extent practicable, the level of pollution resulting from such category, subcategory, or source; and
4. Identifies and describes Navajo Nation and local programs for controlling pollution added from nonpoint sources to, and improving the quality of, each such portion of the waters of the Navajo Nation, including but not limited to those programs which are receiving federal assistance under Subsections 319(h) and (i) of the Clean Water Act.²

§ 1352. Nonpoint Source Management Program

A. Program submission. The Director shall, after notice and opportunity for public comment, prepare and submit to the Administrator for approval a management program for controlling pollution added from nonpoint sources to the waters of the Navajo Nation and improving the quality of such waters, which program the Navajo Nation proposes to implement in the first four fiscal years beginning after the date of submission of the program. The Director may periodically revise the submission.

B. Program Contents. The management program proposed for implementation under this Section shall include the following:

1. An identification of the best management practices and measures which will be undertaken to reduce pollutant loadings resulting from each category, subcategory, or particular nonpoint source designated under § 1351(A)(2) of this Act, taking into account the impact of the practice on ground water quality.

2. An identification of programs within the Navajo Nation and adjoining tribes and states (including, as appropriate, nonregulatory or regulatory programs for enforcement, technical assistance, financial assistance, education, training, technology transfer, and demonstration projects) designed to achieve implementation of the best management practices by the categories, subcategories, and particular nonpoint sources designated under Subsection (B)(1) of this Section.

3. A schedule containing annual milestones for (i) utilization of the program implementation methods identified in Subsection (B)(2) of this Section, and (ii) implementation of the best management practices identified in Subsection (B)(1) of this Section by the categories, subcategories, or particular nonpoint sources designated under § 1351(A)(2) of this Act. Such schedule shall provide for utilization of the best management practices at the earliest practicable date, but no later than the time period provided in § 1311(E) of this Act.

4. Any other information required by Section 319(b) of the Clean Water Act.¹

C. Utilization of Local and Private Experts. In developing and implementing a management program under this Section, the Director shall, to the maximum extent practicable, involve local public and private agencies and organizations which have expertise in control of nonpoint sources of pollution.

D. Development on Watershed Basis. The Director shall, to the maximum extent practicable, develop and implement a management program under this Part on a watershed-by-watershed basis within the Navajo Nation.

Subchapter 9. Enforcement

§ 1381. Records, Inspections, Monitoring and Entry

A. Record-keeping, reporting and monitoring. In order to carry out the purposes of this Act, including but not limited to developing or enforcing any water quality standard, water quality management plan, continuing planning process or best management practice under this Act, issuing certifications, granting approvals, and issuing permits or otherwise regulating point sources, treatment works and industrial users of POTWs under this Act, the Director may promulgate regulations requiring any person subject to the requirements of this Act to:

1. Establish and maintain records;
2. Prepare and submit reports;
3. Install, calibrate, use and maintain monitoring equipment or methods, including, where appropriate, biological monitoring;
4. Sample effluents (in accordance with such procedures or methods, at such locations, at such intervals, during such periods and in such manner as the Director shall prescribe); and

5. Provide such other information as the Director may reasonably require.

B. Entry and inspections. The Director or his/her authorized representative (including an authorized contractor acting as a representative of the Director), upon presentation of his/her credentials,

1. Shall have a right of entry to, upon, or through any premises necessary to implement and enforce the provisions of this Act and the regulations promulgated hereunder, and

2. May at reasonable times have access to and copy any records, inspect any monitoring or sampling equipment or method under Subsection (A) above, inspect any treatment processes or equipment, sample any effluents which are being discharged into the waters of the Navajo Nation or are required to be or are sampled under Subsection (A), and perform such other inspection as is necessary to ensure compliance with this Act and the regulations promulgated hereunder.

Any records, reports or information obtained under this Section shall, in the case of effluent data, be related to any applicable effluent limitations, toxic, pretreatment or new source performance standards.

C. Availability of information to public. Any records, reports or other information obtained under this Section shall be available to the public, except that upon a showing satisfactory to the Director by any person that records, reports or other information or any particular part thereof (other than effluent data) to which the Director has access under this Section would, if made public, divulge methods or processes entitled to protection as trade secrets of such person, the Director shall consider such record, report or other information or portion thereof confidential, except that such material may be disclosed to other officers, employees or authorized representatives of the Navajo Nation and of the United States concerned with carrying out this Act or when relevant to any proceeding under this Act. The Director shall deny claims of confidentiality for name and address of any permit applicant or permittee; permit applications; permits; and effluent data.

D. Confidential information. Any authorized representative of the Director (including an authorized contractor acting as a representative of the Director) who discloses confidential information contrary to these provisions, except as otherwise provided by law, may be subject to dismissal, suspension, or other adverse personnel action. Any authorized representative of the Director (including an authorized contractor acting as a representative of the Director) who knowingly or willfully publishes, divulges, discloses, or makes known in any manner or to any extent not authorized by law any information that is required to be considered confidential under this Subsection shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars ($1,000). Nothing in this Subsection shall prohibit the Director or an authorized representative of the Director (including any authorized contractor acting as a representative of the Director) from disclosing records, reports, or information to officers, employees, or authorized representatives of the United States concerned with carrying out this Act or when relevant in any proceeding under this Act. § 1382. General Enforcement Authority

A. In general. Whenever, on the basis of any information available to the Director, the Director finds that any person (including the Navajo Nation and any instrumentality of the Navajo Nation, but only with regard to their role as a point or nonpoint source, industrial user of a publicly owned treatment works or a treatment works treating domestic sewage) has violated, or is in violation of, any requirement or prohibition of this Act, the regulations promulgated under this Act, or permits, orders, plans, programs or fees issued or developed pursuant to this Act, the Director may:

1. Issue and serve on such person an order requiring such person to comply with such requirement or prohibition, including an emergency order to comply, pursuant to the provisions of this Section;
2. Issue and serve on such person an administrative penalty order in accordance with § 1384 of this Act;
3. Request that the Attorney General bring a civil action, including an action for injunctive relief, in accordance with § 1383(A) of this Act; and/or
4. Request that the Navajo Nation Prosecutor's Office bring a criminal action in accordance with § 1383(B) of this Act and/or refer any criminal enforcement action or portion of such action to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Regional Administrator for the appropriate EPA region.

B. Requirements for orders to comply. An order issued under Subsection (A)(1) or (A)(2) of this Section shall state with reasonable specificity the nature of the violation, shall state that the alleged violator is entitled to a hearing pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Director under § 1391 of this Act, if such hearing is requested in writing within thirty (30) calendar days after the date of issuance of the order, and shall specify a time for compliance that the Director determines is as expeditious as practicable, taking into account the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts to comply with applicable requirements. The order shall become effective immediately upon the expiration of the thirty (30) calendar days if no hearing is requested and, if a timely request for a hearing is made, upon the decision of the Director. The order may be conditional and require a person to refrain from particular acts unless certain conditions are met. A copy of the order shall be sent to the appropriate U.S. EPA region and, if the order is issued to a corporation, to the appropriate corporate officers and registered agent of the corporation. No order to comply issued under this Section shall prevent the Navajo Nation from assessing any penalties or otherwise affect or limit the Navajo Nation's authority to enforce under other provisions of this Act, or affect any person's obligations to comply with any Section of this Act or with a term or condition of any permit or other requirements promulgated or approved under this Act.

C. Emergency compliance orders. Notwithstanding any permit issued under this Act, if the Director determines that discharge of pollutants into the waters of the Navajo Nation, into a POTW or a treatment works treating domestic sewage, pollution from a nonpoint source, or a combination of such sources, is presenting an imminent and substantial endangerment to public health or welfare or the environment and determines, in consultation with the Attorney General, that it is not practicable to assure prompt protection of public health or welfare or the environment by commencement of a civil action pursuant to Subsection (E) of this Section, the Director may issue such orders as may be necessary to protect public health or welfare or the environment. Such orders may prohibit, restrict or condition any and all activities that contribute or may contribute to the emergency, shall be effective immediately upon issuance and shall remain in effect for a period of not more than sixty (60) days, unless the Director brings an action pursuant to Subsection (E) of this Section within the 60-day period. If the Director brings such an action, the order shall remain in effect for an additional fourteen (14) days or for such longer period as may be authorized by the court in which such action is brought.

D. Enforcement of compliance orders. Enforcement actions of the Director shall be enforced by the Navajo Nation EPA, the Navajo Department of Justice, Navajo Prosecutors Office, Resources Enforcement and/or the Division of Public Safety. Those authorized to enforce the Director's actions may take reasonable steps to assure compliance, consistent with the requirements established by this Act (including rights of appeal), including but not limited to:

1. Entering upon any property or establishment believed to be violating the order and demanding compliance; and
2. Terminating operations at facilities not in compliance.

E. Injunctive relief. The Director may seek injunctive relief pursuant to § 1383(A) of this Act to restrain any person who causes or contributes to an imminent and substantial threat to the public health or welfare or environment due to a discharge or other activity affecting the water quality of the Navajo Nation.

§ 1383. Judicial Enforcement

A. Civil judicial enforcement. The Director shall request the Attorney General to file an action for a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, a permanent injunction or any other relief provided by law, including the assessment and recovery of civil penalties of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) and not more than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) per day per violation, in any of the following instances:

1. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Act, including, but not limited to, a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Act, a permit or an order issued pursuant to this Act or a fee assessed under this Act;
2. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any duty to allow or carry out inspection, entry or monitoring activities; or
3. Whenever a person is creating an imminent and substantial endangerment to the public health or the environment, in which case the Director shall request the Attorney General to pursue injunctive relief but not the assessment of civil penalties, unless the endangerment is caused by a violation, as specified in Paragraphs (1) and (2).

B. Criminal penalties. Any person who intentionally:

1. Violates any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Act, including but not limited to a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Act or a permit or an order issued pursuant to this Act;

3. Falsifies, tampers with, renders inaccurate or fails to install any monitoring device or method required to be maintained or followed under this Act, regulations or plans adopted pursuant to this Act or a permit or an order issued pursuant to this Act; shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) and not more than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) per day of violation or, if smaller, the largest amount permissible under applicable law, or imprisonment for not more than one (1) year, or both, notwithstanding the provisions of 17 N.N.C. §§ 222 and 223, or be subject to any other penalty imposed by the court that is available under Navajo Nation law. In any instance where the Nation lacks jurisdiction over the person charged, or where the Director is limited in the amount of the fine that he may impose, the Director may refer the action to the appropriate EPA Regional Administrator pursuant to § 1352 of this Act. For the purpose of this Subsection, the term “person” includes, in addition to the entities referred to in § 1302(A)(26) of this Act, any responsible corporate officer.

C. Jurisdiction and venue. Any action under this Section shall be brought in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock, and such court shall have jurisdiction to restrain such violation, require compliance, assess civil and criminal penalties up to the amounts provided in this Section, collect any fees or noncompliance penalties owed the Nation under this Act, and award any other appropriate relief.

D. Calculation of penalties.

1. For purposes of determining the number of days of violation for which a civil penalty may be assessed under this Section, § 1384 or § 1385, if the Director has notified the source in writing of the violation and the plaintiff makes a prima facie showing that the conduct or events giving rise to the violation are likely to have continued or recurred past the date of notice, the days of violation shall be presumed to include the date of such notice and each day thereafter until the violator establishes that continuous compliance has been achieved, except to the extent that the violator can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there were intervening days during which no violation occurred or that the violation was not continuing in nature. Notice under this Section shall be accomplished by the issuance of a written notice of violation or written order to comply or by filing a complaint in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock that alleges any violation described in Subsection (A) of this Section.

2. In determining the amount of a penalty assessed under this Section, § 1384 or § 1385, the court shall consider the history, seriousness and duration of the violation; any good faith efforts to comply with the applicable requirements; the violator’s full compliance history, including the severity and duration of past violations, if any; the economic impact of the penalty on the violator; as an aggravating factor only, the economic benefit, if any, resulting from the violation; and any other factors that the court deems relevant. For purposes of this Section, a single operational upset which leads to simultaneous violations of more than one pollutant parameter shall be treated as a single violation.

3. All penalties collected pursuant to this Section shall be deposited into the Clean Water Act Fund established pursuant to § 1348.

4. In lieu of or in addition to a monetary penalty, the Director may impose or may request the Attorney General to seek from the court a requirement to remediate the damage caused or to perform community service, or both.

E. Failure to pay penalty. If any person fails to pay an assessment of a civil penalty, the Director shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock to enforce the order or recover the amount ordered or assessed plus interest, from the date of the final order or decision or the date of the final judgment, as the case may be. In such an action the validity, amount and appropriateness of the order or assessment shall not be subject to review. Any person who fails to pay on a timely basis a civil penalty ordered or assessed under this Section shall be required to pay, in addition to such penalty and interest, the Director's enforcement expenses, including but not limited to attorneys' fees and costs of collection proceedings. Such person shall also pay a quarterly nonpayment penalty for each quarter during which such failure to pay persists. The nonpayment penalty shall be no less than ten percent (10%) of the aggregate amount of the person's outstanding penalties and nonpayment penalties accrued as of the beginning of the quarter; the Director may by regulation establish higher penalties to take into account situations where the prime rate is higher.

A. Basis for penalty. The Director may issue against any person an administrative order assessing a civil administrative penalty of up to ten thousand dollars ($10,000) per day per violation whenever the Director finds that a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Act, including, but not limited to, a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Act, a permit or an order issued pursuant to this Act or a fee assessed under this Act. The Director's authority under this Subsection, combined with actions under Subsection (C), shall be limited to matters where the total penalty sought does not exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and the first alleged date of violation occurred no more than one (1) year prior to the initiation of administrative action, except where the Director and Attorney General jointly determine that a matter involving a larger penalty or longer period of violation is appropriate for administrative penalty action. The communications required to make such a joint determination and the method(s) utilized for making such a joint determination shall be privileged, and shall not be subject to judicial review. The Director may compromise, modify or remit, with or without any conditions, any administrative penalty imposed under this Section.

B. Hearing requirement. The Director shall assess an administrative penalty under this Section by an order made after opportunity for a hearing, pursuant to § 1391 of this Act. Before issuing such an order, the Director shall give written notice of the proposed order to the person on whom the penalty is to be assessed and provide such person an opportunity to request a hearing within thirty (30) calendar days of receipt of the notice.

C. Field citations. After consultation with the Attorney General, the Director may implement a field citation program through regulations establishing minor violations for which field citations (assessing civil penalties not to exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000) per day per violation) may be issued by officers or employees designated by the Director, for any violation for which an administrative order could be issued under Subsection (A) to the extent permissible under applicable law. The Director's authority under this Subsection, combined with action taken under Subsection (A), shall be limited in total amount by the provisions in Subsection (A). Any person on whom a field citation is assessed may, pursuant to regulations issued under this Section, elect to pay the penalty or request a hearing on the citation under the provisions of Subsection (B). If a timely request for a hearing is not made, the penalty shall be final and the opportunity for judicial review shall be waived. Any hearing shall provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence. Payment of a penalty required by a field citation shall not be a defense to further enforcement by the Director to correct a violation or to assess the statutory maximum penalty pursuant to other authorities in this Act, except as to the days of violation for which the penalty required by a field citation is paid.

D. Judicial review. Any person subject to a civil penalty under Subsections (A) or (C) of this Section may seek review of such penalty assessment in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock by filing a petition for review in such court within thirty (30) calendar days following the date that the penalty becomes final and by simultaneously sending a copy of such filing by certified mail to the Director and the Attorney General. A notice of intent to challenge such penalty assessment, otherwise required by the Navajo Nation Sovereign Immunity Act, 1 N.N.C. § 551 et seq., is not required. Within thirty (30) calendar days thereafter the Director shall file in such court a certified copy or certified index of the record on which the penalty was based. The court shall not set aside or remand an order or assessment under this section unless the record, taken as a whole, does not substantially support the finding of a violation or unless the order or penalty assessment constitutes an abuse of discretion. In any such proceedings, the Director may seek to recover civil penalties ordered or assessed under this section.

E. Failure to pay penalty. If any person fails to comply with an administrative penalty order after the order or assessment has become final, the Director shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock to enforce the order or recover the amount ordered or assessed plus interest, from the date of the final order or decision or the date of the final judgment, as the case may be. In such an action the validity, amount and appropriateness of the order or assessment shall not be subject to review. Any person who fails to pay on a timely basis a civil penalty ordered or assessed under this section shall be required to pay, in addition to such penalty and interest, the Director's enforcement expenses, including but not limited to attorneys' fees and costs of collection proceedings. Such person shall also pay a quarterly nonpayment penalty for each quarter during which such failure to pay persists. The nonpayment penalty shall be no less than ten percent (10%) of the aggregate amount of the person's outstanding penalties and nonpayment penalties accrued as of the beginning of the quarter; the Director may by regulation establish higher penalties to take into account situations where the prime rate is higher.

F. Calculation of penalty. In determining the amount of any penalty to be assessed under this Section, the Director or the court, as appropriate, shall take into consideration the factors enumerated in § 1383(D) of this Act.

§ 1385. Citizen Suits

A. Authority to bring civil action; jurisdiction.

1. Except as provided in Subsection (B) of this Section, a person may commence a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock on his or her own behalf against any person (except the Navajo Nation or any instrumentality of the Navajo Nation, but not excepting tribal enterprises) who is alleged to be in violation of any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Act, including but not limited to a regulation or plan adopted pursuant to this Act, a permit or an order issued pursuant to this Act or a fee assessed under this Act.

2. The Navajo Nation courts shall have jurisdiction to enforce such provision, prohibition, regulation, plan, permit, order, fee or other requirement, to restrain such violation, to order such person to take such other action as may be necessary and to apply any appropriate civil penalties.

B. Notice. An action may not be commenced under Subsection (A)(1) of this Section fewer than sixty (60) days after the plaintiff has given notice of the alleged violation to the Director, the Navajo Nation and the alleged violator. In addition, an action may not be commenced if the Director has commenced and is diligently prosecuting a civil action in court to require compliance with this Act, except that any person may intervene as a matter of right in such an action.

C. Venue; intervention; service of complaint.

1. Any action under this Section may be brought only in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock.

ENVIRONMENT

2. The Director, if not already a party, may intervene as of right in any action brought under this Section.

3. Whenever any action is brought under this Section the plaintiff shall serve a copy of the complaint on the Attorney General and on the Director. No consent judgment may be entered in an action brought under this Section in which the Director is not a party prior to forty-five (45) days following the receipt of a copy of the proposed consent judgment by the Attorney General and the Director, during which time the Attorney General and/or the Director may submit, on behalf of the Navajo Nation, their comments on the proposed consent judgment to the court and parties or the Director may intervene as a matter of right.

D. Award of costs. The court, in issuing a final order in an action brought under this Section, may award costs of litigation (including reasonable attorney and expert witness fees) to any prevailing or substantially prevailing party whenever the court determines that such award is appropriate.

E. Use of penalties. All penalties collected pursuant to this Section shall be deposited into the Clean Water Act Fund established pursuant to § 1348.

United States Code

Administrative procedure and judicial review, water pollution prevention and control, see 33 U.S.C. § 1369.

§ 1391. Rulemaking and Other Administrative Procedures

A. Rulemaking

1. Notice of any proposed regulation shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation for the areas of the Navajo Nation that are concerned and shall be given orally in English and Navajo over local radio stations. The notice shall specify the period available for public comment and the date, time and place of any public hearing, and shall make available to the public a copy of the proposed regulation. Not later than the date of proposal of the regulation in question the Director shall establish a rulemaking docket and shall make the docket available to the public for inspection and copying during regular business hours. The Director shall provide a comment period of at least thirty (30) calendar days; shall allow any person to submit written comments, data or documentary information; shall in addition give interested persons an opportunity to present orally, in the Navajo or English languages, their views, data or arguments; and shall keep the record open for at least ten (10) days after such proceeding to provide an opportunity for submission of rebuttal and supplementary information.

2. The final regulation shall be based on the record of the rulemaking proceeding contained in the docket, and shall be accompanied by an explanation of the reasons for any major changes from the proposed regulation and a response to each of the significant comments submitted in written or oral presentations during the comment period.

B. Administrative hearings. The Director shall, by regulation, establish a formal administrative hearing process which meets due process standards to hear appeals taken under §§ 1382(B) (compliance orders) and 1384 (administrative penalties and field citations). Until the Director establishes this administrative hearing process and appoints a qualified presiding officer, the Navajo Office of Hearings and Appeals is authorized to hear appeals taken under the above-cited Sections; provided, however, that the Director may, in his or her discretion, transfer other appeals allowed under this Act and the regulations promulgated hereunder to the Navajo Office of Hearings and Appeals when necessary.

C. Administrative subpoenas.

1. In connection with any investigation, monitoring, reporting, entry, compliance inspection or administrative enforcement proceeding under this Act, the Director may issue subpoenas for the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of relevant papers, books and documents, and may administer oaths.

2. Claims of confidentiality shall be processed using the provisions of § 1381(C) of this Act and regulations promulgated thereunder.

3. Witnesses summoned shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid in the Navajo Nation courts. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena, the Navajo Nation District Court for the district in which such person is found, resides or transacts business shall have jurisdiction to issue an order requiring such person to appear before the Director and give testimony or produce papers, books or documents, or both, and any failure to obey such an order may be punished by the court as contempt. A person may challenge the lawfulness of an administrative subpoena issued by the Director in the Navajo Nation District Court for the District of Window Rock, naming as defendant the Director in his or her official capacity and not in any other manner; in any such action, relief will be limited to declaratory relief.

§ 1392. Review in Navajo Nation Supreme Court

A. Petitions for review. A petition for review of any final action taken by the Director under this Act, including but not limited to promulgation of regulations, plans and standards, issuance of orders and issuance or denial of permits (but not including imposition of administrative penalties under Section 1384, which are subject to review under the provisions of Subsection 1384(D), or for challenge of an administrative subpoena, which is subject to review under the provisions of Subsection 1391(C)(3), shall be brought in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. The petition shall be filed within sixty (60) calendar days from the date that notice of such final action is first published, or, if notice is not published, first served upon the alleged violator or such other person required to be served under this Act, except that if the petition is based solely on grounds arising after the sixtieth day, then the petition shall be filed within sixty (60) calendar days after such grounds arise. The date of adoption of any regulation promulgated pursuant to this Act shall be the date of its approval by the Resources Committee of the Navajo Nation Council. The Navajo Nation Supreme Court, in reviewing the final action, shall limit its review to the issues and evidence that were before the Director at the time of the final action from which the appeal is taken.

B. Limitations on review.

1. If judicial review of a final action of the Director could have been obtained under subsection (a) of this section, that action shall not be subject to judicial review in judicial proceedings for enforcement.

2. With respect to any regulations promulgated under this Act or other notice and comment actions taken pursuant to this Act, only an objection that was raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period may be raised during judicial review. If the person raising an objection can demonstrate to the Director that it was impracticable to raise the objection within such time or if the grounds for the objection arose after the public comment period (but within the time specified for judicial review), and if the objection is of central relevance to the outcome of the regulation or other action, the Director may convene a proceeding for reconsideration of the regulation or other action and provide the same procedural rights as would have been afforded had the information been available at the time the regulation or other action was proposed. If the Director declines to convene such a proceeding, the person may seek review of such refusal in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. Such reconsideration shall not postpone the effectiveness of the regulation or other action, although it may be stayed by the Director or the court for up to three (3) months.

3. Except as otherwise expressly allowed by Navajo law, no interlocutory appeals shall be permitted with regard to determinations made by the Director under this Act. In reviewing alleged procedural errors, the court may invalidate the regulation or other action only if the errors were so serious and related to matters of such central relevance to the regulation or permitting action that there is a substantial likelihood that the regulation or other action would have been significantly changed if such errors had not been made.

C. Standards for review. In reviewing any final action of the Director undertaken pursuant to this Act, the court may reverse any such action that it finds to be:

1. arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with the law;
2. in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations or short of statutory right;
3. without observance of procedure required by law; or
4. unsupported by substantial evidence.

D. Challenge to any provisions. Any action brought pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be brought in compliance with the Navajo Nation Sovereign Immunity Act, 1 N.N.C. § 551 et seq., and not in any other manner. In any such action, relief shall be limited to declaratory relief and the Navajo Nation Supreme Court shall have no jurisdiction to grant any other relief. The Navajo Nation Supreme Court shall have exclusive jurisdiction and venue over any action brought pursuant to this section, except as otherwise provided in this section.

A. Any challenge to the lawful authority of the Navajo Nation Council to enact any provision of this Act must be filed in accordance with the laws of the Navajo Nation within ninety (90) calendar days after the date of enactment of such provision of this Act, in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock, naming as defendant the Navajo Nation, and not thereafter or in any other manner.

Subchapter 1. General Provisions

§ 1501. Title

This chapter may be cited as the “Navajo Nation Underground Storage Tank Act.”

History

CO-82-98, October 20, 1998.

§ 1502. Definitions

For the purposes of this Chapter:

A. “Abandoned Underground Storage Tank” means an underground storage tank (UST) abandoned by the owner and operator for which no liability is imposed against the owner or operator or their guarantor for the removal of said UST or associated release under federal law, this Chapter, Navajo common law or contract law, or where it is impossible to require an owner or operator to remove a UST or remediate a release or collect damages from the owner or operator for their failure to remove a UST or remediate a release because the owner and operator have been determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to be bankrupt or otherwise unable to pay.

B. “Attorney General” means the Attorney General of the Navajo Nation.

C. “Corrective Action Plan (CAP)” means a document which is submitted to the regulatory agency for approval and which is based on the site characterization of an underground storage tank site. The CAP corrects soil, surface water and ground water contamination and is implemented in order to protect human health, safety, welfare and the environment.

D. “Director” means the Director of the Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency or his/her designee.

E. “Environmental Assessment (EA)” means an assessment done of an individual parcel of land for the purpose of evaluating the environmental impacts of a project and for making management decisions in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). An EA is not as comprehensive as an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) which is done for federal projects, nor is it commercially based like an ESA.

F. “Environmental Audit” means a systematic, documented, periodic and objective review by regulated entities of facility operations and practices related to meeting environmental requirements.

G. “Environmental Site Assessment” or “ESA” means the process by which a person or entity seeks to determine if a particular parcel of property (including improvements) is subject to recognized environmental conditions.

H. “Exposure Assessment” means an assessment to determine the extent of exposure of, or potential for exposure of, individuals to petroleum or a regulated substance from a release from an underground storage tank based on such factors as the nature and extent of contamination and the existence of or potential for pathways of human exposure (including ground or surface water contamination, air emissions, and food chain contamination), the size of the community within the likely pathways of exposure, and the comparison of expected human exposure levels to the short-term and long-term health effects associated with identified contaminants and any available recommended exposure or tolerance limits for such contaminants. Such assessment shall not delay corrective action to abate immediate hazards or reduce exposure.

I. “Facility” means, with respect to any owner or operator, a single parcel of property or contiguous or adjacent property on which underground storage tanks and their associated piping are used for the storage of regulated substances. A facility may have one or more clusters of storage tanks at separate tank sites.

J. “Guarantor” means any person, other than the owner or operator, who provides evidence of financial responsibility for an owner or operator as required by this Chapter.

K. “Navajo Nation” means:

1. When referring to the body politic, the same meaning as set forth in 1 N.N.C. § 552;
2. When referring to governmental territory, all land within the territorial boundaries of the Navajo Nation, including:
 - a. all land within the exterior boundaries of the Navajo Indian Reservation, or of the Eastern Navajo Agency, or of Navajo dependent Indian communities, including all lands within the boundaries of Navajo chapter governments;
 - b. all land held in trust by the United States for, or restricted by the United States or otherwise set aside or apart under the superintendence of the United States for, the use or benefit of the Navajo Nation, the Navajo Tribe, any Band of Navajo Indians, or any individual Navajo Indians as such; and
 - c. all other land over which the Navajo Nation may exercise governmental jurisdiction in accordance with federal or international law.

L. “Navajo Nation Council” means the official legislative body of the Navajo Nation empowered to adopt policies and enact laws governing the Navajo Nation, as set forth in 2 N.N.C. § 102 et seq.

M. “Navajo Nation Environmental Protection Agency or Navajo EPA” means the agency established by the Navajo Nation Council pursuant to CAP-47-95, 2 N.N.C. § 1921 et seq., to carry out the environmental laws and regulations adopted by the Navajo Nation.

N. “Navajo Nation Underground Storage Tank Program or Navajo UST Program” means the program, including any successor program, regardless of name, within Navajo EPA that is responsible for implementing and enforcing this Chapter.

O. "Non-operational Storage Tank" means any underground storage tank into which regulated substances will not be deposited, or from which regulated substances will not be dispensed, after November 8, 1984.

P. "Operator" means any person in control of, or having responsibility for the daily operation of underground storage tanks.

Q. "Owner" means:

a. The person, after conducting a due diligence investigation immediately prior to acquiring ownership of the property, did not know and had no reason to know that the underground storage tank was located on the property. Due diligence shall consist of performing a phase I environmental assessment of the property which meets generally accepted commercial practices or standards for due diligence performed prior to the adoption of this standard.

2. A person who holds indicia of ownership primarily to protect a security interest in either the underground storage tank or in the property on which the underground storage tank is or was located but who does not participate in the management of the underground storage tank and who is not otherwise engaged in petroleum refining or marketing is not an owner for purposes of this Chapter.

3. A person who holds indicia of ownership as prescribed by Subsection (2) of this Section and who acquires ownership or control of a underground storage tank through foreclosure of the property where a underground storage tank is located shall not be deemed an owner and shall not be required to investigate a release or take corrective action in response to a release, if the person does all of the following:

a. Complies with the notification requirements prescribed by Subchapter 3.

b. Complies with the reporting requirements prescribed by § 1544 to the extent that the information is known to the person at the time of the report.

c. Temporarily or permanently closes the underground storage tank as in accordance with this Chapter and regulations promulgated hereunder.

d. Divests itself of the property in a reasonably prompt manner using whatever commercially reasonable means are relevant or appropriate with respect to the property, taking into consideration all of the facts and circumstances.

4. The Navajo Nation shall not be deemed an owner and shall not be required to investigate a release or take corrective action in response to a release where it holds indicia of ownership due to bankruptcy, foreclosure, tax delinquency condemnation, abandonment or similar means because of its status as a governmental entity (and is not otherwise operating said tank) and it:

- a. Complies with the notification requirements prescribed by Subchapter 3.
- b. Complies with the reporting requirements prescribed by § 1544 to the extent that the information is known to the person at the time of the report.
- c. Temporarily or permanently closes the underground storage tank as in accordance with this Chapter and regulations promulgated hereunder.

5. The federal government or any of its agencies shall not be deemed an owner or operator under this Chapter if prohibited by federal law.

R. "Person" means any individual, public or private corporation, company, partnership, firm, association or society of persons, the federal, state or local governments or any of their programs or agencies, any Indian tribe, including the Navajo Nation, or any of its agencies, divisions, departments, programs, enterprises, companies, chapters or other political subdivisions.

S. "Petroleum" means petroleum, including crude oil or any fraction thereof which is liquid at sixty (60) degrees Fahrenheit and 14.7 pounds per square inch absolute pressure.

T. "Petroleum product" means petroleum, including crude oil, and/or fraction thereof which is not otherwise specifically listed or designated as a hazardous substance under subparagraphs (A) through (F) of 42 U.S.C. § 9601(14), natural gas, natural gas liquids, liquified natural gas, and synthetic gas usable for fuel (or mixtures of natural gas and such synthetic gas). The word fraction refers to certain distillates of crude oil, including gasoline, kerosene, diesel oil, jet fuels, and fuel oil, pursuant to Standard definitions of Petroleum statistics.

U. "Regulated Substance" means

Subchapter 4. Release, Detection, Prevention, Reporting and Corrective Action Regulations and Other Requirements

United States Code

Release detection, prevention, and correction regulations, regulation of underground storage tanks, see 42 U.S.C. § 6991b.

Action Regulations

A. The Director, after notice and opportunity for public comment as provided for in this Chapter shall promulgate release detection, prevention, reporting, closure, and corrective action regulations applicable to all owners and operators of underground storage tanks, as may be necessary to protect human health and the environment. The regulations adopted pursuant to this Section shall be no less stringent than that required by federal law.

B. In promulgating regulations under this Section, the Director may distinguish between types, classes, and ages of underground storage tanks. In making such distinctions, the Director may take into consideration factors, including, but not limited to: location of the tanks, soil and climate conditions, uses of the tanks, history of maintenance, age of the tanks, current industry recommended practices, national consensus codes, hydrogeology, water table, proximity to drinking water, size of the tanks, quantity of regulated substances periodically deposited in or dispensed from the tank, the technical capability of the owners and operators, and the compatibility of the regulated substance and the materials of which the tank is fabricated.

C. The regulations promulgated pursuant to this Section shall include, but need not be limited to, the following requirements respecting all underground storage tanks:

1. Requirements for maintaining a leak detection system, an inventory control system together with tank testing, or a comparable system or method designed to identify releases in a manner consistent with the protection of human health and the environment;
2. Requirements for maintaining records of any monitoring or leak detection system or inventory control system or tank testing or comparable system;
3. Requirements for reporting of releases and corrective action taken in response to a release from an underground storage tank;
4. Requirements for performing an environmental assessment (EA) ;
5. Requirements for taking corrective action in response to a release from an underground storage tank;
6. Requirements for the closure of tanks to prevent future releases of regulated substances into the environment; and
7. Requirements for maintaining evidence of financial responsibility for taking corrective action and compensating third parties for bodily injury and property damage caused by sudden or gradual accidental releases arising from operating an underground storage tank;

8. Requirements for submitting health and safety plans and management plans as may be necessary to protect the public health and safety and the environment.

§ 1542. Interim Underground Storage Tank Requirements

Until the Director promulgates regulations authorized under § 1541 of this Chapter, the owner and operator of any underground storage tank shall comply with all applicable underground storage tank requirements of 42 U.S.C. § 6991 et seq. and federal regulations promulgated thereunder. In addition, the owner and operator of any underground storage tank shall comply with the following criteria:

1. Permanent closure of all underground storage tanks and product lines shall be accomplished by the removal and proper disposal of the tanks and product lines except that removal of an underground storage tank may not be required where said removal would result in the unnecessary destruction of a building/ structure or harm to potential cultural resources.
2. The owner and/or operator shall hire an independent third party certified consultant to perform removals, installations, upgrades, or remedial activity and shall provide proof of qualifications to NNEPA upon request. Qualifications shall include state certification of installation training (if applicable), field oversight by a qualified professional (Professional registered engineer or professional geologist or related science), reference list of similar projects completed, proof of liability insurance, proof of adherence to QA/QC protocol, proof of appropriate health and safety training, and proof of training and experience in tank removals (if applicable).
3. Upon hiring a UST consultant, the owner and/or operator shall direct a letter to the NNEPA authorizing under what circumstances the consultant may speak directly to the regulatory agencies on behalf of the owner.
4. Prior to any activity for which the ground surface will be excavated or drilled, the owner or operator or his/her authorized representative shall notify the Navajo Nation Historic Preservation Department to obtain a clearance if required to excavate or drill and provide proof of such clearance to the NNEPA.
5. The owner and/or operator shall make arrangements in advance of the planned activity to obtain clean fill material from a permitted facility if said fill material is taken from Navajo lands.
6. The owner and/or operator shall, in consultation with the consultant, provide a site-specific health and safety plan to the regulatory agencies prior to the planned activity, and shall conduct a health and safety meeting each day prior to commencing activity at the site.

7. The consultant shall contact the NNEPA to arrange for a date to conduct all installation and removal activity, and shall notify the NNEPA in writing of the arranged-for date at least thirty (30) days prior to the commencement of the activity.

8. Until such time as Navajo Nation clean-up standards and written guidelines are promulgated, the consultant shall determine, in advance of the activity, the possible alternatives for disposal and/or treatment of any contaminated soil and/or ground water and shall discuss these alternatives with the NNEPA prior to commencing activity. In the event of the discovery of a release, the consultant shall select the alternative treatment plan and present it in a Corrective Action Plan.

9. Contaminated soil may be temporarily stockpiled on-site only if permission is granted by the leasing agency of the Navajo Nation and the BIA or another agency as appropriate. The NNEPA shall review the plans and monitor the construction of the stockpile. The life span of the temporary stockpile shall be decided on a site-by-site basis by the appropriate oversight agencies.

10. The NNEPA UST Program shall not use risk assessment analysis as the only tool except in limited site specific corrective actions where it is convincingly proven and agreed upon by the Director that there is no other reasonable alternative.

11. The NNEPA can make policy decisions related to protection of the environment, but cannot make land use decisions. For instance, the technical oversight of land farms shall be done by NNEPA, but the land use decisions must be made by the proper agencies.

12. For purposes of these interim regulations, the NNEPA will act as a second responder only. As stated in § 1541(C)(3), regulations will be developed which designate the requirements for reporting of releases and corrective action. In the interim, all releases which impact the immediate health and safety of the Navajo people shall be reported to the Department of Emergency Management. Secondly, if any one release from an underground storage tank is greater than 25 gallons, that release shall be reported to the NNEPA and the U.S. EPA within twenty-four (24) hours as stated in the federal regulations.

13. NNEPA shall operate independently from the Division of Economic Development and other tribal departments and shall enforce against all entities equally. The NNEPA shall not review ESA's, land use documents, contractor bids, purchase requisitions, or other documents which are part of the property transfer process or for which review poses a conflict of interest, unless the review is necessary in order to determine liability for a release or as a follow up on a reported release. Should the Division of Economic Development or another department, or the Bureau of Indian Affairs need assistance in reviewing an ESA or other document, the NNEPA may do so only as a third party on technical matters.

14. The owner and/or operator shall immediately clean up a release of a regulated substance in accordance with applicable laws and regulations.

§ 1543. Financial Responsibility Requirements

A. Financial responsibility required by this Subsection may be established in accordance with regulations promulgated by the Director by any one, or any combination, of the following: insurance, guarantee, surety bond, letter of credit, qualification as a self-insurer or any other method satisfactory to the Director. In promulgating requirements under this Subsection, the Director is authorized to specify policy or other contractual terms, conditions, or defenses which are necessary or are unacceptable in establishing such evidence of financial responsibility in order to effectuate the purposes of this Subchapter.

B. In any case where the owner or operator is in bankruptcy, reorganization, or arrangement pursuant to the Federal Bankruptcy Code or where with reasonable diligence jurisdiction in tribal court or the Federal Courts cannot be obtained over an owner or operator likely to be solvent at the time of judgment, any claim arising from conduct for which evidence of financial responsibility must be provided under this Subsection may be asserted directly against the guarantor providing such evidence of financial responsibility. In the case of any action pursuant to this paragraph such guarantor shall be entitled to invoke all rights and defenses which would have been available to the owner or operator if any action had been brought against the owner or operator by the claimant and which would have been available to the guarantor if any action had been brought against the guarantor by the owner or operator.

C. The total liability of any guarantor shall be limited to the aggregate amount which the guarantor has provided as evidence of financial responsibility to the owner or operator under this Section. Nothing in this Subsection shall be construed to limit any other tribal or Federal statutory, contractual or common law liability of a guarantor to its owner or operator including, but not limited to, the liability of such guarantor for bad faith either in negotiating or in failing to negotiate the settlement of any claim. Nothing in this Subsection shall be construed to diminish the liability of any person under the Comprehensive Environmental Response Compensation and Liability Act of 1980, P.L. 96-510, 94 Stat. 2769; 42 U.S.C. § 9607 or § 9611 or other applicable law.

1. The Director, in promulgating financial responsibility regulations under this Section, may establish an amount of coverage for particular classes or categories of underground storage tanks containing petroleum which shall satisfy such regulations and which shall not be less than one million dollars ($1,000,000) for each occurrence with an annual aggregate of not less than one million dollars ($1,000,000) for 1 to 100 petroleum USTs or with an annual aggregate of not less than two million dollars ($2,000,000) for 101 or more petroleum USTs.

2. The Director may set amounts lower than the amounts required by Subparagraph 1. of this Paragraph for underground storage tanks containing petroleum which are at facilities not engaged in petroleum production, refining, or marketing and which are not used to handle substantial quantities of petroleum.

3. In establishing classes and categories for purposes of this Paragraph, the Director may consider the following factors:

- a. The size, type, location, storage, and handling capacity of underground storage tanks in the class or category and the volume of petroleum handled by such tanks.
- b. The likelihood of release and the potential extent of damage from any release from underground storage tanks in the class or category.
- c. The economic impact of the limits on the owners and operators of each such class or category, particularly relating to the small business segment of the petroleum marketing industry.
- d. The availability of methods of financial responsibility in amounts greater than the amount established by this paragraph.
- e. Such other factors as the Director deems pertinent.

B. The operator of an underground storage tank shall notify the owner of each release from the tank as soon as practicable but no later than twenty-four (24)hours after the release is detected.

C. Notice by the operator and owner required by this Section may be made orally or in writing but shall be followed within fourteen (14) days by a written report to the Navajo UST Program that a release or suspected release has been detected. The written report shall specify to the extent known at the time of the report the nature of the release or suspected release, the regulated substance released, the quantity of the release, the period of time over which the release occurred, the initial response and the corrective action taken as of the date of the report and anticipated to be taken subsequent to the date of the report. § 1547. Authority of the Director to Take Corrective Action

A. Corrective Actions

The Director is authorized to:

1. Require the owner or operator of an underground storage tank to undertake corrective action with respect to any release of a regulated substance when the Director determines that such corrective action will be done properly and promptly by the owner or operator of the underground storage tank from which the release occurs; or

2. Undertake corrective actions, utilizing available funds from the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account established under § 1573 of this Chapter, with respect to any release of a regulated substance into the environment from an underground storage tank only if such action is necessary, in the judgment of the Director, to protect human health and the environment and one or more of the following situations exists:

a. No person can be found, within ninety (90) days or such shorter period as may be necessary to protect human health and the environment, who is:

- i. An owner or operator of the tank concerned,
- ii. subject to such corrective action regulations, and
- iii. capable of carrying out such corrective action properly.

b. A situation exists which requires prompt action by the Director to protect human health and the environment.

c. Corrective action costs at a facility exceed the amount of coverage required by the Director and, considering the class or category of underground storage tank from which the release occurred, expenditures from the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account are necessary to assure an effective corrective action.

d. The owner or operator of the tank has failed or refused to comply with an order of the Director under this Chapter to comply with the corrective action regulations.

3. Undertake the removal of an abandoned underground storage tank when, in the judgment of the Director, said removal is necessary to protect human health, safety or the environment and sufficient funds exist in the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account established under § 1573 of this Chapter.

B. Priority for Corrective Actions

The Director shall give priority in undertaking corrective actions under this Subsection, and in issuing orders requiring owners or operators to undertake such actions, to releases of regulated substances from underground storage tanks which pose the greatest threat to human health and the environment.

C. Corrective Action Orders

The Administrator is authorized to issue orders to the owner or operator of an underground storage tank to carry out Subsection (A)(1) of this Section or to carry out this Chapter or regulations promulgated hereunder. Such orders shall be issued and enforced in the same manner and subject to the same requirements as orders under § 1552 of this Chapter.

D. Allowable Corrective Actions

The corrective actions undertaken by the Director under Subsection (A)(1) may include temporary or permanent relocation of residents (or temporary closure of business where necessary to protect the public health) and the establishment of alternative household or public water supplies. In connection with the performance of any corrective action under Subsection (A)(1), the Director may undertake an exposure assessment. The costs of any such assessment may be treated as corrective action for purposes of Subsection (E) related to cost recovery.

E. Recovery of Costs

1. In General. Whenever costs have been incurred by the Director for undertaking corrective action or enforcement action with respect to the release of regulated substance from an underground storage tank, the owner or operator of such tank shall be liable to the Director. The liability under this Subsection shall be construed to be the standard of strict, joint and several liability and the Director may use funds from the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account to pursue the recovery of cost.

2. Recovery. In determining the equities for seeking the recovery of costs under Subsection (A)(1), the Director may consider the amount of financial responsibility required to be maintained under this Chapter and the regulations promulgated hereunder.

3. Effect on Liability

a. No Transfers of Liability. No indemnification, hold harmless, or similar agreement or conveyance shall be effective to transfer from the owner or operator of any underground storage tank or from any person who may be liable for a release or threat of release under this Subsection, to any other person the liability imposed under this Subsection. Nothing in this Subsection shall bar any agreement to insure, hold harmless, or indemnify a party to such agreement for any liability under this Section.

b. No Bar to Cause of Action. Nothing in this Subsection, including the provisions of Subsection (A) of this Subsection, shall bar a cause of action that an owner or operator or any other person subject to liability under this Section, or a guarantor, has or would have, by reason of subrogation or otherwise against any person.

F. Emergency Procurement Powers

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Director may authorize the use of such emergency procurement powers as he or she deems necessary.

G. Facilities without Financial Responsibility, Facilities Owned by the Federal Government and Navajo Nation, Facilities not Subject to Tariffs and Facilities not in Compliance with the Tariff Requirements

At any facility where the owner or operator has failed to maintain evidence of financial responsibility in amounts at least equal to the amounts established by this Chapter or regulations promulgated hereunder for whatever reason, facilities owned by the federal government, the Navajo Nation or its entities

(excluding tribal enterprises), any facility not subject to tariffs under this Chapter or any facility that has failed to pay any tariffs owed under this Chapter when due, the Director shall expend no monies from the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account to clean up releases at such facility pursuant to the provisions of Subsection (A) of this Section. At such facilities the Director shall use the authorities provided in this chapter to order corrective action to clean up such releases. Notwithstanding the provisions of this Section, the Director may use monies from the fund to take the corrective actions authorized by Subsection (D) of this Section to protect human health at such facilities and shall seek full recovery of the costs of all such actions pursuant to the provisions of Subsection (E)(1) of this Section and without consideration of the factors in Subsection (E)(2) of this Section. Nothing in this Section shall prevent the Director from taking corrective action at a facility where there is no solvent owner or operator or where immediate action is necessary to respond to an imminent and substantial endangerment of human health or the environment.

§ 1552. General Enforcement Authority

A. In General. Whenever, on the basis of any information available to the Director, the Director finds that any person has violated, or is in violation of, any requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or orders issued pursuant to this Chapter, the Director may:

1. Issue and serve on such person an order requiring such person to comply with such requirement or prohibition, pursuant to the provisions of this section;

2. Issue and serve on such person an administrative penalty order in accordance with § 1554 of this Chapter;

3. Bring a civil action in accordance with § 1553(A) of this Chapter; and/or

4. Bring a criminal action in accordance with § 1553(B) of this Chapter and/or refer any criminal enforcement action or portion of such action to the U.S. EPA Regional Administrator for the appropriate EPA region.

In addition, when a person has consistently violated any requirements or prohibitions of this Chapter, the regulations promulgated under this Chapter, or orders issued pursuant to this Chapter, or refused to comply with any such requirements or prohibitions, such person shall be prohibited from continuing to operate an underground storage tank facility within the Navajo Nation, and/or from entering into any new contracts (including leases) that would permit such person to operate an underground storage tank facility within the Navajo Nation.

B. Requirements for Orders to Comply. An order to comply issued under this Section shall state with reasonable specificity the nature of the violation, shall state that the alleged violator is entitled to a hearing pursuant to regulations promulgated by the Director under § 1561 of this Chapter, if such hearing is requested in writing within thirty (30) days after the date of issuance of the order, and shall specify a time for compliance that the Director determines is as expeditious as practicable, taking into account the seriousness of the violation and any good faith efforts to comply with applicable requirements. The order shall become effective immediately upon the expiration of the thirty (30) days if no hearing is requested and, if a timely request for a hearing is made, upon the decision of the Director. The order may be conditional and require a person to refrain from particular acts unless certain conditions are met. A copy of the order shall be sent to the appropriate EPA region and, if the order is issued to a corporation, to the appropriate corporate officers. No order to comply issued under this Section shall prevent the Director from assessing any penalties nor otherwise affect or limit the Director's authority to enforce under other provisions of this Chapter, nor affect any person's obligations to comply with any Section of this Chapter or with a term or condition of any permit or implementation plan promulgated or approved under this Chapter.

C. Emergency Compliance Orders. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section, the Director (after consultation with the Attorney General where feasible) may issue a compliance order that is effective immediately where there is an imminent and substantial threat to the public health, welfare or environment. Any person issued an order that is effective immediately may file a written request within thirty (30) days with the Director for a stay pending the outcome of any appeal taken under this Section in accordance with the procedures provided for in § 1552(B). The Director shall, by written notice, grant or deny the request for a stay within five (5) days receipt of a request for a stay. If the Director denies the request for a stay, the affected party has thirty (30) days to appeal the denial to the Window Rock District Court. Any person subject to an emergency compliance order may seek judicial review of a final agency determination as provided for in § 1554(D) of this Chapter.

D. Enforcement of Compliance Orders. Orders of the Director shall be enforced by the Navajo Nation Underground Storage Tank Program, the Navajo Department of Justice, Resources Enforcement and the Division of Public Safety. Those authorized to enforce the orders may take reasonable steps to assure compliance, including but not limited to:

1. Entering upon any property or establishment believed to be violating the order and demanding compliance; and
2. Terminating part or all operations at the underground storage tank facility.

E. Injunctive Relief. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section, the Director may seek injunctive relief pursuant to § 1553(A) to restrain immediately any person from engaging in any unauthorized activity that is endangering or is causing danger to the public health or the environment or enjoin any threatened or continuing violation of any requirements under this Chapter or regulations hereunder.

§ 1553. Judicial Enforcement

A. Civil Judicial Enforcement. The Director shall request the Attorney General to file an action for a temporary restraining order, a preliminary injunction, a permanent injunction or any other relief provided by law, including the assessment and recovery of civil penalties in an amount of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) but not to exceed twenty five thousand dollars ($25,000) per day per violation, in any of the following instances:

1. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, or order issued pursuant to this Chapter;
2. Whenever a person has violated, or is in violation of, any duty to allow or carry out inspection, entry or monitoring activities; and
3. Whenever a person is creating an imminent and substantial endangerment to the public health or the environment, in which case the Director shall request the Attorney General to pursue injunctive relief, but not the assessment of penalties, unless the endangerment to the public health is caused by a violation, as specified in Subsection (1) and (2). Provided, however, that any person who fails to provide notice as required by Subchapter 3 or submits false information required under this Chapter or regulations promulgated hereunder shall be subject to a civil penalty of not more than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for each tank for which notification is not given or false information is submitted.

B. Criminal Penalties. Any person who intentionally:

1. Violates any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including but not limited to a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, a permit or order issued pursuant to this Chapter, a filing, reporting or notice requirement under this Chapter;
2. Makes any false material statement, representation or certification in, or omits material information from, or alters, conceals or fails to file or maintain any notice, application, record, report or other document required pursuant to this Chapter; or
3. Falsifies, tampers with, renders inaccurate or fails to install any monitoring device or method required to be maintained or followed under this Chapter; shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine in a maximum amount of not less than five hundred dollars ($500.00) but not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000) per day per violation or imprisonment for not more than one hundred eighty (180) days per day per violation or both or be subject to any other penalty imposed by the court available under Navajo law. In any instance where the Navajo Nation lacks jurisdiction over the person charged, or where the Director is limited in the amount of the fine that he may impose, the Director may refer the action to the appropriate EPA Regional Administrator pursuant to § 1552 of this Chapter. For the purpose of this Subsection, the term "person" includes, in addition to the entities referred to in § 1502 of this Chapter, any responsible corporate officer.

C. Suits for Costs. In addition to the above proceedings, the Director is authorized to initiate proceedings, separately or in connection with either a civil, criminal or exclusion proceeding brought under this Chapter, for any damages caused to the lands or other resources of the Navajo Nation as the result of any violation of this Chapter, including for payment of costs of all associated remedial actions taken, for any expenses incurred in investigating and evaluating such damages, for any administrative costs incurred as a result of this matter and for the reasonable value of the attorney time and expenses associated with such proceedings.

D. Jurisdiction and Venue. Any action under this Subsection may be brought in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock, and such court shall have jurisdiction to restrain such violation, require compliance, assess civil penalties, collect any fees or noncompliance penalties owed the Navajo Nation under this Chapter, and award any other appropriate relief.

E. Calculation of Penalties

1. For purposes of determining the number of days of violation for which a civil penalty may be assessed under this Section, § 1554 or § 1555, if the Director has notified the source in writing of the violation and a prima facie showing can be made that the conduct or events giving rise to the violation are likely to have continued or recurred past the date of notice, the days of violation shall be presumed to include the date of such notice, each day of violation prior to such notice and each day thereafter until the violator establishes that continuous compliance has been achieved, except to the extent that the violator can prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there were intervening days during which no violation occurred or that the violation was not continuing in nature. Notice under this Section shall be accomplished by the issuance of a written notice of violation or written order to comply or by filing a complaint in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock that alleges any violation described in Subsection (A) of this Section.

2. In determining the amount of a civil penalty assessed under this Section, the court shall consider the history, seriousness and duration of the violation; any good faith efforts to comply with the applicable requirements; the violator's full compliance history, including the severity and duration of past violations, if any; the economic impact of the penalty on the violator; as an aggravating factor only, the economic benefit, if any, resulting from the violation; and any other factors that the court deems relevant. The court may assess penalties for noncompliance with administrative subpoenas under § 1561 of this Chapter or actions under Subchapter 2 of this Chapter where the violator does not have sufficient cause to violate or fail or refuse to comply with such subpoena or action.

3. All penalties collected pursuant to this Section shall be deposited in the UST Program Special Revenue Fund Account in the Navajo Treasury for use by the Director to finance the Underground Storage Tank Program compliance and enforcement activities. The Director shall report annually to the Navajo Nation Council about the sums deposited into the fund, including the sources and the actual and proposed uses thereof.

4. In lieu of or in addition to a monetary penalty, the Director may impose or may request the Attorney General to seek from the court a requirement to remediate the damage caused, perform community service, or conduct supplemental environmental projects.

F. Security. The court may, if a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction is sought under this Section or § 1555 of this Chapter, require the filing of a bond or equivalent security.

§ 1554. Administrative Assessment of Penalties

A. Basis for Penalty. The Director may issue against any person an administrative order assessing a civil administrative penalty of up to ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for each tank for each day of violation whenever the Director finds that a person has violated, or is in violation of, any provision, requirement or prohibition of this Chapter, including, but not limited to, a regulation adopted pursuant to this Chapter, or order issued pursuant to this Chapter. The Director's authority under this Subsection shall be limited to matters where the total penalty sought does not exceed one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) and the first alleged date of violation occurred no more than one (1) year prior to the initiation of administrative action, except where the Director and Attorney General jointly determine that a matter involving a larger penalty or longer period of violation is appropriate for administrative penalty action. The communications required to make such a joint determination and the method(s) used for making such a joint determination shall be privileged, and shall not be subject to judicial review. The Director may compromise, modify or remit, with or without any conditions, any administrative penalty imposed under this Section.

B. Hearing Requirement. The Director shall assess an administrative penalty under this Section by an order made after opportunity for a hearing. The Director shall promulgate rules for discovery and other procedures for hearings under this Section. Before issuing such an order, the Director shall give written notice of the proposed order to the person on whom the penalty is to be assessed and provide such person an opportunity to request a hearing within thirty (30) days of receipt of the notice.

C. Field Citations. After consultation with the Attorney General, the Director may implement a field citation program through regulations establishing minor violations for which field citations assessing civil penalties not to exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000) per day per facility may be issued by officers or employees designated by the Director, to the extent permissible under applicable law. Any person on whom a field citation is assessed may, pursuant to regulations issued under this Section, elect to pay the penalty or request a hearing on the citation. If a timely request for a hearing is not made, the penalty shall be final. Any hearing shall provide a reasonable opportunity to be heard and to present evidence. Payment of a penalty required by a field citation shall not be a defense to further enforcement by the Director to correct a violation or to assess the statutory maximum penalty pursuant to other authorities in this Chapter if the violation continues.

D. Judicial Review. Any person subject to a civil penalty under Subsections (A) or (C) of this Section may seek review of such penalty assessment in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock by filing a petition for review in such court within thirty (30) days following the date that the penalty becomes final and by simultaneously sending a copy of such filing by certified mail to the Director and the Attorney General. Within thirty (30) days thereafter the Director shall file in such court a certified copy or certified index of the record on which the penalty was based. The court shall not set aside or remand an order or assessment under this Section unless the record, taken as a whole, does not substantially support the finding of a violation or unless the order or penalty assessment constitutes an abuse of discretion. In any such proceedings, the Director may seek to recover civil penalties ordered or assessed under this Section.

E. Failure to Pay Penalty. If any person fails to pay an assessment of a civil penalty or fails to comply with an administrative penalty order after the order or assessment has become final, the Director shall request the Attorney General to bring a civil action in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock to enforce the order or recover the amount ordered or assessed plus interest, from the date of the final order or decision or the date of the final judgment, as the case may be. In such an action the validity, amount and appropriateness of the order or assessment shall not be subject to review. Any person who fails to pay on a timely basis a civil penalty ordered or assessed under this Section shall be required to pay, in addition to such penalty and interest, the Director's enforcement expenses, including but not limited to attorneys fees and costs of collection proceedings. Such person shall also pay a quarterly nonpayment penalty for each quarter during which such failure to pay persists. The nonpayment penalty shall be ten percent (10%) of the aggregate amount of the person's outstanding penalties and nonpayment penalties accrued as of the beginning of each quarter of non-payment.

F. Calculation of Penalty. In determining the amount of any penalty to be assessed under this Section, the Director or the court, as appropriate, shall take into consideration the factors enumerated in § 503(E) of this Chapter.

In addition, an action may not be commenced if the Director has commenced and is diligently prosecuting a civil action in court to restrain or abate conditions which may have contributed or are contributing to the activities which may cause or lead to the alleged endangerment, except that any person may intervene as a matter of right in such action if such person claims an interest relating to the subject of the action and is so situated that the disposition of the action may, as a practical matter, impair or impede his ability to protect that interest.

C. Venue; Intervention; Service of Complaint

1. Any action relating to a violation of any requirement of this Chapter or the regulations promulgated hereunder may be brought only in the Navajo Nation District Court in Window Rock.

2. The Director, if not already a party, may intervene as of right in any action brought under this Section.

3. Whenever any action is brought under this Section the plaintiff shall serve a copy of the complaint on the Attorney General and on the Director. No consent judgment may be entered in an action brought under this Section in which the Director is not a party prior to forty-five (45) days following the receipt of a copy of the proposed consent judgment by the Attorney General and the Director, during which time the Attorney General and the Director may submit, on behalf of the Navajo Nation, their comments on the proposed consent judgment to the court and parties or the Director may intervene as a matter of right.

Subchapter 6. Rulemaking and Judicial Review

§ 1561. Rulemaking and Other Administrative Procedures

A. Rulemaking

1. Notice of any proposed regulation shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation for the Navajo Nation. The notice shall specify the period available for public comment and the date, time and place of any public hearing, and shall make available to the public a copy of the proposed regulation. Not later than the date of proposal of the regulation in question the Director shall establish a rulemaking docket and shall make the docket available to the public for inspection and copying during regular business hours. The Director shall provide a comment period of at least thirty (30) calendar days; allow any person to submit written comments, data or documentary information; shall in addition give interested persons an opportunity to present orally their views, in the Navajo or English languages, data or arguments; and shall keep the docket open for twenty (20) calendar days after such proceeding to provide an opportunity for submission of rebuttal and supplementary information.

2. The final regulation shall be based on the record of the rulemaking proceeding, contained in the docket, and shall be accompanied by an explanation of the reasons for any major changes from the proposed regulation and a response to each of the significant comments submitted in written or oral presentations during the comment period.

B. Administrative Subpoenas

1. In connection with any investigation, monitoring, reporting, entry, compliance inspection or administrative enforcement proceeding under this Chapter, the Director may issue subpoenas for the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of relevant papers, books and documents, and may administer oaths.

2. Upon a showing satisfactory to the Director by the owner or operator of a source that it would divulge trade secrets or secret processes to make public such papers, books, documents or information or any portion thereof, the Director shall consider this information confidential, except that such information may be disclosed to other officers, employees or authorized representatives of the Nation concerned with carrying out this Chapter or when relevant in any proceeding under this Chapter.

3. Witnesses summoned shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid in the Navajo Nation's courts. In case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpoena, the tribal court for the district in which such person is found, resides or transacts, business shall have jurisdiction to issue an order requiring such person to appear before the Director and give testimony or produce papers, books or documents, or both, and any failure to obey such an order may be punished by the court as contempt. A person may challenge the lawfulness of an administrative subpoena issued by the Director in the Navajo Nation Window Rock District Court in his or her official capacity and not in any other manner; in any such action, relief shall be limited to declaratory relief.

§ 1562. Review in Navajo Nation Supreme Court

A. Petitions for Review. A petition for review of any final action taken by the Director under this Chapter, including but not limited to promulgation of regulations and standards or issuance of orders (but not including imposition of administrative penalties under § 1554 which are subject to review under § 1554(D), or challenge of an administrative subpoena which are subject to review under § 1561(B)(3) shall be brought in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. The petition shall be filed within sixty (60) days from the date that notice of such final action is first published, or, if notice is not published, first served upon the alleged violator or such other person required to be served under this Chapter, except that if the petition is based solely on grounds arising after the sixtieth day, then the petition shall be filed within sixty (60) days after such grounds arise.

B. Limitations on Review

1. If judicial review of a final action of the Director could have been obtained under Subsection (A) of this Section, that action shall not be subject to judicial review in judicial proceedings for enforcement.

2. With respect to any regulations promulgated under this Chapter, only an objection that was raised with reasonable specificity during the public comment period may be raised during judicial review. If the person raising an objection can demonstrate to the Director that it was impracticable to raise the objection within such time or if the grounds for the objection arose after the public comment period (but within the time specified for judicial review), and if the objection is of central relevance to the outcome of the regulation, the Director shall convene a proceeding for reconsideration of the regulation and provide the same procedural rights as would have been afforded had the information been available at the time the regulation was proposed. If the Director refuses to convene such a proceeding, the person may seek review of such refusal in the Navajo Nation Supreme Court. Such reconsideration shall not postpone the effectiveness of the regulation, although it may be stayed by the Director or the court for up to three (3) months.

3. Except as otherwise expressly allowed by Navajo law, no interlocutory appeals shall be permitted with regard to determinations made by the Director under this Chapter. In reviewing alleged procedural errors, the court may invalidate the regulation only if the errors were so serious and related to matters of such central relevance to the regulation that there is a substantial likelihood that the regulation would have been significantly changed if such errors had not been made.

C. Standards for Review

In reviewing any final action of the Director undertaken pursuant to this Chapter, the court may reverse any such action that it finds to be:

1. Arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with the law;
2. In excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations or short of statutory right;
3. Without observance of procedure required by law; or
4. Unsupported by substantial evidence.

D. Challenge to Provisions

Any challenge to the lawfulness of any provision of this Chapter must be filed in accordance with Navajo law within ninety (90) calendar days after the date of enactment of this Chapter in the District Court for the District of Window Rock, naming as defendant the Navajo Nation, and not thereafter or in any other manner. Any challenge to regulations promulgated under this Chapter must be filed within ninety (90) calendar days of their adoption. In any such action, relief shall be limited to declaratory relief. The District Court for the District of Window Rock shall have exclusive Jurisdiction and venue over any action challenging any provision of this Chapter.

§ 1572. Underground Storage Tank Tariff

A. Effective January 1, 1998, there is imposed and the Director shall collect a tariff from the owner who is primarily responsible for submitting payment or operator (to be collected on an annual basis except as provided below for distributors) on the operation of underground storage tanks regulated under this Chapter measured by the quantity of regulated substances placed in a tank in any calendar year; provided, however, that the distributor of motor vehicle fuel, diesel fuel and aviation fuel shall be responsible and liable for submitting the tariff (on a monthly basis) to Navajo EPA where the owner or operator is not engaged in the bulk distribution of such fuels. In the event the distributor fails to submit the tariff, the owner and operator shall also remain jointly and severally liable for said tariff. The tariff shall be levied at the rate of one cent per gallon of regulated substance. In addition to providing monthly tariff payments, the distributor shall provide to Navajo EPA a monthly summary report on forms prescribed by the Director as well as an annual reconciliation report verifying payment of all tariffs owned.

B. For proper administration of this Section, and to prevent the evasion of the tariff imposed by this Chapter, it shall be presumed until the contrary is established by competent proof under rules and procedures adopted by the Director, that all regulated substances which are motor vehicle fuel, aviation fuel and diesel and which are refined, manufactured, produced, compounded or blended within the Navajo Nation, or imported into the Navajo Nation will be placed in an underground storage tank from which the fuel is dispensed to users who consume the fuel and do not further distribute it.

C. The tariff imposed by this Chapter does not apply to underground storage tanks operated by the United States or the Navajo Nation, its agencies (including Navajo Nation chapters not engaged in the wholesale or resale trade, whether for profit or not of motor fuel, aviation fuel or diesel fuel) or to underground storage tanks used for the purpose of storing, handling or distributing naphtha-type jet fuel or kerosene-type jet fuel. The tariff does, however, apply to Navajo Nation enterprises and other Navajo Nation business entities who are engaged in the wholesale or resale trade, whether for profit or not, of motor vehicle fuel, aviation fuel or diesel fuel. The Director shall issue, within thirty (30) days of a request, an exemption certificate to those owners or operators of underground storage tanks exempted from the tariff requirements under the provision which shall be used for verifications of the tariff exemption.

D. The Director shall adopt and specify the forms of the return.

E. Subchapter 6 shall not apply to the temporary rules adopted pursuant to this Section. The temporary rules shall be effective for a period of one hundred eighty (180) days from the date of adoption. The temporary rules may be renewed twice in the same manner as they were adopted, may be amended at the time or times they are renewed, and shall be effective for a period of one hundred eighty (180) days from the date the renewed temporary rules are adopted

F. The permanent rules adopted pursuant to this Section shall be adopted as provided in Subchapter 6.

G. Return and payment of tariff; due date.

1. The tariff levied under this Section is due and payable annually on or before March 31 for the preceding calendar year and is delinquent if not postmarked on or before that date or if not received by Navajo EPA on or before March 31 for tariff payers electing to file in person.

2. At the time the tariff is paid the tariff payer shall prepare and file with the tariff a return, on a form prescribed by the Director, showing the amount of tariff for which he is liable for the period covered by the return. The return shall contain either a sworn statement or a certification, under penalty of perjury, that the information contained in the return is true, complete and correct according to the best belief and knowledge of the owner or operator filing the report.

H. Extensions; abatement.

The Director, for good cause, may extend the time for filing any return required by this Chapter and may grant such reasonable additional time within which to make the return as he deems proper if at least ninety percent (90%) of the tariff liability is paid when the extension is requested.

I. Audits.

The Director may require a person who is required to pay the tariff under this Section to appear, at reasonable times and on reasonable notice, at the Director's office and produce such records and information as are specified in the notice to determine compliance with this Section. The Director shall audit the records of a sufficient number of tariff payers under this Section to ensure general compliance with this Section.

J. Interest; penalty; lien.

1. If the tariff, or any portion of the tariff, is not Paid on or before the date prescribed for its payment, interest shall be imposed on any unpaid amount of tariff from the date the payment was due, without regard to any extension of time or stay of payment, to the date payment is received. The rate shall be equal to the IRS rate.

2. If a tariff payer fails to file a return as required under this Section on or before the due date as extended by the Director, unless the failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect, a penalty of five percent (5%) of the tariff found to be remaining due shall be added to the tariff for each month or fraction of a month elapsing between the due date of the return and the date on which it is filed. The total penalty shall not exceed twenty-five percent (25%) of the tariff remaining due. The penalty so added to the tariff is due and payable on notice and demand by the Director.

3. If any tariff, interest or penalty imposed by this Section is not paid when due, the unpaid amounts are a lien from the date the amounts became due on all real and personal property and rights to property belonging to the tariff payer. The lien may be perfected by recording a notice of lien in the county in which the property is located, the Navajo Division of Economic Development, the Navajo Land Department or the Bureau of Indian Affairs where appropriate. The notice shall specify the nature of the tariff, the amount of tariff, interest and penalty due, the tariff period for which the amounts are due and the name and last known address of the tariff payer who is liable for the amounts. In addition, it shall be unlawful for the owner, operator or distributor to place a regulated substance into an underground storage tank where said tariff, interest or penalty imposed has not been paid when due.

K. Remission and disposition of revenues. The Director shall promptly transmit to the Controller all monies collected under this Section. The Controller shall credit these payments to the UST Program Special Revenue Fund Account and the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account as follows:

1. Eighty percent (80%) of the net revenues shall be credited to the Navajo Leaking Underground Storage Tank Revolving Trust Fund Account. Any amount accumulated in excess of three million dollars ($3,000,000) in said account within a single fiscal year shall be deposited in the Navajo Nation General Fund Account. After five (5) years from the effective date of this Chapter, any amount accumulated in excess of one million dollars ($1,000,000) within a single fiscal year shall be deposited into the Navajo Nation General Fund Account.

2. Twenty percent (20%) of the net revenues shall be deposited into the UST Program Special Revenue Fund Account for program implementation. Effective upon the date of this Chapter, any amount accumulated in excess of two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) within a single fiscal year shall be deposited in the Navajo Nation General Fund Account.

L. Appeals. Any Appeals taken under this section shall be taken in the same manner as appeals taken under § 1554 (administrative penalties) of this Chapter.

A. General Jurisdiction. The Navajo Nation has the inherent sovereign authority to authorize and regulate business activities of business entities within the jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation, as defined in 7 N.N.C. § 254.

B. Application. This Act shall apply uniformly to the Navajo Nation Government including its enterprises and political subdivisions and chapters and private business entities who acquire goods or services through contracts with the Navajo Nation. This Act shall apply to all procurement contracts exceeding fifty thousand dollars ($50,000) and on a limited basis to those procurement contracts less than fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), which will be governed by the rules and regulations of the Navajo Nation Procurement Code (12 N.N.C. §§ 301-317).

C. Inapplicability to Lease and Other Transactions. This Act shall not apply to the negotiation, execution, award, transfer, assignment or approval of business site leases, homesite leases, office space leases, shopping center leases, mineral or non mineral leases, subleases, permits, licenses and transactions that are governed by other applicable laws and regulations of the Navajo Nation and the United States. This Act shall not apply to activities of private persons who contract for goods or services for their individual use or benefit.

D. Implementing Federal Indian Preference Laws and Regulations. To the fullest reasonable extent, this Act and its rules and regulations shall be construed in accordance with federal Indian preference laws and regulations. If federal or state funded contracts provide for the application of Indian preference rather than the provisions of this Act, the contract-letting or procuring entity shall attempt to negotiate an agreement to apply the provisions of this Act. If federal or state law expressly precludes the application of the provisions of the Act, the application of Indian preference shall be applied and shall not constitute a violation of this Act.

E. Required Navajo Business and Employment Preference Compliance. The Navajo Nation government, its political subdivisions, enterprises, and chapters whether located on or off the Navajo Nation shall comply with this Act and the Navajo Nation Preference in Employment Act. Subcontractors, brokers, agents, subsidiaries, successors and assigns shall also comply with this Act to the same extent as applicable to prime contractors.

The failure or refusal of such official or employee to abstain from such participation as required thereunder, shall render void any approval or action taken by the Navajo Nation Government or entity in which such official or employee participated, to the extent such action is favorable to the business entity in which such official or employee had an interest. The official(s) or employee(s) in conflict shall be subject to all applicable sanctions and penalties provided by law.

I. Other Compliance With Navajo Nation Business Requirements. No business shall operate within the Navajo Nation without prior authorization, license or permit as required by the Navajo Nation.

A. Bid or Request for Proposal Solicitation. The procuring party shall first prepare a bid or request for proposal solicitation that shall include the following:

1. The goods or services being procured; and
2. The necessary qualifications of contractors or suppliers needed to provide the goods or services.

B. Advertisement and notice. After preparing a bid or request for proposal solicitation, the procuring entity shall:

3. The notice or invitation to bid shall include:
 - a. The requirements and specifications of the goods or services requested;
 - b. The deadline dates for submission of bids or proposals, bid openings, award and any other significant dates; and
 - c. The necessary qualifications of the business to provide goods or services.

C. Initial Determination of Maximum Feasible Price or Cost by Contracting or Procuring Party. The determination of the maximum feasible price or cost, in accordance with appropriate Business Regulatory Department rules and regulations, shall be made by the contracting or procuring party prior to soliciting bids and proposals. The maximum feasible price or cost may take into account market price, budgetary constraints and prototype cost and may not be revealed until the award of the contract.

D. Notice to the Business Regulatory Department. Prior to bid openings, the procuring party shall provide to the Business Regulatory Department:

1. A copy of the bid solicitation;
2. A copy of the notice published in the newspaper; and
3. A list of all businesses notified, including the dates and manner of such notices.

2. The procuring entity shall determine the qualifications of the bidders based on qualifications established in accordance § 205(A)(2). Bids submitted by businesses deemed non-qualified or non-responsive shall not be considered.

3. The award shall be made to the qualified Priority #1 bidder with the lowest responsive bid among the Priority #1 bidders provided the bid does not exceed the maximum feasible price or cost.

4. If there is no qualified Priority #1 bidder, or if there is no qualified Priority #1 bidder with a bid less than or equal to the maximum feasible price or cost, the bids of the Priority #2 businesses shall then be opened and award shall be given to the qualified Priority #2 bidder with the lowest responsive bid provided the bid is less than or equal to the maximum feasible price or cost.

5. If no qualified Priority #1 or Priority #2 bidder is entitled to award, bidding may then be open to all other bidders, subject to the same specifications, qualifications and maximum feasible price or cost.

6. Any modifications of the specifications, qualifications or maximum feasible cost or price made subsequent to bid opening and which does not result in a contract award shall be rebid pursuant to the above procedures.

7. Notwithstanding any provision of this Act, in the event that federal law prohibits bid or procurement opportunity or preference as provided herein or prohibits negotiations with a bidder other than the bidder with the lowest bid or price offer, the initial bidding shall be opened to all Priority #1 and #2 businesses; and award shall be made to the bidder offering the lowest price, provided that the bid is less than or equal to the maximum feasible cost or price.

F. Subcontracting Requirements. Prior to the bid opening, prime contractors shall submit to the Business Regulatory Department a subcontracting plan listing the following:

The prime contractor shall determine the form of performance security. The prime contractor shall maintain guaranteed security and be ultimately liable for performance of subcontractors.

H. Minimum Subcontract and Procurement Percentage Requirements. The Business Regulatory Department, subject to the approval of the Economic Development Committee, shall have the authority to require all procurement entities and prime contractors to comply with current minimum percentages for procurement and subcontract awards to Navajo-owned and controlled entities, firms and organizations, based upon availability and qualifications of such entities to provide specific products and services.

I. Prior Approval of Modifications. Any contract modification that results in a higher cost or price in excess of twenty percent (20%) of the original amount of the contract or if the procuring party substantially modifies such project, activity or transaction, shall be subject to review and approval by the Business Regulatory Department, to ensure that such modifications are not contrary to the purposes, intent or other provisions of other applicable laws.

J. Required Adherence to Priority Certification. Procuring entities shall not award contracts to non-Navajo owned and controlled entities at a price equal to or greater than the price offered by an equally qualified Priority #1 or #2 business.

§ 1107. Private remedies

A. A person likely to be damaged by an unfair or deceptive trade practice or by an unconscionable trade practice of another may be granted an injunction against it under the principles of equity and on terms that the court considers reasonable. Proof of monetary damage, loss of profits or intent to deceive or take unfair advantage of any person, is not required.

B. Any person who suffers any loss of money or property, real or personal, as a result of any employment by another person of a method, act or practice declared unlawful by the Unfair Consumer Practices Act may bring an action to recover actual damages or the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), whichever is greater. Where the trier of fact finds that the party charged with an unfair or deceptive trade practice or an unconscionable trade practice has willfully engaged in the trade practice, the court may award up to three times actual damages or three thousand dollars ($3,000), whichever is greater, to the party complaining of the practice.

C. The court shall award attorneys' fees and costs to the party complaining of an unfair or deceptive trade practice or unconscionable trade practice if he prevails. The court shall award attorneys' fees and costs to the party charged with an unfair or deceptive trade practice or an unconscionable trade practice if it finds that the party complaining of such trade practice brought an action for which there was no subjective good faith basis. Attorneys' fees shall be calculated using the Lodestar method.

D. The relief provided in this Section is in addition to remedies otherwise available against the same conduct under the common law or other statutes of the Navajo Nation.

E. In any class action filed under this Section, the court may award damages to the named plaintiffs as provided in Subsection (B) of this Section and may award members of the class such actual damages as were suffered by each member of the class as a result of the unlawful method, act or practice.

If you do make the goods available to the seller and the seller does not pick them up within twenty (20) days of the date of your notice of cancellation, you may retain or dispose of the goods without any further obligation. 4. Include in any door-to-door contract or receipt any confession of judgment or any waiver of any of the rights to which the buyer is entitled under this Section or 7 N.N.C. § 621, including specifically his right to cancel the sale in accordance with the provisions of this Section;

5. Fail to inform each buyer orally, at the time he signs the contract or purchases the goods or services, of his right to cancel;

6. Misrepresent in any manner the buyer's right to cancel;

8. Negotiate, transfer, sell or assign any notice or other evidence of indebtedness to a finance company or other third party prior to midnight of the fifth business day following the day the contract was signed or the goods or services were purchased; and

9. Fail to notify the buyer, within ten (10) business days of receipt of his notice of cancellation, whether the seller intends to repossess or to abandon any shipped or delivered goods.

B. The cancellation period provided for in this Section shall not begin until the buyer has been informed of his right to cancel and has been provided with copies of the notice of cancellation.

C. For the purposes of this section:

1. "Business day" means any calendar day except Sunday or the following business holidays: New Year's Day, Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday and any other legal public holiday of the Navajo Nation or the United States;

2. "Consumer goods or services" means goods or services other than perishable goods or agricultural products purchased, leased or rented primarily for personal, family or household purposes, including courses of instruction or training, regardless of the purpose for which they are taken;

3. "Door-to-door sale" means a sale, lease or rental of consumer goods or services with a purchase price of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) or more, whether under single or multiple contracts, in which the seller or his representative personally solicits the sale, including those in response to or following an invitation by the buyer, and the buyer's agreement or offer to purchase is made at a place other than the primary place of business of the seller. A door-to-door sale includes seller initiated telephone sales and sales at periodic outdoor markets. A door-to-door sale does not include a transaction:

a. Made pursuant to prior negotiations in the course of a visit by the buyer to a retail business establishment having a fixed permanent location where the goods are exhibited or the services are offered for sale on a continuing basis;

b. In which the consumer is accorded the right of rescission by the provisions of the Consumer Credit Protection Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1635, or regulations issued pursuant thereto;

d. In which the buyer has initiated the contract and specifically requested the seller to visit his home for the purpose of repairing or performing maintenance upon the buyer's personal property. If in the course of such a visit the seller sells the buyer the right to receive additional services or goods other than replacement parts necessarily used in performing the maintenance or in making the repairs, the sale of those additional goods or services would not fall within this exclusion;

e. Pertaining to the sale or rental of real property, to the sale of insurance or to the sale of securities or commodities by a broker-dealer registered with the securities and exchange commission; or

f. In which a consumer acquires the use of goods under the terms of a rental-purchase agreement with an initial rental period of one week or less, by placing a telephone call to a lessor and by requesting that specific goods be delivered to the consumer's residence or such other place as the consumer directs and consummation of the rental-purchase agreement occurs after the goods are delivered; or

g. For the sale of handcrafts, including but not limited to jewelry, weavings, paintings, drawings, or other works of graphic art and ceramics, and food items or herbs and herbal remedies collected, processed or made, in any manner whatsoever, and offered for sale by an enrolled member of the Navajo Nation.

4. "Place of business" means the main or permanent branch office or local address of a seller;

5. "Purchase price" means the total price paid or to be paid for the consumer goods or services, including all interest and service charges; and

6. "Seller" means any person, partnership, corporation or association engaged in the door-to-door sale of consumer goods or services.

The action may be brought in the district court of the district in which the person resides or has his principal place of business or in the district court in the district in which the person is using, has used or is about to use the practice which has been alleged to be unlawful under the Pyramid Promotional Schemes Act. C. “Consumer” means the purchaser, other than for purposes of resale, of a new or used motor vehicle normally used for personal, family or household purposes, any persons to whom such a motor vehicle has been transferred during the duration of an express warranty applicable to the motor vehicle and any other persons entitled by the terms of warranty to enforce the obligations of the warranty;

D. “Express warranty” means any written or oral affirmation of the fact of promise made by a manufacturer to a consumer in connection with the sale or new motor vehicles which relates to the nature of the material or workmanship or to a specified level of performance over a specified period of time, including any terms or conditions precedent to the enforcement of obligations pursuant to the warranty;

§ 1120. Conformation to express warranties for new motor vehicles

A. If a new motor vehicle does not conform to all applicable express warranties and the consumer reports the nonconformity to the manufacturer, its agent or its authorized dealer during the term of such express warranties or during the period of two (2) years following the date of original delivery of the motor vehicle to a consumer, whichever is the earlier date, the manufacturer, its agent or its authorized dealer shall make such repairs as are necessary to conform the vehicle to such express warranties.

B. If the manufacturer or its agent or authorized dealer, after a reasonable number of attempts, is unable to conform the new motor vehicle to any applicable express warranty by repairing or correcting any defect or condition which substantially impairs the use and market value of the motor vehicle to the consumer, the manufacturer shall replace the motor vehicle with a comparable motor vehicle or accept return of the vehicle from the consumer and refund to the consumer the full purchase price including all collateral charges, less a reasonable allowance for the consumer's use of the vehicle. The subtraction of a reasonable allowance for use shall apply when either a replacement or refund of the new motor vehicle occurs. As used in this Subsection, a reasonable allowance for use shall be an amount equal to the number of miles driven by the consumer prior to his first report of the nonconformity to the manufacturer, agent or dealer and during any subsequent period when the vehicle is not out of service by reason of repair multiplied by 30 cents per mile. Refunds shall be made to consumers or lienholders as their interests may appear.

C. It shall be presumed that a reasonable number of attempts as mentioned in Subsection (B) of this Section have been undertaken to conform a new motor vehicle to the applicable express warranties if:

1. The same uncorrected nonconformity has been subject to repair four or more times by the manufacturer or its agents or authorized dealers within the express warranty term or during the period of two (2) years following the date or original delivery of the motor vehicle to a consumer, whichever is the earlier date, but the nonconformity continues to exist; or

2. The vehicle is in the possession of the manufacturer, its agent or authorized dealer for repair a cumulative total of thirty (30) or more business days during such term or during such period whichever is the earlier date, exclusive of down time for routine maintenance as prescribed by the manufacturer. The term of an express warranty, such one-year period and such 30-day period shall be extended by any period of time during which repair services are not available to the consumer because of war, invasion, strike, fire, flood or other natural disaster. In no event shall the presumption herein provided apply against a manufacturer unless the manufacturer has received prior direct written notification from or on behalf of the consumer and an opportunity to cure the defect alleged. The manufacturer shall provide written notice and instruction to the consumer, either in the warranty or a separate notice, of the ligation to file this written notification before invoking the remedies available pursuant to the Motor Vehicle Warranties Compliance Act.

§ 1122. Used motor vehicles; title; implied warranty of merchantability disclaimer; waiver; burden of proof; remedies

A. Unless the seller is a used motor vehicle dealer, before the seller attempts to sell a used motor vehicle the seller shall possess the title to the used motor vehicle and the title shall be in the seller's name.

B. A used motor vehicle dealer shall not exclude, modify or disclaim the implied warranty of merchantability or limit the remedies for a breach of that warrant, except as otherwise provided in this Section, before midnight of the thirtieth calendar day after delivery of a used motor vehicle or until a used motor vehicle is driven fifteen hundred (1500) miles after delivery, whichever is earlier. In calculating time under this Subsection, a day on which the warranty is breached is excluded and all subsequent days in which the motor vehicle fails to conform with the implied warranty of merchantability are also excluded. In calculating distance under this Subsection, the miles driven to obtain or in connection with repair, servicing or testing of the motor vehicle that fails to conform with the implied warranty of merchantability are excluded. An attempt to exclude, modify or disclaim the implied warranty of merchantability or to limit the remedies for a breach of that warranty, except as otherwise provided in this Section, in violation of this Subsection renders a purchase agreement voidable at the option of the purchaser.

C. For the purposes of this Section, the implied warranty of merchantability is met if the motor vehicle functions in a safe condition and is substantially free of any defect that significantly limits the use of the motor vehicle for the ordinary purpose of transportation on any public highway. The implied warranty of merchantability expires at midnight of the thirtieth calendar day after delivery of a used motor vehicle or until a used motor vehicle is driven fifteen hundred (1500) miles after delivery, whichever is earlier. In calculating time under this Subsection, a day on which the warranty is breached is excluded and all subsequent days in which the motor vehicle fails to conform with the implied warranty of merchantability are also excluded. In calculating distance under this Subsection, the miles driven to obtain or in connection with the repair, servicing or testing of the motor vehicle that fails to conform with the implied warranty of merchantability are excluded.

D. The implied warranty of merchantability described in this Section does not extend to damage that occurs after the sale of the motor vehicle and that is the result of any abuse, misuse, neglect, failure to perform regular maintenance or to maintain adequate oil, coolant or other required fluid or lubricant or off road use, racing or towing.

E. If the implied warranty of merchantability described in this Section is breached, the consumer shall give reasonable notice to the seller before the purchaser exercises any remedies. The seller shall have a reasonable opportunity to repair the vehicle and the consumer shall pay one-half of the cost of the first two repairs necessary to bring the vehicle in compliance with the warranty. The consumer's payments are limited to a maximum payment of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for each repair. The seller shall pay the costs of all subsequent repairs.

F. The maximum liability of the seller under this Section is limited to the purchase price paid for the used motor vehicle.

G. An agreement for the sale of a used motor vehicle by a used motor vehicle dealer is voidable at the option of the consumer unless it contains on its face the following conspicuous statement printed in bold-faced ten point or larger type set off from the body of the agreement:

“The seller hereby warrants that this vehicle will be fit for the ordinary purposes for which the vehicle is used for thirty (30) days or one thousand five hundred (1500) miles after delivery, whichever is earlier, except with regard to particular defects disclosed on the first page of this agreement. You (the purchaser) will have to pay up to twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for each of the first two repairs if the warranty is violated.”

H. The inclusion of the statement prescribed in Subsection (G) of this Section in the agreement does not create an express warranty.

I. A consumer of a used motor vehicle may waive the implied warranty of merchantability described in this Section only for a particular defect in the vehicle and only if all of the following conditions are satisfied:

1. The used motor vehicle dealer fully and accurately discloses to the consumer that because of circumstances unusual to the used motor vehicle dealer’s business, the used motor vehicle has a particular defect.

2. The consumer agrees to buy the used motor vehicle after disclosure of the defect.

3. Before the sale, the consumer indicates agreements to the waiver by signing and dating the following conspicuous statement that is printed on the first page of the sales agreement in bold-faced ten point or larger type and that is written in the language in which the presentation was made:

“Attention purchaser: Sign here only if the dealer told you that this vehicle has the following problem(s) and that you agree to buy the vehicle on those terms:

2. _____
3. _____”

J. The dealer has the burden to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the dealer complied with Subsection (I) of this Section.

K. For any breach of the implied warranty of merchantability described in this Section, the consumer may, once the seller has had a reasonable opportunity to repair as described in Subsection (E), bring an action to recover the purchase price paid. The court shall award attorneys’ fees, calculated using the Lodestar method, to a prevailing purchaser.

Subchapter 7. Motor Vehicle Deficiency Charges

§ 1157. Title

This Subchapter may be cited as the Motor Vehicle Consumer Protection Act.

History

CJY-71-99, July 21, 1999.

§ 1158. Purpose

A. The purpose of the Motor Vehicle Consumer Protection Act is to protect buyers of new or used motor vehicles both inside and beyond the territorial boundaries of the Navajo Nation.

B. The Act is designed to help remedy problems faced by buyers when used motor vehicles break down shortly after their purchase, leaving buyers with no recourse against the seller, and when deficiency judgments are issued against buyers that do not fairly reflect the detriment suffered by the seller, but which create enormous and unjust burdens for the buyers.

C. The protections offered by this Act should be effected by limiting the relief offered by Navajo Nation courts to the seller of a motor vehicle if that seller fails to offer the buyer such protections as are detailed herein.

B. “Motor vehicle” means a passenger motor vehicle including an automobile, pickup truck, motorcycle or van normally used for personal, family or household purposes which is legally registered for use on the Navajo Nation, and whose gross vehicular weight is less than ten thousand pounds;

D. “Seller” means any person or entity in the business of selling motor vehicles at the rate of five motor vehicles or more per year in the three hundred sixty-five (365) days preceding an action governed by this Subchapter and who

§ 1160. Limitation on Issuance of Deficiency Judgments for Used Motor Vehicles

A. No court of the Navajo Nation shall have jurisdiction to enter a judgment, or to recognize or enforce a judgment of a foreign court, requiring a defendant to pay a deficiency on a motor vehicles sales contract or a motor vehicle retail installment sales contract, without first having obtained sufficient evidence of the following:

1. That the seller of the used motor vehicle agreed:
 - a. In writing and at the time of sale;
 - b. To accept the return of the used motor vehicle at any time during the duration of a ten (10) day “grace” period beginning the day following the delivery of the vehicle to the buyer, on the basis of any complaint whatsoever regarding the quality, condition, or price of the vehicle, for a full and immediate refund of all monies paid by the buyer; and
 - c. Had the buyer sign an acknowledgment of this agreement; and
 - d. That such acknowledgment form provided sufficient notification of the buyer’s rights under this subchapter; and
 - e. That seller provided a copy of such form to the buyer at the time and place of delivery; and

2. That the buyer failed to return the used motor vehicle within that grace period.

B. In the event the vehicle is returned during the grace period, the seller may charge the buyer a reasonable rate for mileage actually used by the buyer, not to exceed 30 cents (.30) per mile.

C. The grace period does not apply to the sale of new motor vehicles.

D. For the purposes of this Section, it will be insufficient evidence for a seller merely to affirm the offer of the required grace period by statement in pleading, unless such pleadings are accompanied by a copy of the written agreement to such a grace period that bears the buyer's signature of acknowledgment dated at the time of sale.

E. In cases where the buyer's English language skills are sufficiently limited to prevent a thorough understanding of written forms or spoken English instructions, as shown by a preponderance of the evidence, the written agreement to the grace period that bears the buyer's signature of acknowledgment must also be accompanied by a certification that a translator assisted to fully explain the agreement.

F. This protection may not be waived by buyers at any time; any attempt to waive these rights shall be considered a nullity by the court despite evidence of consideration paid for the signing of such waiver.

G. In any claim or action brought by a seller in which the seller claims a deficiency which is not authorized by the terms of this Subchapter, the court shall award attorneys' fees, calculated using the Lodestar method, to a buyer who prevails on a defense that the deficiency was not authorized by this Act.

§ 1161. Limitation on the Amount of Deficiency Judgments for Motor Vehicles

A. A judgment against a buyer ordering the payment of a deficiency on a motor vehicle sales contract or a motor vehicle retail installment sales contract shall be calculated to allow only the recovery of the seller's actual costs and projected profits, and therefore shall be limited to an amount not to exceed the sum of:

1. A percentage, calculated as the current prime lending rate plus two percent (2%), of either the seller's original purchase costs for the motor vehicle, if any, or the manufacturer's suggested retail price, whichever in the court's estimation is a more accurate means of discovering the seller's projected profits from the motor vehicle's sale in a given case; plus

2. The seller's original costs to purchase the motor vehicle, if any, minus any amount paid by the buyer toward the principal to the date of the court's order, minus any amount gained by the seller from the resale of the vehicle at auction subsequent to the vehicle's repossession, for the recoupment of the seller's purchase costs; plus

3. Financing charges due under the contract from the date of sale to the date of the court's order, minus any amount paid by the buyer toward the financing charges to the date of the court's order; plus

4. Reasonable documented repossession costs, if any; plus

5. Reasonable documented attorney's fees, if any.

B. The seller's costs must be established by a preponderance of the evidence; however, statistical evidence of costs will not be a substitute for evidence specific to the complaint.

C. In cases where a motor vehicle retail installment contract has been assigned to a party other than the seller, the assignee shall have the same rights and liabilities as would the seller for purposes of recovery under this Act, and the buyer has the same rights and liabilities against that assignee as they would against the seller.

D. For the purposes of this Section, payments made pursuant to motor vehicle retail installment sales contracts are to be allotted to principal and interest according to the accounting method agreed to by the motor vehicle retail installment sales contract.

§ 1502. History and purposes

A. The Navajo people have excelled in various crafts for hundreds of years, and by the mid-eighteenth century were specially noted for their weaving, baskets and pottery. The Navajo people also learned ironsmithing and later adapted this craft into silversmithing and a wide variety of silver items developed. Today Navajo handwoven rugs, silver jewelry, baskets, pottery, paintings and other crafts are in high demand worldwide.

Over time some Navajo artisans become so adept at their craft that they produced extra crafts for sale as a means to support their family and to augment cattle, horse and sheep sales and other trading activities. As skills and markets developed for these artisans, competing products began appearing in the market and placed the Navajo craftsman in jeopardy.

COMMERCE AND TRADE

Tribal leaders recognized the need to be better represented in the market-place, and in 1941 chartered the Navajo Arts and Crafts Guild to better market Navajo-made product and counter the increasing supply of imitation items. The “Guild” was changed to “Enterprise” in 1971 and exists today as the only Navajo Nation-owned business enterprise engaged in the purchase and sale of Navajo arts and crafts, and through this marketing channel functions as a defense against competing products flooding the market place and eroding the livelihood of the Navajo artisan and craftsman.

B. The purposes of NACE are:

1. To showcase the artistry and crafts of the Navajo Nation and to be represented in the market place;
2. To establish outlets as may be cost effective for the sale of Navajo arts and crafts and related merchandise on or near the Navajo Nation, throughout the United States and around the world;
3. To provide a source of raw materials at a fair price to Navajo artisans for use in the creation of Navajo arts and crafts;
4. To purchase at fair-market rates finished products at a fair price from Navajo artisans and craftspeople, and from such other sources as may be necessary to provide a fully integrated arts and crafts facility; and
5. To promote Navajo arts and crafts in any and all other ways deemed by NACE to be in the best interests of the Navajo Nation.

The Navajo Nation Council of the Navajo Nation hereby finds:

A. That the orderly and honest conduct of gaming activities within the Navajo Nation will be of vital importance to the economy of the Nation, and to the general welfare of its members;

B. That the growth and success of gaming within the Navajo Nation is dependent upon public confidence and trust that such activities are conducted honestly and that they are free from criminal and corrupt elements, and that the facilities in which such activities are conducted are designed and maintained to assure the safety and comfort of patrons of the gaming activities;

C. That such public confidence and trust can only be maintained by the comprehensive regulation of all persons, practices, and activities related to the operation of the Nation's gaming facilities; and

D. All of the Nation's establishments where gaming is conducted, and all persons holding positions of responsibility with respect to any such activity, must therefore be licensed, and their activities monitored to assure that the public health safety and general welfare of the inhabitants of the Nation and the patrons of its gaming facilities are fully protected, and so as to assure the economic success of gaming activities within the Nation.

Subchapter 1. General Corporation Law

§ 3100. Policy and purpose

The Navajo Nation Corporation Code is hereby enacted:

A. The purpose of this Code is to permit the formation of various corporate entities and require registration of foreign corporations; and to regulate such entities so as to promote economic growth and further the exercise of tribal sovereignty in the governance of its territory and citizens.

B. This Code is based upon the American Bar Association's Model Business Corporation Act, the Model Close Corporation Act and the Model Code, and the various agricultural cooperative acts of several states. The interpretation of this Code shall be based on Navajo Nation Court interpretation and such interpretation shall give the utmost respect in deciding the meaning and purpose of this Code to the unique traditions and customs of the Navajo people. General decisional law interpreting similar provisions of the above Model Acts and state agricultural cooperative acts may be used as guidance.

C. Unless otherwise expressly provided by law, the sovereign immunity of the Navajo Nation shall not extend to corporate entities organized under this Code, nor shall such entities be considered a subdivision, entity or enterprise of the Navajo Nation, nor shall the Navajo Nation be liable for the debts or obligations of any kind of such entities.

D. The provisions of this Code shall be fully implemented within one hundred eighty (180) days of the date of its adoption by the Navajo Nation Council; provided however, the issuance of certificates of incorporation shall be issued on the date of adoption. The Division of Economic Development through its Business Regulatory Department shall administer the provisions of this Code. The Division of Economic Development is directed to prepare an appropriate supplemental budget for carrying out its responsibilities under this Code.

existence. Cf. 5 N.N.C. § 3107(A)(10) (requiring explicit agreement by for-profit corporations to abide by Navajo law in articles of incorporation).” Cabinets Southwest, Inc. v. Navajo Nation Labor Commission, No. SC-CV-46-03, slip op. at 7 (Nav. Sup. Ct. February 11, 2004).

§ 3116. Liability of subscribers and shareholders

A. A holder or a subscriber to shares of a corporation shall be under no obligation to the corporation or its creditors with respect to such shares other than the obligation to pay to the corporation the full consideration for which said shares were issued or to be issued, which, as to shares having a par value, shall be not less than the par value thereof, except as set forth in Subsection (C) below. B. No person holding shares as executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee for the benefit of creditors, or receiver shall be personally liable as a shareholder, but the shareholder estate and funds in the hands of said executor, administrator, conservator, guardian, trustee, assignee, or receiver shall be so liable. 3. Thin-capitalization;
4. Ultra-hazardous activities;
5. Violation of applicable consumer protection laws;
6. Criminal wrong-doing;
7. Failure to maintain a reasonable amount of liability insurance coverage for the acts or omissions of its directors, officers, employees or agents; or
8. Failure to comply with any provision of this Code.

D. No right to contribution shall exist between the shareholders and no liability under this Section shall be asserted more than one (1) year from the later of the time a creditor's claim in tort or contract accrued or the date such claim should have been discovered.

§ 3122. Dividends declaration and payment on outstanding shares; restrictions on payment on dividends

The board of directors of a corporation may declare and the corporation may pay dividends on its outstanding shares in cash, property, or its own shares, subject to the following provisions:

A. No dividend shall be declared or paid at a time when the corporation is insolvent or its net assets are less than its stated capital, or when payments thereof would render the corporation insolvent or reduce its net assets below its stated capital;

B. Dividends may be paid out of earned surplus or surplus arising from the surrender to the corporation of any of its shares, provided that the source of such dividends shall be disclosed to the shareholders receiving such dividends, concurrently with payment thereof. The limitations of this para-

§ 3205. Managers

A. All managers shall be natural persons. It is the purpose of this Chapter that the corporation be operated on a day-to-day basis by one manager, by managers having divided functions or by assistant managers who can serve either as alternates to the manager or assume some portion of managerial responsibility. As among the corporation, its investors, and any manager, there shall be no limitations on the authority of a manager unless specifically limited by provisions of the articles of incorporation, the written employment contract of such manager, or the records of the corporation evidencing the acts of the investors. Any person other than manager or investor who deals in good faith with the corporation will not be subject to any limitation on the authority of any

B. No manager may delegate any of his/her authority to any other agent, employee or representative of a corporation unless authority to do so is contained in the articles of incorporation or is granted by act of the investors.

C. Any manager shall have the same rights, duties, obligations and privileges as a person who is both a director and officer of a corporation for profit under the provisions of Subchapter 1, except as specifically modified in this Chapter.

D. Any manager may be replaced or succeeded by a new manager at any time by a majority of the votes of the investors, unless otherwise provide by the articles of incorporation. § 3412. Stock-membership certificates

A. When a member of an association established without capital stock, has paid his/her membership fee in full, he/she shall receive a certificate of membership. No association shall issue stock to a member until it has been fully paid for. The promissory notes of the members may be accepted by the association as full or partial payment. The association shall hold the stock as security for the payment of the notice, but such retention as security shall not affect the members' right to vote.

B. Except for debts lawfully contracted between him/her and the association, no member shall be liable for the debts of the association to an amount exceeding the sum remaining unpaid on his/her membership, fee or his/her subscription to the capital stock, including any unpaid balance on any promissory notes given in payment thereof.

C. No stockholder or a cooperative association shall own more than one-fifth of the issued common stock of the association; and an association, in its bylaws, may limit the amount of common stock which one member may own to any amount less than one-fifth of the issued common stock.

D. No member or stockholder shall be entitled to more than one vote.

E. Any association organized with stock under this Subchapter may issue preferred stock, with or without the right to vote. Such stock may be redeemable or retrievable by the association on such terms and conditions as may be provided for by the articles of incorporation and printed on the face of the certificate.

F. The bylaws shall prohibit the transfer of the common stock of the association to persons not engaged in the production of the agricultural products handled by the association, and such restrictions must be printed upon every certificate of stock subject thereto.

G. The association may at any time, except when the debts of the association exceed fifty percent (50%) of the assets thereof, buy in or purchase its common stock at book value thereof as conclusively determined by the board of directors and pay for it in cash within one (1) year thereafter.

Note. The numbering of Navajo Uniform Commercial Code sections remains as close to the original Uniform Commercial Code as possible to maintain the principle of uniformity.

Description of Articles

Article 1

Article 1 of the UCC is a general article which defines terms which are used throughout the UCC. (This section of the Navajo UCC has been substantially unchanged with the exception of the addition of § 1-110 which excludes certain types of barter transactions from the Navajo UCC.)

Article 2

Article 2 of the UCC governs the sale of personal property (“goods”). Goods means all things which are moveable at the time of their identification in the contract of sale. Goods do not include: (i) intangibles, such as patent rights; (ii) real property, such as houses and land; or (iii) services such as legal or accounting work.

Article 2 codifies contract law as applied to the sales of personal property. It deals with the four basic questions of contract law: (1) Is there sufficient agreement to be a contract?; (2) What are the terms of the contract?; (3) Have the parties properly performed their duties under the contract?; and (4) What are the remedies for breach of those duties? Although Article 2 establishes some rules which apply to all sales contracts, for the most part the rules in Articles 2 apply only where the parties themselves have not made their intentions clear. For example, one rule which applies to all contracts under Article 2 is that contracts for goods valued at more than five hundred dollars ($500.00) must be in writing to be enforceable (the Navajo UCC exempts certain barter transactions from this requirement under § 1-110).

Article 2 governs the formation of the contract, such as when an offer to sell or purchase has been made, how to change such an offer and how to accept it.

NAVAJO UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE

For example, if a business makes an offer by mail to sell shoes and does not specify how the offer can be accepted, the offer can be accepted by any “reasonable means”. Thus, the offer could be accepted by mail, telegram or even a telephone call if those methods were found to be reasonable.

Article 2 governs certain of the terms in a contract if the parties have not agreed on that term or have failed to provide for a situation. These terms include price, time of delivery, the point at which the risk of loss passes, warranties concerning the goods and remedies for failure to perform. For example, if the parties fail to agree upon or forget to include the place and time of delivery for the goods, the UCC states that the goods will be delivered at the seller’s place of business and the time allowed for delivery will be “a reasonable time” as determined by prior dealings between the parties and industry custom.

Article 2 also governs the performance of the obligations under the contract. The questions which arise in this area concern the seller’s obligation to deliver “conforming” goods, the buyer’s obligation to accept “conforming” goods, the buyer’s right to inspect the goods and the buyer’s obligation to pay for the goods. For example, unless the parties agree otherwise, the buyer is obligated to pay for the goods at the time and place the goods are received.

Finally, Article 2 sets out the remedies for either party upon the failure of the other party to adequately perform its obligations. The remedies must deal with situations, for the seller, in which the buyer refuses to accept delivery, cancels the order, refuses to pay or becomes insolvent. For the buyer, these situations include those in which the seller has failed to deliver, has delivered “non-conforming” goods, or has delivered goods which causes an injury. For example, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, if during the course of several shipments the buyer refuses to make a payment when due: (i) the seller may withhold future delivery; (ii) may resell the remaining goods and sue to recover damages; or (iii) may sue to recover the full purchase price.

Article 3 of the UCC deals with negotiable instruments, which include drafts, business and personal checks, certificates of deposits and promissory notes. Article 3 does not apply to money, documents of title or investment securities such as stocks and bonds. Commercial paper is frequently used as a cash substitute. Thus, a check could be used as a medium of payment instead of cash or a note may be used as a deferred methods of payment.

Article 3 sets out the obligations and liabilities of the persons who issue negotiable instruments and those who are involved in their transfer. In the case of a check, they would include the person who writes the check, his bank, the banks who process the check, the bank which finally accepts the check and the person or company to whom the check is written. The type of situations for which Article 3 sets out rules include those in which the check is drawn on insufficient funds or the signature is forged.

Article 9 of the UCC governs the creation and enforcement of security interests. A security interest is an interest of a creditor in specific property (“collateral”) owned by a debtor. A security interest permits the secured creditor after default to sell particular collateral and to apply the proceeds of its sales to the payment of his secured debt. In contrast to a secured creditor, an “unsecured” creditor (i.e., a creditor without a security interest) has only general rights against the property of the debtor after the secured creditors have been paid, and an unsecured creditor has no rights against any particular property of a debtor. The most common examples of a security interest arise from the purchase of a vehicle such as a car or tractor by an individual. However, security interests are very important for business in financing the acquisition of capital equipment, such as machines, as well as the purchasing of inventory and selling goods on credit.

Article 9 facilitates the purchase of goods by improving the chances of a creditor’s being repaid and thus encouraging him to sell goods on credit or, in the case of a bank, to lend money. It represents a comprehensive scheme of regulation of security interests in personal property. Article 9 does not regulate transactions in land or improvements. The Article establishes a central filing system so that creditors can determine the extent of the obligations of a debtor to other creditors and establishes procedures for a creditor to enforce a security interest in the case of a debtor’s failure to pay. (The enactment of this article does not affect Navajo repossession law.)

A large part of Article 9 is concerned with establishing the priority of secured parties against each other or other creditors of the debtor. For example, if two creditors are depending on the same “collateral” of the debtor to “secure” their loans, then, generally, the first creditor to “file” a notice of his interest will have the right to have his loan repaid first from the sale of the collateral. However, Article 9 establishes special priority rules for secured parties who loan the money to “purchase” the collateral. This rule encourages the purchase of capital equipment by giving priority protection to loans or credit extended for the initial purchase of goods.

Official Comment

Changes. The Code makes no substantive change to this section except deleting references to Articles not adopted by the Navajo Nation. Commentary. Each Article of the Code (except this article) may also be cited by its own short title. See §§ 2-101, 3-101 and 9-101.

Special Plain Language Comment

This provision provides a method of naming parts of the Navajo Uniform Commercial Code (the "Code").

§ 1-102. Purposes; rules of construction; variation by agreement

A. The Code shall be liberally construed and applied to promote its underlying purposes and policies.

B. Underlying purposes and policies of the Code are:

1. To simplify, clarify and modernize the law governing commercial transactions;
2. To permit the continued expansion of commercial practices through custom, usage and agreement of the parties; and
3. To make uniform the law of commercial transactions throughout the Navajo Nation.

C. The effect of provisions of this Code may be varied by agreement, except as otherwise provided in this Code and except that the obligations of good faith, diligence, reasonableness and care prescribed by this Code may not be disclaimed by agreement, but the parties may by agreement determine the standards by which the performance of such obligations is to be measured if such standards are not manifestly unreasonable.

D. The presence in certain provisions of this Code of the words “unless otherwise agreed” or words of similar import does not imply that the effect of other provisions may not be varied by agreement under subsection (C).

E. In this Code unless the context otherwise requires:

1. Words in the singular number include the plural, and in the plural include the singular; and
2. Words of the masculine gender include the feminine and the neuter, and when the sense so indicates words of the neuter gender may refer to any gender.

F. The “Official Comments” and the “Special Plain Language Comments” are informational only and not binding on the courts, since they do not purport to be comprehensive statements of the meaning and effect of the statute to which they refer.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. The Code adds a new section, “Special Plain Language Comments”, to facilitate use of the Code, but new subsection (F) makes clear that such comments and the Official Comments are not the law.

Commentary. 1. Subsections (A) and (B) are intended to make it clear that:

This Code is drawn to provide flexibility so that, since it is intended to be a semi-permanent piece of legislation, it will provide its own machinery for expansion of commercial practices. It is intended to make it possible for the law embodied in this Code to be developed by the courts in the light of unforeseen and new circumstances and practices. However, the proper construction of the Code requires that its interpretation and application be limited to its reason.

The Code should be construed in accordance with its underlying purposes and policies. The text of each section should be read in the light of the purpose and policy of the rule or principle in question, as well as of the Code as a whole, and the application of the language should be construed narrowly or broadly, as the case may be, in conformity with the purposes and policies involved.

2. Subsection (C) states affirmatively at the outset that freedom of contract is a principle of the Code: “the effect” of its provisions may be varied by “agreement”. The meaning of the statute itself must be found in its text, including its definitions, and in appropriate extrinsic aids; it cannot be varied by agreement. But the Code seeks to avoid the type of interference with evolutionary growth found in Manhattan Co. v. Morgan, 242 N.Y. 38, 150 N.E. 594 (1926). Thus, private parties cannot make an instrument negotiable within the meaning of Article 3 except as provided in § 3-104; nor can they change the meaning of such terms as “bona fide purchaser”, “holder in due course”, or “due negotiation”, as used in this Code. But an agreement can change the legal consequences which would otherwise flow from the provisions of the Code. “Agreement” here includes the effect given to course of dealing, usage of trade and course of performance by §§ 1-201, 1-205 and 2-208; the effect of an agreement on the rights of third parties is left to specific provisions of this Code and to supplementary principles applicable under the next section. The rights of third parties under § 9-301 when a security interest is unperfected, for example, cannot be destroyed by a clause in the security agreement.

This principle of freedom of contract is subject to specific exceptions found elsewhere in the Code and to the general exception stated here. The specific exceptions vary in explicitness: the Statute of Frauds found in § 2-201, for example, does not explicitly include oral waiver of the requirement of a writing, but a fair reading denies enforcement to such a waiver as part of the “contract” made unenforceable; § 9-501 (C), on the other hand, is quite explicit. Under the exception for “the obligations of good faith, diligence, reasonableness and care prescribed by this Code”, provisions of the Code prescribing such obligations are not to be disclaimed. However, the section also recognizes the prevailing practice of having agreements set forth standards by which due diligence is measured and explicitly provides that, in the absence of a showing that the standards manifestly are unreasonable, the agreement controls. In this connection, § 1-205 incorporating into the agreement prior course of dealing and usages of trade is of particular importance.

3. Subsection (D) is intended to make it clear that, as a matter of drafting, words such as “unless otherwise agreed” have been used to avoid controversy as to whether the subject matter of a particular Section does or does not fall within the exceptions to subsection (C), but absence of such words contains no negative implications since under subsection (C) the general and residual rule is that the effect of all provisions of the Code may be varied by agreement, subject to the prior comments.

4. Subsection (F) is intended to clarify the status of the “Special Plain Language Comments”. These comments are only to assist the lay reader and are not to be used by parties to interpret the Code. The Official Comments have been adapted from the “Official Comments” of the Commissioners On Uniform State Laws to the corresponding sections of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the States. The Official Comments to this Code do not attempt to describe the respects in which they depart from those other “Official Comments”.

Special Plain Language Comment

This section describes the basic principles of the Code and how it relates to other laws. The section also describes generally the extent to which the Code may be varied by agreement by the parties to a contract.

Unless displaced by the particular provisions of this Code or other applicable Navajo law, the principles of law and equity, including the law merchant and the law relative to capacity to contract, principal and agent, estoppel, fraud, misrepresentation, duress, coercion, mistake, bankruptcy or other validating or invalidating cause shall supplement its provisions. The adoption of the Code does not preempt the consumer protection laws of the states which continue to apply to appropriate transactions pursuant to 7 N.N.C. § 204 to the extent that such laws would be applicable.

History

Official Comment

Changes. Except as stated in this paragraph, this section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-103 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states. In addition, since the Uniform Sales Code was never adopted by the Navajo Nation, the Navajo Nation has adopted certain statutory provisions regarding capacity to contract. The final sentence has been added to clarify the status of consumer protection laws after the adoption of the Code.

Commentary. 1. This section indicates the continued applicability to commercial contracts of all supplemental bodies of law except insofar as they are explicitly displaced by this Code.

2. The general law of capacity will be limited by any Navajo statute or ordinance which limits the capacity of a non-complying person to sue. These limits are equally applicable to contracts of sale to which such person is a party.

3. The listing given in this section is merely illustrative; no listing could be exhaustive. Nor is the fact that in some sections particular circumstances have led to express reference to other fields of law intended at any time to suggest the negation of the general application of the principles of this section.

4. Except as provided in § 1-110, the Code does not preempt the consumer protection laws of the states which apply to a transaction pursuant to 7 N.N.C § 204. However, the application of such state laws to transactions governed by this Code may be varied or preempted by subsequent Navajo legislation.

Special Plain Language Comment

The Code does not settle all questions in commercial law. A person or a court must depend on other bodies of law to aid in the interpretation of its provisions.

§ 1-104. Construction against implicit repeal

This Code being a general act intended as a unified coverage of its subject matter, no part of it shall be deemed to be impliedly repealed by subsequent legislation if such construction can reasonably be avoided.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-104 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states.

Commentary. This section is intended to express the policy that no Code which bears evidence of carefully considered permanent regulative intention should lightly be regarded as impliedly repealed by subsequent legislation. This Code, carefully integrated and intended as a uniform codification of permanent character covering an entire "field" of law, is to be regarded as particularly resistant to implied repeal.

Special Plain Language Comment

§ 1-105. Territorial application of the Code: parties' power to choose applicable law

A. Except as provided hereafter in this section, when a transaction bears a reasonable relation to the Navajo Nation and also to another state or nation, the parties may agree that the law either of the Navajo Nation or of such state or nation shall govern their rights and duties. Failing such agreement, this Code applies to transactions bearing an appropriate relation to the Navajo Nation.

B. Where one of the following provisions of this Code specifies the applicable law, that provision governs and a contrary agreement is effective only to the extent permitted by the law (including the conflict of laws rules) so specified: Rights of creditors against sold goods. Section 2-402. Perfection provisions of the Article on Secured Transactions. Section 9-103.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-105 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states, except that deletions were made to conform the Code to the legal status of the Navajo Nation.

Commentary. 1. Subsection (A) states affirmatively the right of the parties to a multi-jurisdiction transaction or a transaction involving foreign trade to choose their own law. That right is subject to the firm rules stated in the sections listed in subsection (B), and is limited to jurisdictions to which the transaction bears a "reasonable relation". In general, the test of "reasonable relation" is similar to that laid down by the Supreme Court in Seeman v. Philadelphia Warehouse Co., 274 U.S. 403, 47 S.Ct. 626, 71 L.Ed. 1123 (1927). Ordinarily, the law chosen must be that of a jurisdiction where a significant enough portion of the making or performance of the contract is to occur or occurs. But an agreement as to choice of law may sometimes take effect as a short-hand expression of the intent of the parties as to matters governed by their agreement, even though the transaction has no significant contact with the jurisdiction chosen.

2. Where there is no agreement as to the governing law, the Code is applicable to any transaction having an "appropriate" relation to the Navajo Nation. Of course, the Code applies to any transaction which takes place in its entirety in the Navajo Nation. But the mere fact that suit is brought in the Navajo Nation does not make it appropriate to apply the substantive law of the Navajo Nation. Cases where a relation to the Navajo Nation is not "appropriate" include, for example, those where the parties have clearly contracted on the basis of some other law, as where the law of the place of contracting and the law of the place of contemplated performance are the same and are contrary to the law under the Code.

3. Where a transaction has significant contacts with the Navajo Nation and also with other jurisdictions, the question what relation is "appropriate" is left to judicial decision. In deciding that question, the court is not strictly bound by precedents established in other contexts. Thus, a conflict-of-laws decision refusing to apply a purely local statute or rule of law to a particular multi-jurisdiction transaction may not be valid precedent for refusal to apply the Code in an analogous situation. Application of the Code in such circumstances may be justified by its comprehensiveness, by the policy of uniformity, and by the fact that it is in large part a reformulation and restatement of the law merchant and of the understanding of a business community which transcends Navajo Nation, state and even national boundaries. (Compare Global Commerce Corp. v. Clark-Babbitt Industries, Inc., 239 F.2d 716, 719 (2d Cir. 1956).) In particular, where a transaction is governed in large part by the Code, application of another law to some detail of performance because of an accident of geography may violate the commercial understanding of the parties.

4. Choice of law decisions often appropriately rest on policies of giving effect to agreements and of uniformity of result, regardless of where suit is brought. To the extent that such policies prevail, the relevant considerations are similar in such a court to those outlined above.

5. Subsection (B) spells out essential limitations on the parties' right to choose the applicable law. Especially in Article 9, parties taking a security interest or asked to extend credit which may be subject to a security interest must have sure ways to find out whether and where to file and where to look for possible existing filing.

6. Section 9-103 should be consulted as to the rules for perfection of security interests and the effects of perfection and non-perfection.

Special Plain Language Comment

Persons who make a commercial agreement may choose the law of either the Navajo Nation or another state or nation if their agreement has sufficient connection to the place they choose.

Where the parties do not choose which law to use, the Code will apply if the transaction has enough contacts with the Navajo Nation.

§ 1-106. Remedies to be liberally administered

A. The remedies provided by this Code shall be liberally administered to the end that the aggrieved party may be put in as good a position as if the other party had fully performed, but neither consequential nor special nor penal damages may be had except as specifically provided in this Code or by other rule of law.

B. Any right or obligation declared by this Code is enforceable by action unless the provision declaring it specifies a different and limited effect.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Commentary. Subsection (A) is intended to effect three things:

1. First, to negate the unduly narrow or technical interpretation of some remedial provisions of prior commercial statutes in other States by providing that the remedies in this Code are to be liberally administered to the end stated in the section. Second, to make it clear that compensatory damages are limited to compensation. They do not include consequential or special damages, or penal damages; and the Code elsewhere makes it clear that damages must be minimized. Cf. §§ 1-203, 2-706(A), and 2-217(B). The third purpose of subsection (A) is to reject any doctrine that damages must be calculable with mathematical accuracy. Compensatory damages are often at best approximate: they have to be proved with whatever definiteness and accuracy the facts permit, but no more. Cf. § 2-204(C).

2. Under subsection (B) any right or obligation described in this Code is enforceable by court action, even though no remedy may be expressly provided, unless a particular provision specifies a different and limited effect. Whether specific performance or other equitable relief is available is determined not by this section but by specific provisions and by supplementary principles. Cf. §§ 1-103, 2-716.

3. “Consequential” or “special” damages and “penal” damages are not defined terms in the Code, but are used in the sense given them by the leading cases on the subject.

Special Plain Language Comment

Remedies for breaking an agreement or failing to perform a promise under the Code should be applied in a way which puts both parties, as much as possible, in the same position as they would have been if the agreement had not been breached. The Code also limits the ability to recover damages greater than the loss.

History

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-107 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states.

Commentary. This section makes consideration unnecessary to the effective renunciation or waiver of rights or claims arising out of an alleged breach of a commercial contract where such renunciation is in writing and signed and delivered by the aggrieved party. Its provisions, however, must be read in conjunction with the section imposing an obligation of good faith (§ 1-203). There may, of course, also be an oral renunciation or waiver sustained by consideration but subject to Statute of Frauds provisions and to the section of Article 2 on Sales dealing with the modification of signed writings (§ 2-209). As is made express in the latter Section, this Code fully recognizes the effectiveness of waiver and estoppel.

Such transactions shall be governed by the customs and usages of the Navajo Nation.

Official Comment

Changes. This section does not appear in the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states. It has been added in order to prevent the Code from interfering in the types of transactions found in the traditional Navajo economy. This section preempts state law, including state consumer protection statutes, for these transactions which will be governed solely by the customs and usages of the Navajo Nation. See § 1-103, Comment 4.

Part 2. General Definitions and Principles of Interpretation§ 1-201. General definitions

Subject to additional definitions contained in the subsequent Articles of this Code which are applicable to specific Articles or Parts thereof, and unless the context otherwise requires, in this Code:

A. "Action" in the sense of a judicial proceeding including recoupment, counterclaim, set-off, suit in equity and any other proceedings in which rights are determined.

B. "Aggrieved party" means a party entitled to resort to a remedy.

C. "Agreement" means the bargain of the parties in fact as found in their language or by implication from other circumstances including course of dealing or usage of trade or course of performance as provided in this Code (§§ 1-205 and 2-208). Whether an agreement has legal consequences is determined by the provisions of this Code, if applicable; otherwise by the law of contracts (§ 1-103). (Compare "Contract".)

D. "Bank" means any person engaged in the business of banking.

E. "Barter" means to exchange goods without exchanging money.

F. "Bearer" means the person in possession of an instrument, document of title, or certificated security payable to bearer or indorsed in blank.

G. "Bill of lading" means a document evidencing the receipt of goods for shipment issued by a person engaged in the business of transporting or forwarding goods, and includes an airbill. "Airbill" means a document serving for air transportation as a bill of lading does for marine or rail transportation, and includes an air consignment note or air way bill.

H. "Branch" includes a separately incorporated foreign branch of a bank.

I. "Burden of establishing" a fact means the burden of persuading the triers of fact that the existence of the fact is more probable than its non-existence.

J. "Buyer in ordinary course of business" means a person who in good faith and without knowledge that the sale to him is in violation of the ownership rights or security interest of a third party in the goods, buys in ordinary course from a person in the business of selling goods of that kind, but does not include a pawnbroker. All persons who sell minerals or the like (including oil and gas) at wellhead or minehead shall be deemed to be persons in the business of selling goods of that kind. "Buying" may be for cash or by exchange of other property or on secured or unsecured credit and includes receiving goods or documents of title under a pre-existing contract for sale, but does not include a transfer in bulk or as security for, or in total or partial satisfaction of a money debt.

K. "Conspicuous": A term or clause is conspicuous when it is so written that a reasonable person against whom it is to operate ought to have noticed it. A printed heading in capitals (as: NON-NEGOTIABLE BILL OF LADING) is conspicuous. Language in the body of a form is "conspicuous" if it is in larger or other contrasting type or color. But in a telegram any stated term is "conspicuous". Whether a term or clause is "conspicuous" or not is for decision by the court.

L. "Contract" means the total legal obligation which results from the parties' agreement as affected by this Code and any other applicable rules of law. (Compare "Agreement".)

M. "Creditor" includes a general creditor, a secured creditor, a lien creditor and any representative of creditors, including an assignee for the benefit of creditors, a trustee in bankruptcy, a receiver in equity and an executor or administrator of an insolvent debtor's or assignor's estate.

N. "Defendant" includes a person in the position of defendant in a cross-action or counterclaim.

O. "Delivery" with respect to instruments, documents of title, chattel paper, or certificated securities means voluntary transfer of possession.

P. "Document of title" includes bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt or order for the delivery of goods, and also any other document which in the regular course of business or financing is treated as adequately evidencing that the person in possession of it is entitled to receive, hold and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. To be a document of title a document must purport to be issued by or addressed to a bailee and purport to cover goods in the bailee's possession which are either identified or are fungible portions of an identified mass.

Q. "Fault" means wrongful act, omission or breach.

R. "Fungible" with respect to goods or securities means goods or securities of which any unit is, by nature or usage of trade, the equivalent of any other like unit. Goods which are not fungible shall be deemed fungible for the purposes of this Code to the extent that under a particular agreement or document unlike units are treated as equivalents.

S. "Genuine" means free of forgery or counterfeiting.

T. "Good faith" means honesty in fact in the conduct or transaction concerned.

U. "Holder" means a person who is in possession of a document of title or an instrument or a certificated investment security drawn, issued, or indorsed to him or his order or to bearer or in blank.

V. To "honor" is to pay or to accept and pay, or where a credit so engages to purchase or discount a draft complying with the terms of the credit.

W. "Insolvency proceedings" includes any assignment for the benefit of creditors or other proceedings intended to liquidate or rehabilitate the estate of the person involved.

X. A person is "insolvent" who either has ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business or cannot pay his debts as they become due or is insolvent within the meaning of the federal bankruptcy law.

Y. "Money" means a medium of exchange authorized or adopted by a domestic or foreign government as a part of its currency.

Z. "Navajo Indian Country" means the territory defined in 7 N.N.C. § 254. Certain communities within the exterior boundaries of "Navajo Indian Country" are excepted from the definition of "Navajo Indian Country" if they are predominantly non-Indian in character. 7 N.N.C. § 254(D).

AA. A person has "notice" of a fact when:

1. He has actual knowledge of it; or
2. He has received a notice or notification of it; or
3. From all the facts and circumstances known to him at the time in question he has reason to know that it exists.

A person "knows" or has "knowledge" of a fact when he has actual knowledge of it. "Discover" or "learn" or a word or phrase of similar import refers to knowledge rather than to reason to know. The time and circumstances under which a notice or notification may cease to be effective are not determined by this Code.

BB. A person "notifies" or "gives" a notice or notification to another by taking such steps as may be reasonably required to inform the other in ordinary course whether or not such other actually comes to know of it. A person “receives” a notice or notification when:

1. It comes to his attention; or
2. It is duly delivered at the place of business through which the contract was made or at any other place held out by him as the place for receipt of such communications.

CC. Notice, knowledge or a notice of notification received by an organization is effective for a particular transaction from the time when it is brought to the attention of the individual conducting that transaction, and in any event from the time when it would have been brought to his attention if the organization had exercised due diligence. An organization exercises due diligence if it maintains reasonable routines for communicating significant information to the person conducting the transaction and there is reasonable compliance with the routines. Due diligence does not require an individual acting for the organization to communicate information unless he has reason to know of the transaction and that the transaction would be materially affected by the information.

DD. “Organization” includes a corporation, government or governmental subdivision, agency or tribal enterprise, business trust, estate, trust, partnership or association, two or more persons having a joint or common interest, or any other legal or commercial entity.

EE. “Party”, as distinct from “third party”, means a person who has engaged in a transaction or made an agreement within this Code.

FF. “Person” includes an individual or an organization (see § 1-102).

GG. “Presumption” or “presumed” means that the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact presumed unless and until evidence is introduced which would support a finding of its non-existence.

HH. “Purchase” includes taking by sale, barter, discount, negotiation, mortgage, pledge, lien, issue or re-issue, gift or any other voluntary transaction creating an interest in property.

II. “Purchaser” means a person who takes by purchase.

JJ. “Remedy” means any remedial right to which an aggrieved party is entitled with or without resort to a tribunal.

KK. “Representative” includes an agent, an officer of a corporation or association, and a trustee, executor or administrator of an estate, or any other person empowered to act for another.

LL. “Rights” includes remedies.

MM. “Security interest” means an interest in personal property or fixtures which secures payment or performance of an obligation. The retention or reservation of title by a seller of goods notwithstanding shipment or delivery to the buyer (§ 2-401) is limited in effect to a reservation of a “security interest”. The term also includes any interest of a buyer of accounts or chattel paper which is subject to Article 9. The special property interest of a buyer of goods on identification of such goods to a contract for sale under § 2-401 is not a “security interest”, but a buyer may also acquire a “security interest” by complying with Article 9. Unless a lease or consignment is intended as security, reservation of title thereunder is not a “security interest” but a consignment is in any event subject to the provisions on consignment sales (§ 2-326). Whether a lease is intended as security is to be determined by the facts of each case; however, (1) the inclusion of an option to purchase does not of itself make the lease one intended for security, and (2) an agreement that upon compliance with the terms of the lease the lessee shall become or has the option to become the owner of the property for no additional consideration or for a nominal consideration does make the lease one intended for security.

NN. “Send” in connection with any writing or notice means to deposit in the mail or deliver for transmission by any other usual means of communication with postage or cost of transmission provided for and properly addressed and in the case of an instrument to an address specified thereon or otherwise agreed, or if there be none to any address reasonable under the circumstances. The receipt of any writing or notice within the time at which it would have arrived if properly sent has the effect of a proper sending.

OO. “Signed” includes any symbol executed or adopted by a party with present intention to authenticate a writing.

PP. “Surety” includes guarantor.

QQ. “Telegram” includes a message transmitted by radio, teletype, cable, any mechanical method of transmission, or the like.

RR. “Term” means that portion of an agreement which relates to a particular matter.

SS. “Unauthorized” signature or indorsement means one made without actual, implied or apparent authority and includes forgery.

TT. “Value”. Except as otherwise provided with respect to negotiable instruments (§ 3-303), a person gives “value” for rights if he acquires them:

1. In return for a binding commitment to extend credit or for the extension of immediately available credit whether or not drawn upon and whether or not a charge-back is provided for in the event of difficulties in collection; or
2. As security for or in total or partial satisfaction of a pre-existing claim; or
3. By accepting delivery pursuant to a pre-existing contract for purchase; or
4. Generally, in return for any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract.

UU. “Warehouse receipt” means a receipt issued by a person engaged in the business of storing goods for hire.

VV. “Written” or “writing” includes printing, typewriting or any other intentional reduction to tangible form.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. Except as stated in this paragraph, this section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-201 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states. The phrase "tribal enterprise" has been added to the definition of "Organization". The word "barter" has been added to the definition of "Purchase". The definitions of the words "Barter" and "Navajo Indian Country" have been added.

Commentary. A-B. [Omitted]

C. "Agreement". As used in this Code the word is intended to include full recognition of usage of trade, course of dealing, course of performance and the surrounding circumstances as effective parts thereof, and of any agreement permitted under the provisions of the Code to displace a stated rule of law.

D-I. [Omitted]

J. "Buyer in ordinary course of business". The definition clarifies the type of person protected. Its major significance lies in § 2-403 and in the Articles on Secured Transactions (Article 9).

The reference to minerals and the like makes clear that a buyer in ordinary course buying minerals under the circumstances described takes free of a prior mortgage created by the sellers. See Comment to § 9-103.

A pawnbroker cannot be a buyer in ordinary course of business because the person from whom he buys goods (or acquires ownership after foreclosing an initial pledge) is typically an ordinary user and not a person engaged in selling goods of that kind.

K. "Conspicuous". This is intended to indicate some of the methods of making a term attention-calling. But the test is whether attention can reasonably be expected to be called to it.

L-N. [Omitted]

O. "Delivery" refers to physical possession.

P. "Document of title". By making it explicit that the obligation of designation of a third party as "bailee" is essential to a document of title, this definition clearly rejects any such result which treats a conditional sales contract as a document of title. Also the definition is left open so that new types of documents may be included. It is unforeseeable what documents may one (1) day serve the essential purpose now filled by warehouse receipts and bills of lading. Truck transport has already opened up problems which do not fit the patterns of practice resting upon the assumption that a draft can move through banking channels faster than the goods themselves can reach their destination. There lie ahead air transport and such probabilities as teletype transmission of what may some day be regarded commercially as "Documents of Title". The definition is stated in terms of the function of the documents with the intention that any document which gains commercial recognition as accomplishing the desired result shall be included within its scope. Fungible goods are adequately identified within the language of the definition by identification of the mass of which they are a part.

The goods must be "described", but the description may be by marks or labels and may be qualified in such a way as to disclaim personal knowledge of the issuer regarding contents or condition. However, baggage and parcel checks and similar "tokens" of storage which identify stored goods only as those received in exchange for the token are not covered by this article.

The definition is broad enough to include an airway bill.

Q. [Omitted]

R. "Fungible". Fungibility of goods "by agreement" has been added for clarity and accuracy.

S. [Omitted]

T. "Good faith". "Good faith", whenever it is used in the Code, means at least what is here stated. In certain Articles, by specific provision, additional requirements are made applicable. See, e.g., § 2-103(A)(2). To illustrate, in the Article on Sales, § 2-103, good faith is expressly defined as including in the case of a merchant observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing in the trade, so that throughout that Article wherever a merchant appears in the case an inquiry into his observance of such standards is necessary to determine his good faith.

U-W. [Omitted]

X. "Insolvent". The three tests of insolvency—"ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business", "cannot pay his debts as they become due", and "insolvent within the meaning of the federal bankruptcy law"—are expressly set up as alternative tests and must be approached from a commercial standpoint.

Y. "Money". The test adopted is that of sanction of government, whether by authorization before issue or adoption afterward, which recognizes the circulating medium as a part of the official currency of that government. The narrow view that money is limited to legal tender is rejected.

Z. "Navajo Indian Country". This definition was added to clarify the scope of the Code.

AA. "Notice". Under the definition a person has notice when he has received a notification of the fact in question. But by the last sentence the Code leaves open the time and circumstances under which notice or notification may cease to be effective. Therefore, such cases as Graham v. White-Phillips Co., 296 U.S. 27, 56 S.Ct. 21, 80 LEd. 20 (1935), are not overruled.

BB. "Notifies". This is the word used when the essential fact is the proper dispatch of the notice, not its receipt. Compare "Send". When the essential fact is the other party's receipt of the notice, that is stated. The second sentence states when a notification is received.

CC. This makes clear that reason to know, knowledge, or a notification, although "received" for instance by a clerk in Department A of an organization, is effective for a transaction conducted in Department P only from the time when it was or should have been communicated to the individual conducting that transaction.

DD. "Organization". This is the definition of every type of entity or association, excluding an individual, acting as such. The definition of "organization" given here includes a number of entities or associations not specifically mentioned in prior definition of "person", namely, government, governmental subdivision (including tribal enterprise) or agency, business trust, trust and estate.

EE. "Party". Mention of a party includes, of course, a person acting through an agent. However, where an agent comes into opposition or contrast to his principal, particular account is taken of that situation.

FF. "Person". See Comment to definition of "Organization". The reference to § 1-102 is to subsection (E) of that section.

GG. [Omitted]

HH. "Purchase" includes acquisition of property by barter. Barter transfers of property within the "traditional economy" of the Navajo People are purchases under this Code. See also § 1-110.

II. [Omitted]

JJ. "Remedy". The purpose is to make it clear that both remedy and rights (as defined) include those remedial rights of "self help" which are among the most important bodies of rights under this Code, remedial rights being those to which an aggrieved party can resort on his own motion.

KK. [Omitted]

LL. "Rights". See Comment to "Remedy".

MM. "Security Interest". The present definition is elaborated, in view especially of the complete coverage of the subject in Article 9. Notice that in view of the Article the term includes the interest of certain outright buyers of certain kinds of property. The last two sentences give guidance on the question whether reservation of title under a particular lease of personal property is or is not a security interest.

NN. "Send". Compare "notifies".

OO. "Signed". The inclusion of authentication in the definition of "signed" is to make clear that as the term is used in this Code a complete signature is not necessary. Authentication maybe printed, stamped or written; it maybe by initials or by thumbprint. It may be on any part of the document and in appropriate cases may be found in a billhead or letterhead. No catalog of possible authentications can be complete and the court must use common sense and commercial experience in passing upon these matters. The question always is whether the symbol was executed or adopted by the party with present intention to authenticate the writing.

PP-RR. [Omitted]

SS. "Value". Commercial usage has tended to define value as any consideration sufficient to support a simple contract, including the taking of property in satisfaction of or as security for a pre-existing claim. Subsections (A), (B) and (D) in substance continue the definitions of "value" in such commercial usage. Subsection (C) makes explicit that "value" is also given in a third situation: where a buyer by taking delivery under a pre-existing contract converts a contingency into a fixed obligation.

This definition is not applicable to Article 3. A bank or other financing agency which in good faith makes advances against property held as collateral becomes a bona fide purchaser of that property even though provision may be made for charge-back in case of trouble. Checking credit is "immediately available" within the meaning of this section if the bank would be subject to an action for slander of credit in case checks drawn against the credit were dishonored, and when a charge-back is not discretionary with the bank, but may only be made when difficulties in collection arise in connection with the specific transaction involved.

TT. "Warehouse receipt". Receipts issued by a field warehouse are included, provided the warehouseman and the depositor of the goods are different persons.

Special Plain Language Comment

When reading any sections in this Code, it is very important to check to see if any of the terms are defined and to read the definitions of those terms. Unless one reads the definitions, the full meaning of a statute may not be understood.

§ 1-202. Prima facie evidence by third party documents

A document in due form purporting to be a bill of lading, policy or certificate of insurance, official weigher's or inspector's certificate, consular invoice, or any other document authorized or required by the contract to be issued by a third party shall be prima facie evidence of its own authenticity and genuineness and of the facts stated in the document by the third party.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. This section is designed to supply judicial recognition for documents which have traditionally been relied upon as trustworthy by participants in commercial dealings.

2. This section is concerned only with documents which have been given a preferred status by the parties themselves, who have required their procurement in the agreement, and for this reason the applicability of the section is limited to actions arising out of the contract which authorized or required the document. The documents listed are intended to be illustrative and not all inclusive.

3. The provisions of this section go no further than establishing the documents in question as prima facie evidence and leave to the court the ultimate determination of the facts where the accuracy or authenticity of the documents is questioned. In this connection the section calls for a commercially reasonable interpretation.

History

Official Comment

Commentary. This section sets forth a basic principle running throughout this Code. The principle involved is that in commercial transactions good faith is required in the performance and enforcement of all agreements or duties. Particular applications of this general principle appear in specific provisions of the Code such as the option to accelerate at will

5A N.N.C. § 1-203

(§ 1-208), the right to cure a defective delivery of goods (§ 2-508), the duty of a merchant buyer who has rejected goods to effect salvage operations (§ 2-603), substituted performance (§ 2-614), and failure of presupposed conditions (§ 2-615). The concept, however, is broader than any of these illustrations and applies generally, as stated in this section, to the performance or enforcement of every contract or duty within this Code. It is further implemented by § 1-205 on course of dealing and usage of trade.

It is to be noted that under the Sales Article definition of good faith (§ 2-103), contracts made by a merchant have incorporated in them the explicit standard not only of honesty in fact (§ 1-201), but also of observance by the merchant of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing in the trade.

A. Whenever this Code requires any action to be taken within a reasonable time, any time which is not manifestly unreasonable maybe fixed by agreement.

C. An action is taken “seasonably” when it is taken at or within the time agreed or if no time is agreed at or within a reasonable time.

History

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. Subsection (A) recognizes that nothing is stronger evidence of a reasonable time than the fixing of such time by a fair agreement between the parties. However, provision is made for disregarding a clause which whether by inadvertence or overreaching fixes a time so unreasonable that it amounts to eliminating all remedy under the contract. The parties are not required to fix the most reasonable time but may fix any time which is not obviously unfair as judged by the time of contracting.

2. Under the section, the agreement which fixes the time need not be part of the main agreement, but may occur separately. Notice also that under the definition of “agreement” (§ 1-201) the circumstances of the transaction, including course of dealing or usages of trade or course of performance may be material. On the question what is a reasonable time these matters will often be important.

§ 1-205. Course of dealing and usage of trade

A. A course of dealing is a sequence of previous conduct between the parties to a particular transaction which is fairly to be regarded as establishing a common basis of understanding for interpreting their expressions and other conduct.

B. A usage of trade is any practice or method of dealing having such regularity of observance in a place, vocation or trade as to justify an expectation that it will be observed with respect to the transaction in question. The existence and scope of such a usage are to be proved as facts. If it is established that such a usage is embodied in a written trade code or similar writing, the interpretation of the writing is for the court.

C. A course of dealing between parties and any usage of trade in the vocation or trade in which they are engaged or of which they are or should be aware give particular meaning to and supplement or qualify terms of an agreement.

D. The express terms of an agreement and an applicable course of dealing or usage of trade shall be construed wherever reasonable as consistent with each other, but when such construction is unreasonable express terms control both course of dealing and usage of trade and course of dealing controls usage of trade.

E. An applicable usage of trade in the place where any part of performance is to occur shall be used in interpreting the agreement as to that part of the performance.

F. Evidence of a relevant usage of trade offered by one party is not admissible unless and until he has given the other party such notice as the court finds sufficient to prevent unfair surprise to the latter.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. This Code rejects both the "lay-dictionary" and the "conveyancer's" reading of a commercial agreement. Instead, the meaning of the agreement of the parties is to be determined by the language used by them and by their action, read and interpreted in the light of commercial practices and other surrounding circumstances. The measure and background for interpretation are set by the commercial context, which may explain and supplement even the language of a formal or final writing.

2. Course of dealing under subsection (A) is restricted, literally, to a sequence of conduct between the parties previous to the agreement. However, the provisions of the Code on course of performance make it clear that a sequence of conduct after or under the agreement may have equivalent meaning. (§ 2-208.)

3. "Course of dealing" may enter the agreement either by explicit provisions of the agreement or by tacit recognition.

4. This Code deals with "usage of trade" as a factor in reading the commercial meaning of the agreement which the parties have made. The language used is to be interpreted as meaning what it may fairly be expected to mean to parties involved in the particular commercial transaction in a given locality or in a given vocation or trade. By adopting in this context the term "usage of trade" this Code expresses its intent to reject those cases which see evidence of "custom" as representing an effort to displace or negate "established rules of law". A distinction is to be drawn between mandatory rules of law such as the Statute of Frauds provisions of Article 2 on Sales whose very office is to control and restrict the actions of the parties, and which cannot be abrogated by agreement, or by a usage of trade, and those rules of law (such as those in Part 3 of Article 2 on Sales) which fill in points which the parties have not considered and in fact agreed upon. The latter rules hold "unless otherwise agreed" but yield to the contrary agreement of the parties. Part of the agreement of the parties to which such rules yield is to be sought for in the usages of trade which furnish the background and give particular meaning to the language used, and are the framework of common understanding controlling any general rules of law which hold only when there is no such understanding.

5. A usage of trade under subsection (B) must have the "regularity of observance" specified. The ancient English tests for "custom" are abandoned in this connection. Therefore, it is not required that a usage of trade be "ancient or immemorial", "universal" or the like. Under the requirement of subsection (B), full recognition is thus available for new usages and for usages currently observed by the great majority of decent dealers, even though dissidents ready to cut corners do not agree. There is room also for proper recognition of usage agreed upon by merchants in trade codes.

6. The policy of this Code controlling explicit unconscionable contracts and clauses (§§ 1-203, 2-302) applies to implicit clauses which rest on usage of trade and carries forward the policy underlying the ancient requirement that a custom or usage must be "reasonable". However, the emphasis is shifted. The very fact of commercial acceptance makes out a prima facie case that the usage is reasonable, and the burden is no longer on the usage to establish itself as being reasonable. But the anciently established policing of usage by the courts is continued to the extent necessary to cope with the situation arising if an unconscionable or dishonest practice should become standard.

7. Subsection (C), giving the prescribed effect to usages of which the parties "are or should be aware", reinforces the provision of subsection (B) requiring not universality but only the described "regularity of observance" of the practice or method. This subsection also reinforces the point of subsection (B) that such usages may be either general to trade or particular to a special branch of trade.

8. Although the terms in which this Code defines "agreement" include the elements of course of dealing and usage of trade, the fact that express reference is made in some sections to those elements is not to be construed as carrying a contrary intent or implication elsewhere. Compare § 1-102(D).

9. In cases of a well established line of usage varying from the general rules of this Code where the precise amount of the variation has not been worked out into a single standard, the party relying on the usage is entitled, in any event, to the minimum variation demonstrated. The whole is not to be disregarded because no particular line of detail has been established. In case a dominant pattern has been fairly evidenced, the party relying on the usage is entitled under this section to go to the trier of fact on the question of whether such dominant pattern has been incorporated into the agreement.

10. Subsection (F) is intended to insure that this Code's liberal recognition of the needs of commerce in regard to usage of trade shall not be made into an instrument of abuse.

§ 1-206. Statute of Frauds for kinds of personal property not otherwise covered

A. Except in the cases described in subsection (B) of this section, a contract for the sale of personal property is not enforceable by way of action or defense beyond five thousand dollars ($5,000) in amount or value of remedy unless there is some writing which indicates that a contract for sale has been made between the parties at a defined or stated price, reasonably identifies the subject matter, and is signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent.

B. Subsection (A) of this section does not apply to contracts for the sale of goods (§ 2-201) nor to security agreements (§ 9-203).

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Commentary. To fill the gap left by the Statute of Frauds provisions for goods (§ 2-201) and security interests (§ 9-203). The principal gap relates to sale of the "general intangibles" defined in Article 9 (§ 9-106) and to transactions excluded from Article 9 by § 9-104. Typical are the sale of bilateral contracts, royalty rights or the like. The informality normal to such transactions is recognized by lifting the limit for oral transactions to five thousand dollars ($5,000). In such transactions there is often no standard of practice by which to judge, and values can rise or drop without warning; troubling abuses are avoided when the dollar limit is exceeded by requiring that the subject matter be reasonably identified in a signed writing which indicates that a contract for sale has been made at a defined or stated price.

§ 1-207. Performance or acceptance under reservation of rights

A party who with explicit reservation of rights performs or promises performance or assents to performance in a manner demanded or offered by the other party does not thereby prejudice the rights reserved. Such words as “without prejudice”, “under protest” or the like are sufficient.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. This section provides machinery for the continuation of performance along the lines contemplated by the contract despite a pending dispute, by adopting the mercantile device of going ahead with delivery, acceptance, or payment “without prejudice”, “under protest”, “under reserve”, “with reservation of all our rights”, and the like. All of these phrases completely reserve all rights within the meaning of this section. The section therefore contemplates that limited as well as general reservations and acceptance by a party may be made “subject to satisfaction of our purchaser”, “subject to acceptance by our customers”, or the like.

2. This section does not add any new requirement of language of reservation where not already required by law, but merely provides a specific measure on which a party can rely as he makes or concurs in any interim adjustment in the course of performance. It does not affect or impair the provisions of this Code such as those under which the buyer’s remedies for defect survive acceptance without being expressly claimed if notice of the defects is given within a reasonable time. Nor does it disturb the policy of those cases which restrict the effect of a waiver of a defect to reasonable limits under the circumstances, even though no such reservation is expressed.

The section is not addressed to the creation or loss of remedies in the ordinary course of performance but rather to a method of procedure where one party is claiming as of right something which the other feels to be unwarranted.

A term providing that one party or his successor in interest may accelerate payment or performance or require collateral or additional collateral “at will” or “when he deems himself insecure” or in words of similar import shall be construed to mean that he shall have power to do so only if he in good faith believes that the prospect of payment or performance is impaired. The burden of establishing lack of good faith is on the party against whom the power has been exercised.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 1-208 of the Uniform Commercial Code as adopted by the states.

Commentary. The increased use of acceleration clauses either in the case of sales on credit or in time paper or in security transactions has led to some confusion in the cases as to the effect to be given to a clause which seemingly grants the power of an acceleration at the whim and caprice of the party. This section is intended to make clear that despite language which can be so construed and which further might be held to make the agreement void as against public policy or to make the contract illusory or too indefinite for enforcement, the clause means that the option is to be exercised only in the good faith belief that the prospect of payment or performance is impaired.

Obviously, this section has no application to demand instruments or obligations whose very nature permits call at any time with or without reason. This section applies only to an agreement or to paper which in the first instance is payable at a future date.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. Billions of dollars of subordinated debt are held by the public and by institutional investors. Commonly, the subordinated debt is subordinated on issue or acquisition and is evidenced by an investment security or by a negotiable or non-negotiable note. Debt is also sometimes subordinated after it arises, either by agreement between the subordinating creditor and the debtor, by agreement between two creditors of the same debtor, or by agreement of all three parties. The subordinated creditor may be a stockholder or other "insider" interested in the common debtor; the subordinated debt may consist of accounts or other rights to payment not evidenced by any instrument. All such cases are included in the terms "subordinated obligation", "subordination", and "subordinated creditor".

2. Subordination agreements are enforceable between the parties as contracts; and in the bankruptcy of the common debtor dividends otherwise payable to the subordinated creditor are turned over to the superior creditor. This "turn-over" practice has on occasion been explained in terms of "equitable lien", "equitable assignment", or "constructive trust", but whatever the label the practice is essentially an equitable remedy and does not mean that there is a transaction "intended to create a security interest", a "sale of accounts, contract rights or chattel paper", or a "security interest credit by contract", within the meaning of § 9-102. On the other hand, nothing in this section prevents one creditor from assigning his rights to another creditor of the same debtor in such a way as to create a security interest within Article 9, where the parties so intend.

3. The last sentence of this section is intended to negate any implication that the section changes the law. It is intended to be declaratory of pre-existing law. Both the history and the test of Article 9 make it clear that it was not intended to cover subordination agreements. The provisions of § 9-203 for signature by the "debtor" would be entirely unworkable if read to require signature by public holders of subordinated investment securities. The priorities, filing provisions and remedies on default provided by Article 9 would also be largely inappropriate in many situations. The precautionary language § 9-316 preserving subordination of priority by agreement between secured parties points to the conclusion that similar arrangements among unsecured lenders are not covered unless otherwise within the scope of the Article.

4. The enforcement of subordination agreements is largely left to supplementary principles under § 1-103. If the fact of subordination is noted on a negotiable instrument, a holder under §§ 3-302 and 3-306 is subject to the term because notice precludes him from taking free of the subordination. Section 3-302(C)(1) and 3-306 severely limit the rights of levying creditors of a subordinated creditor in such cases.

Special Plain Language Comment

This section recognizes that two or more creditors may agree among themselves who should be paid first, who has first rights to collateral, and who should have the greatest risk of loss, if the debtor is unable to pay all of them. Such agreements are not subject to regulation under Article 9 as security interests.

§ 2-101. Short title

This article shall be known and may be cited as the Navajo Uniform Commercial Code—Sales.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 2-101 of the Uniform Commercial Code adopted by the states.

Commentary. The arrangement of the present Article is in terms of contract for sale and the various steps of its performance. The legal consequences are stated as following directly from the contract and action taken under it without resorting to the idea of when property or title passed or was to pass as being the determining factor. The purpose is to avoid making practical issues between practical men and women turn upon the location of an intangible something, the passing of which no man or woman can prove by evidence and to substitute for such abstractions proof of words and actions of a tangible character.

§ 2-102. Scope; certain security and other transactions excluded from this article

Unless the context otherwise requires, this article applies to transactions in goods; it does not apply to any transaction which although in the form of an unconditional contract to sell or present sale is intended to operate only as a security transaction nor does this article impair or repeal any statute regulating sales to consumers, farmers or other specified classes of buyers.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 2-102 of the Uniform Commercial Code adopted by the states. Certain federal and Navajo statutes regulating trade with Indians should be reviewed to determine their applicability. Transactions with Indians or Indian tribes may also require approval under certain federal and tribal statutes. See 25 U.S.C. §§ 81, 196, 261, 396 et seq. (1976); 25 C.F.R. § 162 (1984); 7 N.N.C. § 204; and titles 3, 5, 18, and 24 of the Navajo Nation Code. "Security transaction" is used in the same sense as in the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9).

Special Plain Language Comment

This section limits the scope of this article to transactions in "goods" (see § 2-105 for the definition of "goods") and distinguishes it from Article 9 which governs "secured transactions" or contracts for services. It also clearly states that special statutes relating to consumers and other groups are not repealed by the Code although the Code may effect such transactions governed by such statutes in areas not regulated by specific statutes.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Changes. The Definitions of “consignee” and “consignor” have been added to the definitions in this section since they are used in Article 2, but normally defined in Article 7 of the Uniform Commercial Code which has not been adopted by the Navajo Nation.

Commentary. 1. The phrase “any legal successor in interest of such person” is not included in the definition of buyer and seller since § 2-210 of this article, which limits some types of delegation of performance on assignment of a sales contract, makes it clear that not every such successor can be safely included in the definition. In every ordinary case, however, such successors are as of course included.

2. “Receipt” must be distinguished from delivery particularly in regard to the problems arising out of shipment of goods, whether or not the contract calls for making delivery by way of documents of title, since the seller may frequently fulfill his obligations to “deliver” even though the buyer may never “receive” the goods. Delivery with respect to documents of title is defined in Article I and requires transfer of physical delivery. Otherwise the many divergent incidents of delivery are handled incident by incident.

§ 2-104. Definitions: “merchant”; “between merchants”; “financing agency”

A. “Merchant” means a person who deals in goods of the kind or otherwise by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices or goods involved in the transaction or to whom such knowledge or skill maybe attributed by his employment of an agent or broker or other intermediary who by his occupation holds himself out as having such knowledge or skill. The definition of merchant shall not include individual artists.

B. “Financing agency” means a bank, finance company or other person who in the ordinary course of business makes advances against goods or documents of title or who by arrangement with either the seller or the buyer intervenes in ordinary course to make or collect payment due or claimed under the contract for sale, as by purchasing or paying the seller’s draft or making advances against it or by merely taking it for collection whether or not documents of title accompany the draft. “Financing agency” includes also a bank or other person who similarly intervenes between persons who are in the position of seller and buyer in respect to the goods (§ 2-707).

C. “Between merchants” means in any transaction with respect to which both parties are chargeable with the knowledge or skill of merchants.

History

CJA-1-86, January 29, 1986.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. This article assumes that transactions between professionals in a given field require special and clear rules which may not apply to a casual or inexperienced seller or buyer. It thus adopts a policy of expressly stating rules applicable “between merchants” and “as against a merchant”, wherever they are needed instead of making them depend upon the circumstances of each case as in the statutes cited above. This section lays the foundation of this Policy by defining those who are to be regarded as professionals or “merchants” and by stating when a transaction is deemed to be “between merchants”.

2. The term “merchant” as defined here roots in the “law merchant” concept of a professional in business. The professional status under the definition may be based upon specialized knowledge as to the goods, specialized knowledge as to business practices, or specialized knowledge as to both and which kind of specialized knowledge may be sufficient to establish the merchant status is indicated by the nature of the provisions.

The special provisions as to merchants appear only in this article and they are of three kinds. Sections 2-201(B), 2-205, 2-207 and 2-209 dealing with the Statute of Frauds, firm offers, confirmatory memoranda and modification rest on normal business practices which are or ought to be typical of and familiar to any person in business. For purposes of these sections almost every person in business would, therefore, be deemed to be a “merchant” under the language, “who . . . by his occupation holds himself out as having knowledge or skill peculiar to the practices . . . involved in the transaction . . .”, since the practices involved in the transaction are non-specialized business practices such as answering mail. In this type of provision, banks or even universities, for example, well may be “merchants”. But even these sections only apply to a merchant in his mercantile capacity; a lawyer or bank president buying fishing tackle for his own use is not a merchant.

On the other hand, in § 2-314 on the warranty of merchantability, such warranty is implied only “if the seller is a merchant with respect to goods of that kind”. Obviously this qualification restricts the implied warranty to a much smaller group than everyone who is engaged in business and requires a professional status as to particular kinds of goods. Similarly in § 2-312(C) the warranty that the goods are delivered free of any rightful claim of a third party is limited to those who are dealing in the goods of that kind. The exception in § 2-402(B) for retention of possession by a merchant-seller falls in the same class; as does § 2-403(B) on entrusting of possession to a merchant “who deals in goods of that kind”.

A third group of sections includes § 2-103(A)(2), which provides that in the case of a merchant, “good faith” includes observance of reasonable commercial standards of fair dealing in the trade; §§ 2-327(A)(3), 2-603 and 2-605, dealing with responsibilities of merchant buyers to follow seller’s instructions, etc.; 2-509 on risk of loss, and 2-609 on adequate assurance of performance. This group of sections applies to persons who are merchants under either the “practices” or the “goods” aspect of the definition of merchant.

3. Individual artists generally do not have the familiarity with business customs such as firm offer (§ 2-205) and confirmatory memorandum (§ 2-207) which is assumed by § 2-104(A). Accordingly, individual artists are not considered merchants.

The determination of whether a farmer (or a rancher) is a merchant under the Code should consider the following factors: quantity and dollar amount of the transactions, the frequency and length of time which the farmer (or rancher) had engaged in selling the crops (or livestock) in the transaction, whether it was his principal crop (or type of livestock), and the farmer’s (or rancher’s) familiarity with the market in which the crop (or livestock) is sold. A farmer (or rancher) shall not be considered a merchant under the Code if the transaction involves the isolated sale of his own crops (or livestock). See Fear Ranches, Inc. v. Berry, 470 F.2d 905 (10th Cir. 1972).

4. The “or to whom such knowledge or skill may be attributed by his employment of an agent or broker . . .” clause of the definition of merchant means that even persons such as universities, for example, can come within the definition of merchant if they have regular purchasing departments or business personnel who are familiar with business practices and who are equipped to take any action required.

This section defines merchants as those who are either: (i) familiar with general business practices; or (ii) familiar with a particular good because they deal in it regularly. Merchants are generally held to higher standards of conduct. A person’s status as a merchant depends on the type of transaction and the goods involved.

A. “Goods” means all things (including specially manufactured goods) which are movable at the time of identification to the contract for sale other than the money in which the price is to be paid, investment securities and things in action. “Goods” also includes the unborn young of animals and growing crops and other identified things attached to realty as described in the section on goods to be severed from realty (§ 2-107).

B. Goods must be both existing and identified before any interest in them can pass. Goods which are not both existing and identified are “future” goods. A purported present sale of future goods or of any interest therein operates as a contract to sell.

C. There may be a sale of a part interest in existing identified goods.

D. An undivided share in an identified bulk of fungible goods is sufficiently identified to be sold although the quantity of the bulk is not determined. Any agreed proportion of such a bulk or any quantity thereof agreed upon by number, weight or other measure may to the extent of the seller’s interest in the bulk be sold to the buyer who then becomes an owner in common.

E. “Lot” means a parcel or a single article which is the subject matter of a separate sale or delivery, whether or not it is sufficient to perform the contract.

F. “Commercial unit” means such a unit of goods as by commercial usage is a single whole for purposes of sale and division of which materially impairs its character or value on the market or in use. A commercial unit maybe a single article (as a machine) or a set of articles (as a suite of furniture or an assortment of sizes) or a quantity (as a bale, gross, or carload) or any other unit treated in use or in the relevant market as a single whole.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 2-105 of the Uniform Commercial Code adopted by the states. In certain circumstances goods attached to the land may be considered trust property and thus subject to certain trusteeship obligations of the federal government.

Commentary. 1. The definition of "goods" is based on the concept of movability. It is not intended to deal with things which are not fairly identifiable as moveables before the contract is performed.

Growing crops are included within the definition of goods since they are frequently intended for sale. The young of animals are also included expressly in this definition since they, too, are frequently intended for sale and may be contracted for before birth. The period of gestation of domestic animals is such that the provisions of the section of identification can apply as in the case of crops to be planted. The reason for this definition also leads to the inclusion of a wool crop or the like as "goods" subject to identification under this article.

The exclusion of "money in which the price is to be paid" from the definition of goods does not mean that foreign currency which is included in the definition of money may not be the subject matter of a sales transaction. Goods is intended to cover the sale of money when money is being treated as a commodity but not to include it when money is the medium of payment.

As to contracts to sell timber, minerals, or structures to be removed from the land § 2-107(A) controls.

The use of the word "fixtures" is avoided in view of the diversity of definitions of that term. This article in including within its scope "things attached to realty" adds the further test that they must be capable of severance without material harm thereto. As between the parties any identified things which fall within that definition become "goods" upon the making of the contract for sale. "Things attached to realty" may be considered, in some instances, trust property and thus subject to certain limitations on transfer by the federal government. See 25 U.S.C. §§ 81, 196, 261, 396, 406, 407, 635, 2101 (1984) See also F. Cohen, Handbook of federal Indian Law (1982).

"Investment securities" are expressly excluded from the coverage of this article. It is not intended by this exclusion, however, to prevent the application of a particular section of this article by analogy to securities when the reason of that section makes such application sensible and the situation is not governed by Article 8 of the Uniform Commercial Code (Article 8 of the Uniform Commercial Code has not been adopted by the Navajo Nation); the rights of parties which would be governed under Article 8 are governed by Navajo law pursuant to 7 N.N.C. § 204.

2. References to the fact that a contract for sale can extend to future or contingent goods and that ownership in common follows the sale of apart interest have been omitted here as obvious without need for expression; hence no inference to negate these principles should be drawn from their omission.

3. Subsection (D) does not touch the question of how far an appropriation of a bulk of fungible goods may or may not satisfy the contract for sale.

4. Subsections (E) and (F) on "lot" and "commercial unit" are introduced to aid in the phrasing of later Sections.

5. The question of when an identification of goods takes place is determined by the provisions of § 2-501 and all that this section says is what kinds of goods may be the subject of a sale.

Special Plain Language Comment

This section defines “goods”, which are the subject of Article 2. The definition is based on the “movability” of the goods. The Code distinguishes between goods presently in existence and identifiable and those either not presently in existence or not identifiable; the latter, “future” goods, are not insurable and may not be claimed by the buyer upon the seller’s insolvency.

§ 2-106. Definitions: “contract”; “agreement”; “contract for sale”; “sale”; “present sale”; “conforming to contract”; “termination”; “cancellation”

A. In this article, unless the context otherwise requires “contract” and “agreement” are limited to those relating to the present or future sale of goods. “Contract for sale” includes both a present sale of goods and a contract to sell goods at a future time. A “sale” consists in the passing of title from the seller to the buyer for a price (§ 2-401). A “present sale” means a sale which is accomplished by the making of the contract.

B. Goods or conduct including any part of a performance are “conforming” or conform to the contract when they are in accordance with the obligations under the contract.

C. “Termination” occurs when either party pursuant to a power created by agreement or law puts an end to the contract otherwise than for its breach. On “termination” all obligations which are still executory on both sides are discharged but any right based on prior breach or performance survives.

D. “Cancellation” occurs when either party puts an end to the contract for breach by the other and its effect is the same as that of termination except that the cancelling party also retains any remedy for breach of the whole contract or any unperformed balance.

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 2-106 of the Uniform Commercial Code adopted by the states.

Commentary. 1. Subsection (A): “Contract for sale” is used as a general concept throughout this article, but the rights of the parties do not vary according to whether the transaction is a present sale or a contract to sell unless the Article expressly so provides. See § 2-501.

2. Subsection (B): It is in general intended to continue the policy of requiring exact performance by the seller of his obligations as a condition to his right to require acceptance. However, the seller is in part safeguarded against surprise as a result of sudden technicality on the buyer’s part by the provisions of § 2-508 on seller’s cure of improper tender or delivery. Moreover usage of trade frequently permits commercial leeway in performance and the language of the agreement itself must be read in the light of such custom or usage and also, prior course of dealing, and in a long term contract, the course of performance.

3. Subsections (C) and (D): These subsections are intended to make clear the distinction carried forward throughout this article between termination and cancellation.

Special Plain Language Comment

The definition of agreement and contract limit the application of Article 2 to contracts involving goods, rather than all contracts. The next definition, “conforming goods”, expresses the rule that sellers must provide the goods exactly as ordered (although certain exceptions are later found in the Code).

§ 2-107. Goods to be severed from realty: recording

A. A contract for the sale of minerals or the like (including oil and gas) or a structure or its materials to be removed from realty is a contract for the sale of goods within this article if they are to be severed by the seller but until severance, a purported present sale thereof which is not effective as a transfer of an interest in land is effective only as a contract to sell.

B. A contract for the sale apart from the land of growing crops or other things attached to realty and capable of severance without material harm thereto but not described in subsection (A) or of timber to be cut is a contract for the sale of goods within this article whether the subject matter is to be severed by the buyer or by the seller even though it forms part of the realty at the time of contracting, and the parties can by identification effect a present sale before severance.

C. The provisions of this section are subject to the trust responsibilities of the federal government. The provisions of this section are also subject to any third party rights provided by the law relating to realty records. The contract for sale may be executed and recorded as a document transferring an interest in land and shall then constitute notice to third parties of the buyer’s rights under the contract for sale.

Official Comment

Commentary. 1. Notice that subsection (A) applies only if the minerals or structures “are to be severed by the seller”. If the buyer is to sever, such transactions are considered contracts affecting land and all problems of the Statute of Frauds and of land rights apply to them. Therefore, the Statute of Frauds section of this article does not apply to such contracts though they must conform to the Statute of Frauds affecting the transfer of interests in land.

2. “Things attached” to the realty which can be severed without material harm are goods within this article regardless of who is to effect the severance. The word “fixtures” has been avoided because of the diverse definitions of this term, the test of “severance without material harm” being substituted. In some cases fixtures may be considered trust property and, thus, subject to the trust obligation and regulations of the federal government. The federal government may have to approve certain contracts relating to such goods. (For minerals see 25 U.S.C. §§ 396-400a, 635 and 2101 et seq., and 18 N.N.C. § 1 et seq.; for timber see 25 U.S.C. §§ 196, 406 and 407) See generally 25 U.S.C. §§ 81, 261 (1976) See also § 9-313 and F. Cohen, Handbook of federal Indian Law (1982).

The provision in subsection (C) for recording such contracts is within the purview of this article since it is a means of preserving the buyer’s rights under the contract of sale.

3. The security phases of things attached to or to become attached to realty are dealt with in the Article on Secured Transactions (Article 9) and it is to be noted that the definition of goods in that Article differs from the definition of goods in this article. However, both Articles treat as goods growing crops and also timber to be cut under a contract of severance.

This section provides that only minerals severed by the seller are subject to this article, but that timber and growing crops are subject to this article whether severed by the seller or buyer.

Part 2. Form, Formation and Readjustment of Contract

§ 2-201. Formal requirements; Statute of Frauds

A. Except as otherwise provided in this section a contract for sale of goods for the price of five hundred dollars ($500.00) or more is not enforceable by way of action or defense unless there is some writing sufficient to indicate that a contract for sale has been made between the parties and signed by the party against whom enforcement is sought or by his authorized agent or broker. A writing is not insufficient because it omits or incorrectly states a term agreed upon, but the contract is not enforceable under this paragraph beyond the quantity of goods shown in such writing.

B. Between merchants if within reasonable time a writing in confirmation of the contract and sufficient against the sender is received and the party receiving it has reason to know its contents, it satisfies the requirements of subsection (A) against such party unless written notice of objection to its contents is given within ten (10) days after it is received . .

C. A contract which does not satisfy the requirements of subsection (A) but which is valid in other respects is enforceable:

1. If the goods are to be specially manufactured for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business and the seller, before notice of repudiation is received and under circumstances which reasonably indicate that the goods are for the buyer, has made either a substantial beginning of their manufacture or commitments for their procurement; or

2. If the party against whom enforcement is sought admits in his pleading, testimony or otherwise in court that a contract for sale was made, but the contract is not enforceable under this provision beyond the quantity of goods admitted; or

3. With respect to goods for which payment has been made and accepted or which have been received and accepted (§ 2-606).

D. This section does not apply to certain types of transactions involving solely barter (see § 1-110).

Official Comment

Changes. This section is intended to have the same meaning and effect as § 2-201 of the Uniform Commercial Code adopted by the states.

Commentary. 1. The required writing need not contain all the material terms of the contract and such materials terms as are stated need not be precisely stated. All that is required is that the writing afford a basis for believing that the offered oral evidence rests on a real transaction. It may be written in lead pencil on a scratch pad. It need not indicate which party is the buyer and which the seller. The only term which must appear is the quantity term which need not be accurately stated but recovery is limited to the amount stated. The price, time and place of payment or delivery, the general quality of the goods, or any particular warranties may all be omitted.

Special emphasis must be placed on the permissibility of omitting the price term in view of the insistence of some courts on the express inclusion of this term even where the parties have contracted on the basis of a published price list. In many valid contracts for sale the parties do not mention the price in express terms, the buyer being bound to pay and the seller to accept a reasonable price which the trier of fact may well be trusted to determine. Again, frequently the price is not mentioned since the parties have based their agreement on a price list or catalogue known to both of them and this list serves as an efficient safeguard against perjury. Finally, "market" prices and valuations that are current in the vicinity constitute a similar check. Thus if the price is not stated in the memorandum it can normally be supplied without danger of fraud. Of course if the "price" consists of goods rather than money the quantity of goods must be stated.

Only three definite and invariable requirements as to the memorandum are made by this subsection. First, it must evidence a contract for the sale of goods; second, it must be "signed", a word which includes any authentication which identifies that party to be charged; and third, it must specify a quantity.

2. "Partial performance" as a substitute for the required memorandum can validate the contract only for the goods which have been accepted or for which payment has been made and accepted.

Receipt and acceptance either of goods or of the price constitutes an unambiguous overt admission by both parties that a contract actually exists. If the court can make a just apportionment, therefore, the agreed price of any goods actually delivered can be recovered without a writing or, if the price has been paid, the seller can be forced to deliver an apportionable part of the goods. The overt actions of the parties make admissible evidence of the other terms of the contract necessary to a just apportionment. This is true even though the actions of the parties are not in themselves inconsistent with a different transaction such as a consignment for resale or a mere loan of money.

Part performance by the buyer requires the delivery of something by him that is accepted by the seller as such performance. Thus, part payment may be made by money or check, accepted by the seller. If the agreed price consists of goods or services, then they must also have been delivered and accepted.
